BUSINESS BETTER, ASSERTS HOOVER

Considers Fight Against Depression Won; Lauds Loyalty of Leaders

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

(Written immediately following a talk with President Hoover at the White House of more than one hour's duration.)

WASHINGTON, March 17.—An intimate view into President Herbert C. Hoover's high adventure in guiding business back toward prosperity was obtained at the White House Saturday. Since the panic, the Chief Executive has sought to pit organized intelligence and the spirit of voluntary co-operation between government and business against the blind forces threatening to disrupt economic well-being.

President Hoover is confident that business is on the upgrade. He feels that the rate of improvement has been far more rapid than in comparable cycles in the past. He regards the immediate present as 3 o'clock in the morning in the business situation—the darkness just before the dawn that comes with spring.

Fears Dissipated

WITHOUT ostentation, the President continues to watch the details of the business situation with hawk-like attention. He has been at his desk on Saturdays as on other days. The President has found it necessary to work 12 hours a day to handle his job, despite a disposition to delegate tasks wherever feasible.

A tentative appraisal of the results attained in the four months since President Hoover initiated the November conferences with big business and labor leaders indicates the value of having in the White House in time of economic stress an economist and an engineer, who readily and expertly speaks the language of business.

The engineer in politics undertook to check the forces of business anarchy, and to stimulate leaders to give new impulses to purchasing power and trade advancement.

Unquestionably, the emotional despair and unreasoning fears which followed the stock market collapse have long since been dissipated, and business opinion has turned to conjecture as to how much prosperity the country will have during the remainder of the year.

President Pleased

IT was learned at the White House that the President is especially pleased with the manner in which business executives and labor leaders have fulfilled the pledges made during the November conferences with the executive. The character of recent construction activities, it is felt, has been radically influenced. The public utilities, including the railroads, have not only avoided retrenchment in their expansion programs, but have set new high records since the first of the year in construction activities.

The President sees evidence in the performance of the promises to speed up necessary construction work—to build bridges now instead of a year from now—in the capacity business now being handled by the railroad equipment and electrical equipment and machinery companies. Statistics show that public works and public utility construction since the beginning of the year have risen to an unprecedented peak, whereas other types of building have declined. White House reports indicate improvement in demand for automobiles and even a pick up in radio buying.

Co-ordination Cited

OTHER fruits of voluntary co-ordination of the best judgment of the administration and its business allies, it is felt at the White House, includes:

1—Improvement in business sentiment.

2—The marked decline in interest rates under the leadership of the Federal Reserve System, thus alleviating financial fears and pressure and obviating unreasonable runs on banks.

3—Federal tax reduction.

4—Maintenance of hourly wages of labor, which tended to keep up purchasing power, and an absence of industrial warfare. The program has also included the stag-

COURT HALTS NEW METRO VOTE

MAE WEST

MAE WEST PERT FACING JUDGE

NEW YORK, March 17.—(INS.)—"Broadway" Mae West faced a year in jail today with a "says you" look in her big blue eyes.

A study in blonde hair and black satin, Miss West, with 58 other defendants, went on trial, charged with "giving an indecent performance" in the play "Pleasure Man."

The blonde actress pleaded "not guilty" with her hands on her hips.

Dressed in a black costume, from shoe tips to turban, with a silver fox fur piece, a triple strand of jet black beads about her pale throat, Mae was ready for the jury. A blue-ribbon panel of 150 talesmen was on hand.

Nathan Burkan, Miss West's attorney, filed a challenge because, he said, "a blue ribbon jury is apt to be narrow minded, undemocratic and recruited from the privileged class." His challenge was denied.

Mae is no amateur in a courtroom. She "played" the city prison for 10 days in 1927 following her conviction for participating in a theatrical performance of "Sex."

Only a dozen of the defendants were in the courtroom when the trial began and Prosecutor James G. Wallace objected to their absence. Their lawyer explained some were on the road with traveling companies while others had joined the Navy.

Yellow and Green Companies Prepare to Resume Service After Parley With Mayor

Taxicab service will be resumed at 8 a. m. tomorrow by the Yellow and Green Cab companies, whose drivers are on strike, Mayor Charles H. Kline announced this afternoon, following a conference with company officials. Deputy sheriqs will ride with the drivers and notices will be placed on the cab windows that a strike is on, the mayor said. Operations will center at three railroad stations.

Meanwhile the strikers went ahead with plans to extend operations of a union cab company. From their headquarters at 1711 Liberty avenue, a property belonging to Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church and used as a relief center for the strikers, the DAVIS-GRUNDY WORRY G. O. P.

State leaders today are frankly worried as they prepared for a bitter factional fight in the Republican organization precipitated by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis' candidacy for senator in opposition to Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown, who will be Davis' running mate, as candidate for governor, will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow night. He was reported coming here on legal business, but it was believed he would confer with local leaders expected to support the Davis-Brown ticket.

QUALIFICATIONS TOLD

Davis' announcement, made in Pittsburgh yesterday, declared he was qualified for the senatorship by reason of an intimate knowledge of state and national government acquired in nine years' service as secretary of labor under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

"I have worked earnestly for benefit of man, woman, and child," he stated.

As a member of the cabinet, he was in daily touch with all questions affecting capital and labor and has been called upon to make hundreds of decisions, important to both, Davis averred.

BACKED BY VARE

He stated that he has been a constant supporter of a protective tariff that would insure the prosperity of farmers, industrial workers and business men.

Davis made no reference to an alignment with other candidates, but it is generally accepted that he would run on a ticket including former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown, of Phila-

Jailmates Say Irene Boasted Of Gun Battles and Alibi Defense to Escape Chair

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 17.—Irene Schroeder admitted shooting an officer after the holdup of a Butler store, two of her former cellmates in the Phoenix (Ariz.) girl testified today at the trial of the blonde, charged with slaying Corp. Brady Paul.

"I told him to back up," Irene said, Mrs. Mattie Jackson, Negro, testified, "and when he didn't back up like I told him, I shot and he grabbed at his side."

Mrs. Rose Smith corroborated Mrs. Jackson's story.

Mrs. Jackson said Irene told her she first learned the identity and death of Paul when she read in a paper that her 4-year-old son Donnie had informed authorities, "My mamma shot two cops." She fired three shots at Paul and two at Pvt. Ernest Moore, the blonde asserted, the witness testified.

SHOOTING DESCRIBED

Mrs. Jackson testified that she was in jail awaiting trial on a charge of possessing narcotics when Irene was brought into her cell. She later was acquitted, she said.

"What are you in for?" the witness asked the blonde, she testified.

"Plenty," was the reply, Mrs. Jackson said. When pressed for details, the witness said Irene told her about the holdup at Butler and the shooting.

"If I go back to Pennsylvania I'll get the hot seat, for I killed an officer," Irene was quoted as telling the witness.

She also asserted "Tom was with us and fired several shots from the rear seat of the car dur-

Court Rules Against Income Tax Pools

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court held today that an agreement between man and wife pooling their property and income, and providing that they should have equal rights in the property and income so pooled, does not permit each to make a separate federal tax return for one half of the total compensation received by them for personal services.

STATE BENCH REJECTS APPEAL

Plan Must Be Returned to Legislature for Action; County Judges Upheld

The metropolitan charter plan, once rejected by Allegheny County voters, cannot be resubmitted to another vote before being referred back to the State Legislature, Justice Alexander Simpson, Jr., of the Supreme Court, held today.

This opinion upholds the decision of the lower courts, which had been appealed by the County of Allegheny.

HOPES SHATTERED

Thus vanishes the possibility that the plan for a Greater Pittsburgh would be submitted at the primary election in May.

And with the decision are shattered the hopes that Pittsburgh would receive the metro-plan census in the 1930 figures which would have placed this city among the first half-dozen in the country.

Justice Simpson held that the Legislature never had authorized a resubmission of the plan under the control of any other agency than itself.

COMMISSIONERS HALTED

Judge James R. Macfarlane, of the Common Pleas bench, had held that the county commissioners were without authority to place the plan before the voters again. The commissioners were joined in their efforts to resubmit the plan by the Metropolitan Plan Commissioner.

The plan received a majority vote from the voters last June, but the constitutional provision required a two-thirds majority in a majority of the municipalities, which was not obtained.

NOBLEMAN DIES AFTER SLAYING

CAMBRIDGE, O., March 17.—(AP.)—A man who police said was Sir Charles Gilman-Adair, 37, died today of bullet wounds self-inflicted after he shot his foster-mother, Mrs. Mary Troette, 83, to death last night.

Police said the shooting followed a refusal of Mrs. Troette to a request for money. The bodies were found by Mrs. Gilman-Adair.

Mrs. Troette, widow of Judge John A. Troette, had been wounded by four bullets.

Police said Gilman-Adair was the son of a London couple and had been taken into the Troette home when a small child.

Pittsburgh Area Tax Reflects Prosperity

The Pittsburgh district was more prosperous in 1929 than in the preceding year, income tax returns show.

Although Collector of Internal Revenue D. B. Heiner had expected a decrease in the amount collected, he announced today that late tabulations had proved a big surprise and that the total tax showed an increase over collections for 1928.

Many big returns were filed at the last minute Saturday.

SEES NO HELP IN MILD BEER

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Chairman Wickersham, chairman of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission, said today he did not think the proposal for 2.75 per cent alcohol in beer would meet the prohibition problem.

The commission chairman made this statement at the Capitol in talking with newspaper correspondents after he had appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Norris proposal for an investigation of prohibition enforcement.

He had been asked by the correspondents for his views on the Dyer proposal to permit the sale of such beer.

Before the Senate committee, Wickersham said he could see no good in the suggestion that the Senate investigate prohibition enforcement.

Senator Norris remarked after the committee session:

"There is still room for improvement in prohibition enforcement."

He gave notice that he would

Hoover Will Spend Sunday on Rapidan

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Even though the trout season will not open until April 1, President Hoover has decided to make his first visit of the year to the Rapidan River fishing camp in the Virginia Mountains this week-end. A. P. Moore's Will Filed; Estate Near Million

The personal estate of Alexander P. Moore, late ambassador to Poland, is worth at least $500,000, according to his will, filed for probate in Pittsburgh today, and containing the expected bequests to Queen Victoria, of Spain and Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the Italian tenor.

The personal property is valued at more than $500,000 and the real estate at $3,800. When an inventory of the estate is taken it is not unlikely that the estimate of the personal property will be increased, possibly to $1,000,000.

The outstanding bequests were, as has already been told by the Sun-Telegraph, $100,000 to the late ambassador's friend, the Queen of Spain, for her charities among the poor and sick of Spain, and $25,000 to Mrs. Caruso, in whose two children Mr. Moore was greatly interested.

One of these children, Gloria Caruso, is a daughter of the late singer and the other is Jacqueline Ingram, a child of Mrs. Caruso's second marriage to Capt. E. A. Ingram, of the British army, which ended in divorce.

To Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the famed Lillian Russell, the ambassador's wife, Mr. Moore gave $1,000.

The will was filed by the Union Trust Company, executor.

Says She Is Gaby Deslys' Child, Claims Millions

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 17.—(AP.)—A vivid cross-shaped scar on the little finger of her left hand today became the clue upon which Mrs. Edna C. Stiles, of Pasadena, Cal., hopes to solve the mystery of her parentage and make her heiress to the reputed $2,000,000 estate of Gaby Deslys, noted French dancer, who died in 1920.

A. W. McGovney, Cardena, Cal., attorney, announced he had forwarded claims intended to prove the Pasadena woman's contention that she is a child of the dancer, to Paris courts where the estate is being settled.

An aged French nurse said the dancer years ago gave secret birth to a baby girl. A few hours after the baby was born, the nurse said, she cut a cross into the flesh of the little finger of the child's left hand, for identification.

The dancer, the nurse testified, instructed the baby be placed in a foundling home. A man is said to have left a tiny baby, its finger still wrapped in gauze, in a Peoria, Ill., children's home.

Mrs. Edna L. Miltner, it is alleged, then adopted the child, the present Mrs. Stiles.

Gaby Deslys, in 1910, flashed into the spotlight when the fall of King Manuel, of Portugal, was attributed to his infatuation for her.

Irene's Plan to Use Donnie In Establishing Alibi to Escape Chair Revealed

ing the fight," according to Mrs. Jackson. "Tom," according to the commonwealth, is Irene's brother, Tom Crawford, who has never been apprehended.

Irene told the witness, the latter testified, that she and Dague took Donnie to West Virginia so they might be able to establish an alibi in event they were arrested.

Irene said she was going to "beat the trap with an alibi," the witness testified.

Mrs. Jackson testified that Irene told her of her flight across the country after leaving her son at her father's home in West Virginia.

"She said they went through Kentucky," the witness asserted.

"DOUBLE-CROSS" THREAT

Mrs. Jackson also testified that Irene had told her of the gun battle in St. Louis. She told her she still had the officer's gun which she and Dague took from him, the witness declared.

The whole story of the kidnaping of Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman in Florence and the gun fight in Chandler was repeated as having come from Irene.

"If I had known Chapman had intended to double-cross us instead of directing us out of the country I would have shot him," the blonde told the witness, she said. Mrs. Jackson said she told her story to Sheriff Charles H. Wright the night Irene and Dague started back to New Castle.

Irene told her, Mrs. Jackson said, that she wanted to get to Pittsburg, Cal., where her husband, Donnie's father, was living.

Irene shouldered the blame when captured in the desert fastness after a gun battle, an Arizona deputy sheriff testified.

"Don't be rough with him. I'm the cause of all this," Irene said in an effort to shield her sweetheart, W. Glenn Dague, when they, along with Joe Wells, ex-Oklahoma convict, were taken, according to testimony of Deputy Hans Coor.

SURRENDER DETAILED

Coor detailed the surrender of the three after they had been trailed across the Gila River and had taken refuge behind rocks on the mountain side. The fugitives kept up a brisk fire on the officers, the witness said.

Oscar Roberts, Jack Carter and an Indian boy, "Sun Dust," climbed around the hiding place of Irene and her companions and ordered them out of their ambush, Coor testified.

Coor told of finding two guns in the place of ambush. One of the weapons Coor identified as the one State Highway Patrolman Ernest Moore declared was taken from him in the battle on the Butler-New Castle road, last December 27, when he was wounded and his fellow officer, Paul, was slain.

SHERIFF RECALLED

The other revolver had been taken from William Keissling, Missouri state policeman, in St. Louis on January 4, when he tried to intercept Irene and Dague in their westward flight. Moore's gun, Coor testified, was found near Wells, and that of Keisaling near Dague and the blonde.

Sheriff Wright was recalled at this morning's session to identify fingerprints of Irene made in Arizona.

The sherriff testified that Irene had been taken from her cell a number of times for questioning, with the purpose of obtaining a confession. None was obtained, he said.

PHONE CALL FROM DONNIE

Sheriff Wright was asked by Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti if he knew anything about a telephone conversation between Irene and her 4-year-old son, Donnie Schroeder. The sheriff testified he has received a telephone call from New Castle and when he answered the phone there was a child on the other end. He was told that the boy wished to talk to Irene.

Irene said "Hello," to the boy, then put down the receiver and demanded: "What's it all about?" Wright testified.

Asked if third-degree methods had been used in an effort to obtain a confession from Irene, Sheriff Wright replied indignantly, "I most certainly did not do so. I never mistreated a prisoner in my life. There's no third degree in Arizona."

DEFENSE UNREVEALED

Nothing definite has been learned as to the possible line of defense, but from the line of cross-examination of several of the commonwealth witnesses, it is believed that Irene's attorneys will attempt to prove an alibi, at least for the day before the shooting of Paul, when the state maintains the blonde and her sweetheart were in New Castle.

"We are positive the defendant was never in New Castle that day," Kedgewin H. Powell, one of the attorneys for the defense, declared, "and we will have no trouble proving our contention."

"There are other things about our defense which will surprise the prosecution," he continued, but declined to reveal them.

Ella Kirber Resch, Youngstown newspaper woman, jailed Saturday for contempt of court for refusing to answer a question concerning "Irene's Life Story," spent the week-end in the Lawrence County jail, despite the efforts of attorneys employed by publishers to obtain her release on a writ of habeas corpus.

She must remain in jail until purged of contempt, according to Pennsylvania laws, which means, according to Judge R. L. Hildebrand, she must remain incarcerated until she answers the question.

TOLEDO HOLDUP

Two more witnesses arrived last night. They will tell how in Toledo, Irene and Dague, it is said, debated whether to shoot them after a holdup. Dague, it is said, when near capture in pursuit, held up the occupants of another automobile and took their machine.

Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti, upon returning from his home at Punxsutawney last night, indicated he would be ready to rest the state's case tomorrow night should there be a night session. He appeared refreshed from his visit home over the week-end and said he was much relieved to learn upon his return home Saturday that his 8-month-old son was much improved. The baby had been reported near death Saturday from pneumonia.

press his resolution for the inquiry.

It was the opinion of Norris that Wickersham had not opposed the Senate investigation, and that he had held a Senate investigation would not seriously affect prohibition enforcement.

Wickersham said after the committee meeting:

"Our commission naturally could not suggest to the Senate what it should do in the way of an investigation. I felt that the pending legislation dealt with the subject so adequately that it hardly seemed necessary that an investigation should be made."

He urged, instead, that the Senate pass the House bill to transfer the dry enforcement machinery from the Treasury to the Justice Department. This transfer was recommended by the commission.

Wickershaw insisted there had been a "steady improvement" in the dry law enforcement of recent months. He said the commission probably would make another report to Congress before the session ends on its investigations into prohibition.

YANKEE GORED IN BULL FIGHT

MADRID, March 17.—(INS.)—Sydney Franklin, the only American matador to fight in the bull rings of Spain, lies seriously wounded today, gored by a vicious animal in the first appearance of the Sunday spectacle in Madrid Arena.

Waving his cape, Franklin had stepped aside and attempted to pivot to bring himself into position for a sword thrust. In the moment that the American's back was turned, the bull caught him on one horn and tossed him in the air. In the descent the other horn pierced the matador's groin.

Other members of the cuadrilla drove the maddened beast away and hurried Franklin to the hospital.

Franklin still was alive at dawn today after a very grave night.

Several times before his injury Franklin, who comes from Brooklyn, told friends that if he was ever gored he nevertheless would attempt to continue his career in the bull ring.

Although his injuries are of a most disfiguring and serious nature his doctors said that if he lived it was barely possible he would be able to fight again in the arena.

GREEN TURNS DOWN MINE REBELS

Federation Head Aligns Self With Lewis; Chaos Seen in New Uprising

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 17.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today squarely aligned himself with the John L. Lewis administration of the United Mine Workers of America in the miners' union revolt.

Addressing the thirty-first International Mine Workers' convention which is in session here while the insurgents of the union are meeting at Springfield, Ill., Green brought the 1,075 delegates cheering to their feet with this statement:

"I am glad to come in my official capacity to show you and the world that the American Federation of Labor recognizes only one miners' union as having jurisdiction. Please interpret my presence here as evidence of that solemn pact."

STANDS BY UNION

Reviewing the admission of the United Mine Workers of America into the American Federation of Labor in 1890, Green said:

"So far as I am concerned as a spokesman of the American Federation of Labor, the covenant made in 1890 will be kept now."

Tremendous and prolonged applause greeted these words of the labor chieftain.

Green took this occasion to score severely the present tendency toward forming rival unions.

"Chaos would exist if this movement were supported," he declared.

The American Federation of Labor never has admitted and never would admit rebellious union miners to its organization, Green said.

The A. F. of L. president pointed out that union constitutions provide instruments in the hands of delegates and union members sufficiently flexible to make any changes in the union that may be desired.

MEMBER 30 YEARS

"I have been a member of the United Mine Workers for 30 years and have attended every convention," Green declared. "I was not always in accord as a delegate with the administrative forces, but we believed in the rule of majority. When a verdict was rendered I accepted that verdict as the judgment of my union. Eventually we triumphed. We changed the personnel of the administrative forces. This demonstrates that the instruments in the hands of the delegates are sufficiently flexible to make any changes in the organization desired. Although I am president of the American Federation of Labor I am still the same old miner I was when I worked in the mine."

Another thundering burst of cheers greeted this statement.

Green pleaded with the miners for unity and harmony and expressed the hope that all union men would settle their differences. He pointed out that the A. F. of L. would take no part in "family quarrels" unless called upon.

The convention entered its second week as it was called to order this morning.

Lewis today was still in the favor of the convention delegates today, despite bitter attacks made against him.

leaders announced that 75 standard sedans would be put in operation as taxis tonight and tomorrow.

Another cab company also is in the process of formation. The Hiland Taxi Company, backed by auto dealers, is applying today for a charter of incorporation to the Corporation Bureau at Harrisburg, and, according to the sponsors, expects to file with the Public Service Commission within the next few days an application for a certificate of public convenience permitting the company to operate cabs.

RED CAB NOTE DEAL

The three incorporators are listed as E. W. Ennis, secretary of Frank D. Saupp, Inc.; J. J. Kilroy, a nephew of Saupp, and H. A. Boschert, of the Oil Well Supply Company. Attorney for the proposed new concern is Charles B. Pritchard. An associate, Attorney George Wasser, is acting for Pritchard while he is in Florida.

Ennis and Kilroy recently sold notes of the defunct Red Cab Company to the Parmelee Transportation Company for $46,000.

The ranks of the strikers were split a third way yesterday with the formation of a new "Another Vote Committee." This group was organized when two drivers, J. C. Bugnaux and Edward McClain, were refused admission to the "pep" meeting of strikers held in Moose Temple. They said they were refused admittance without having been given any reason. J. Ernest Boston was named chairman of the new committee. Lee Parsons, whose name was used as a member of the committee, denied that he was affiliated with it.

By actual count, 419 drivers attended the Moose Temple meeting yesterday. Speakers were the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church and chaplain of the striking drivers' committee; A. T. Ilford, chairman of the strikers, and Ralph Trafford.

Maurice Fromme, chairman of the "back-to-work" committee, said today he had obtained the signatures of 400 strikers to a petition for a new vote on peace terms with the Parmelee Transportation Company.

MRS. DOHENY DEFENDS HUSBAND

Testifies at Oil Bribe Trial Regarding $100,000 Note Given by Fall for 'Loan'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 17. Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, wife of the multi-millionaire oil magnate on trial in District Supreme Court charged with bribing ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in connection with the awarding of government oil leases, today came to the witness stand in defense of her husband.

Mrs. Doheny told the jury the story of the $100,000 "loan" she said her husband made to Fall in 1921.

Terming the transfer of the $100,000 from Doheny to Fall a "loan," she told the jury her husband took a demand note from Fall for the money and said on the eve of departure of her husband and herself to the West Coast from New York, Doheny tore the signature from the note and gave it to her to keep, so that should they be killed, the estate would not press Fall for payment.

"FALLS OLD FRIENDS"

"He told me to take very good care of the signature. I put it in a jewelry case, and later in our box at the Security Trust and Savings Bank at Los Angeles."

The latter part of her testimony was a review of the friendship of her husband and the Fall family. She told how, for years, the Falls had visited her home, staying for varying periods.

Doheny is an "upright, honest man, of unimpeachable honor," other defense witnesses told the jury.

Opening the defense, Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Doheny, placed on the stand ministers of various denominations of the Pacific Coast who attested to the integrity of the defendant.

The Rev. Dr. George Davidson, St. John's Episcopal Church, Los Angeles, testified Doheny "has always been regarded as a man of high ideals, integrity and character."

"CLEAN REPUTATION"

The Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher, First Baptist Church, of Oakland, Cal., formerly pastor of Temple Baptist Church at Los Angeles, said Doheny had a "perfectly clean reputation."

Bishop John Joseph Cantwell, of the Catholic diocese of San Diego and Los Angeles, asserted Doheny was "a citizen of the highest integrity, unimpeachable character and high patriotic ideals."

The Rev. Dr. George Finley Bovard, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman, president emeritus of the University of Southern California, and Edward J. Hennig, federal district judge for Southern California, up until this year, and an assistant secretary of labor from 1921 to 1925, gave similar testimony.

Other testimony presented by the defense was based on documentary evidence indicating the Navy Department, more than the Interior Department, was instrumental in leasing drilling rights in the Elk Hills, Cal., government oil reserves.

Donnie May Hear Mother Testify to Save Life

By LEE CURRAN.
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 17.—Irene Schroeder will take the stand late in the week in her own defense. Her son, Donnie, will be in the court room, possibly while his mother testifies, defense attorneys indicated today.

The announcement climaxed persistent rumors which had it that Irene would not take the stand because of her life story, given to newspapers throughout the country.

Donnie's appearance in the court room is necessitated by prosecution testimony which connected him with the case in several instances, it is said.

But he will be brought in for purposes of identification only and he will not appear on the witness stand.

Irene hasn't seen Donnie lately, and when he is brought into court, it will be the first occasion on which she has faced him since their interview two weeks ago.

The former Wheeling waitress has been reticent about her son. She has been anxious about her sweetheart, W. Glenn Dague, whose case comes up when hers is finished, but she has seemed satisfied as to her son's well-being.

TRIBUTES PAID AT BIER OF DE RIVERA

Ibanez's Daughter Renders Homage; Spain Prepares For Military Funeral

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT,
International News Service.

PARIS, March 7.—Encased in the brown sackcloth habit of a Carmelite monk, the body of Gen. Miguel Primo de Rivera, former dictator of Spain, lay in state today in Hotel Du Pont Royal, awaiting the evening hour of removal to his native land and eternal rest in a simple soldier's grave. Prima having expressed a preference for the Carmelites during his lifetime is entitled, by Spanish custom, to wear the garb of the order in death.

All through the night there was a constant stream of visitors moving slowly by the candle-lit bier upon which rested the mortal remains of the soldier who had held dictatorial sway over Spain for six years. In the morning, while his children were at mass, he had died while planning a trip today to Germany for his health.

FRIEND, FOE AT BIER

He had been suffering from diabetes and his heart was affected. He had suffered a great blow to his pride only a few weeks ago when his reign as the dictator of his country had been suddenly ended.

Today friend and foe alike come to his bier to pay him homage. The daughter of the famous writer, Blasco Ibanez, was one of those to kneel in prayer for the repose of his soul. Her famous father had been exiled by this man.

The Duchess de Alba was another visitor, then there was the beautiful Senorita Nina de Castellanos, whose betrothal to the dictator several years ago was broken by de Rivera, creating a sensation in Spain. There were high-ranking officers of the French army and navy and members of the diplomatic corps. All these were received by Primo's son, Miguel, who fought a duel in Spain only a fortnight ago with one of his father's political enemies, and still is suffering from an arm wound; his daughters, Pilar and Carmen, and another son, Fernando, an army aviator, who flew here from Spain after his father's death.

Primo Will Be Buried With Military Honors

MADRID, March 17.—(AP.)—The Spanish cabinet met in extraordinary session today to consider plans for the funeral of former Premier Primo de Rivera Wednesday with high military honors and government tributes.

King Alfonso will be represented by members of the royal household and perhaps his second son, Don Jaime; Premier Berenguer and members of the cabinet probably will attend in a body.

The King's condolences have been delivered to Primo's relatives in Paris through the Duke of Alba, minister of state.

During the day the cabinet decided to grant the full honors of a captain-general on the arrival of the former premier's body in Madrid and during the funeral ceremony. Primo had served in the Spanish army from the age of 14.

TARDIEU BUOYS NAVAL PARLEY

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—Reimbued with life as a consequence of the visit over the weekend of Premier Tardieu of France, the five-power naval conference showed renewed activity and optimism this morning.

There was a widespread feeling of gratification that Premier MacDonald and M. Tardieu had had their talk at Chequers Sunday, faced the problems of Franco-British relationship and found it was not necessary for either to withdraw from further negotiations as hopeless.

M. Tardieu, who left at 11 a. m. for Paris, conferred at 9 a. m. with MacDonald again and an hour later with Col. Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation, before taking his train. Members of his delegation, headed by Aristide Briand, foreign minister, bade him farewell at the railway station.

Col. Stimson later went to Downing street for a talk with the British premier, having previously called a meeting of the American delegation for later in the day.

Col. Stimson continued his conversation with Premier Tardieu up to the last moment, accompanying the French premier to the station. The two statesmen conversed as their car drove through the London streets.

Another important private conference for today was one between Premier MacDonald and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

YALE STUDENTS VOTE WET

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 17.—(INS.)—The Yale Daily News today used the student vote on prohibition, which was overwhelmingly for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, as the basis for criticism of college presidents who recently were quoted in testimony before the House Judiciary Committee.

The vote cast by 2,648 students resulted in 2,113 for repeal. Votes of students who said they drink totalled 1,874, and 769 students revealed they are abstainers.

"The verdict is clear-cut and definite," the News' editorial said. "The college presidents who allowed themselves to be quoted as saying that student drinking is not general should have the facts at hand before making any such generalization," the News said.

RACKETEER PROTECTED BY POLICE

Throngs Flock to Prison Awaiting Release; Secrecy Shrouds Future Plans

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—"Scarface" Al Capone, widely publicized racketeer and gunman, was due to walk out of Eastern Penitentiary here today, a free man, after having done a "stretch" of 10 months for carrying a "rod."

Gov. John S. Fisher signed the official release papers, in Harrisburg, at 11:25 a. m. The letter carrying the release was put in the regular mail, special delivery.

The next mail train from Harrisburg was due to arrive in Philadelphia at about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Although rather extravagtnt rumors were in circulation of possible gun play when the Chicago beer baron emerges from the prison, it is likely that Capone will leave the jail in a quiet, orderly fashion and make his getaway from Philadelphia as quickly as possible.

CHECKING FRIENDS

Police officials were inclined to scoff at rumors that enemies of Capone planned to "say it with bullets" when Al comes out.

Any attempt on the part of Capone's friends to meet their chieftain and escort him to a train in triumph and armed caution will be discouraged by the police.

A large crowd of morbidly curious stood across from the prison for hours, waiting for Capone to come through the gates. Automobiles were parked for two blocks along Fairmount avenue and a score of policemen camped in the vicinity to maintain order.

Newsreel machines were set up atop motor cars and trained on the main gate. Dozens of reporters and photographers were waiting. In the crowd were schoolboys and girls, stenographers, teamsters, chauffeurs, a scattering of business men and quite a few tough looking customers.

SENTENCE COMMUTED

At 10 a. m., Joseph Le Strange, assistant superintendent of police, came out of the prison. He told reporters:

"You are wasting your time around here. No one will see Capone when he comes out."

Numerous trucks passed in and out of the prison during day. It was conceivable that Capone would be quietly taken away in one of the trucks.

Al was to have served a term of one year, but his behavior was so exemplary his sentence was commuted to 10 months. He has been a popular prisoner, not only with the inmates, but with the officials of the jail. He has given away thousands of dollars to other prisoners during his incarceration and has made himself a "good fellow" in every respect.

CAUGHT WITH PISTOL

"Frankie" Cline, his bodyguard, also will be released today. One night, 10 months ago, Capone and Cline were arrested by detectives in a theater here. Both Capone and Cline had revolvers in their hip pockets. They were sentenced both to a year in prison for carrying concealed deadly weapons.

It is generally believed that Capone will go at once to Chicago. Reports from that city were that an elaborate banquet was being planned by his family and friends at Capone's South Side residence.

MEET TO FIGHT SOVIET BIGOTRY

NEW YORK, March 17.—(INS.)—Plans for a mammoth mass meeting in Metropolitan Opera House, March 25, "for religious liberty" were made today, following prayers by hundreds of thousands yesterday against religious persecution in Russia.

Cardinal Hayes, Bishop Manning, Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish Congress and others will sponsor the Metropolitan meeting.

While thousands prayed in churches, synagogues and meeting halls for those suffering oppression in Soviet Russia for their religious beliefs, 12,000 men, women and children jammed the Bronx Coliseum to hear religion denounced as "organized superstition and bigotry." The meeting was under the auspices of the Friends of Soviet Russia, a Communist organization.

At the counter-demonstration religions and the names of religious leaders were hissed.

The crowd was orderly as a small army of policemen stood waiting for any unlawful demonstration.

Heading the speakers at the meeting here March 25, will be John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, the Right Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, and Mathew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, it was announced.

SOVIET ATHEIST RALLY CALLED

MOSCOW, March 17.—(AP.)—In an effort to counteract the political effect of the Pope's call for prayers on behalf of Christian Russians Wednesday, The Godless One, official Soviet Atheist organ, today ordered all Athetists to mobilise on that day for massed demonstrations against religion and foreign intervention.

Declaring that Pope Pius had taken advantage of religious fanaticism for the purpose of inciting "the backward masses against the Soviet union," this anti-religious publication, which has nation-wide circulation, used particularly abusive and violent language in criticizing the Pope.

"He is assisted by Jewish rabbis, orthodox priests, Baptists and evangelists," says the paper, adding that these were being joined by bands of lawless persons whose object was to destroy the Soviet Union.

Ireland's Outlook Bright, Cosgrave Tells America

The following St. Patrick's Day message was issued to Irishmen in America today by William T. Cosgrave, President of the Irish Free State, through International News Service.

By WILLIAM T. COSGRAVE
President of the Irish Free State.
(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service).

DUBLIN, March 17.—The spirit of work and the desire to raise our country to the highest possible level of prosperity and Christian civilization is animating every citizen in Ireland.

I can say definitely to Irishmen in America that Ireland is now on the straight road to great national achievement.

The Papal flag now flying over the Nunciature, a stone's throw from the Stars and Stripes over the American legation, symbolizes Ireland's freedom, recognized by the greatest nation and the greatest spiritual power in the world.

The task of state building is not easy in any country, and is especially difficult in Ireland, where circumstances of external rule made pride of citizenship impossible. In addition we had to create a spirit of co-operation and good will.

We recognize that the success in securing this spirit is more tangibly evident each year. Apart from constant improvements in external trade, the signs of prosperity are visible everywhere.

LINDY STAMPS APPROVAL ON GLIDERS

Recommends Sailplanes for Use in Training Youth For Emergency Purposes

By JOEL Y. BICKMAN.
International News Service.

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., March 17.—What is the importance to aviation of the development of the glider and sailplane?

What are their practical uses?

What are the hazards of operating them?

The answers to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to those questions today shed interesting light on some of the developments which may be expected in aviation in the early future.

His answer to the first question, in effect, is that it will permit "mass production" of airplane pilots at a greatly lower cost than the existing one.

GLIDERS PRAISED

His decision of gliders, in this connection, would also indicate strongly belief that sailplanes may well prove to be an important factor in the training of pilots in time of national emergency.

To the second question, the answer is that although they afford a novel form of sport, their greatest value, aside from use in training schools, will be their adoption by colleges.

"It is my belief that ultimately they will come into use in schools and universities, not alone for practical training, but for the designing and construction of aircraft and for the study of meterology and aerodynamics," Col. Lindberg declared.

His reply to the third question is:

"There is practically no danger in operating a sailplane of the type with which I am now experimenting."

SAYS TESTS NOT PLAY

The glider tests which Lindbergh is making along the California coast are for a very definite purpose, he said, and, contrary to some impressions, he is not "merely risking his life" or playing at a favorite hobby when he soars his silvery winged glider aloft.

The future is sure to bring about a definite linkup between the airplane and the glider, according to Lindbergh. He said:

"At the present time I am interested in discovering by practical tests just what can be accomplished with the glider."

Controls of the sailplane and the airplane are identical, Lindbergh explained, with the result that student pilots can be put through primary ground training in gliders at little cost, except the salaries of instructors.

SCOFFS AT DANGER

It is the belief of Lindbergh that the future will see the development of a glider equipped with a light motor to aid in taqing off when there is little or no wind.

Lindbergh scoffed at the suggestion of hazards in operating a glider. He said:

"Gliders are safer than airplanes for the reason that it is impossible for them to go into a tailspin or slip off on a wing."

In the matter of using gliders for the training of wartime airplane pilots, Jack Barstow, Lindbergh's assistant, pointed to the fact that, whereas, in the World War the government was hampered in "mass production" of pilots by lack of equipment and training fields for students, such an emergency easily could be overcome in similar circumstances in the future. Barstow said:

"By employing gliders for primary training, students pilots could be turned out at the rate of approximately 70 a week, per instructor, as compared with an average of 12 or 14 a week with the use of power planes."

Glider Towing Banned By Government

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(INS.)—Following the death recently of two glider pilots, the Commerce Department today issued regulations prohibiting the towing of aircraft by other planes, except by special permission of the Secretary of Commerce.

The ruling is aimed specifically at the practice of airplanes towing gliders.

Permits for glider towing will be granted where it is shown the device to be towed is structurally sound for such work, that the glider pilot is an experienced airman and that the plane to do the towing is airworthy.

PENNSYLVANIA THIRD IN TAX RETURNS

Amount of March Collection Set at $550,000,000; Money Rushed to Treasury

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Three states, New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania, paid more than half of all the income taxes which today were piling up at the Treasury Department.

Figures for the calendar year 1929 showed these states paid $1,302,000,000 in individual and corporation taxes, compared to a total of $2,502,000,000. New York led with $852,000,000; Illinois paid $236,000,000, and Pennsylvania $214,000,000.

3 STATES UNDER MILLION

Four other states contributed over $100,000,000 each to the support of Uncle Sam—California, Massachusetts, Michigan and Ohio. Three states, North and South Dakota and Idaho paid less than $1,000,000 each.

The Treasury today wired the larger income tax collection offices in various parts of the country to report by telegraph estimates of the March 15 returns in their respective areas.

In this way officials believed that by nightfall a preliminary estimate would be ready for Secretary Mellon and President Hoover of the amount of money Uncle Sam had received on his first big "pay day" for the calendar year 1930.

ADDING MACHINES BUSY

This morning adding machines and pencils were being used with dispatch in the offices of the Internal Revenue Bureau, but it was impossible to figure just how much money had been received.

Treasury officials have been unable to tell what effect the stock market collapse of last fall will have upon the returns. They were as much in the dark on this today as they have been, as the only accurate answer will be found when the payments are totaled.

There was an unusually large flow of cash into the Treasury today owing to the fact that most of the collectors of internal revenue worked over Sunday to get the taxes started through the reserve banks to Washington. The Treasury needed the money, having Saturday met a maturing security issue of $404,000,000 and today one of $100,000,000.

New Turtle Creek Police Head on Job

Joseph Sauter assumed his duties last night as captain of the Turtle Creek police department, having been advanced from the rank of patrolman by Burgess George J. Donaldson Saturday night. Capt. Sauter has been a member of the department three years, and a resident of the borough nearly 15 years. He resides in 116 Shaw avenue. Capt. Sauter succeeded Russell Brown, who was retained as patrolman.

Strike 'Orphan' Given $5 by Union Friend

Jerry, happy resident of Rosella Foundling Asylum, is $5 richer today.

Jerry is the 10-month-old son of a taxi driver who has been financially embarrassed by the cab strike.

The child is being kept at the asylum until his father returns to work.

Today a letter containing $5 was received for Jerry. The donor, one "A. J.," expressed hope that Jerry "would grow up to be a big union man."

Study Sale of Bonds For Juvenile Home

Sale of $100,000 in bonds to be used toward the erction of a new juvenile detention home will be considered at a meeting of the County Commissioners tomorrow. The proposed home, which would cost about $300,000, would accommodate 125 children.

GRACE TO LEAD MERGER FIGHT

YOUNGSTOWN, March 17.—(AP.)—The battle for control of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will center here this week, with Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, fighting to line up stockholders against the proposed sale of Sheet and Tube to Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Eugene Grace, Bethlehem president, attempting to convince them that the merger will not harm Youngstown interests.

Grace is expected to arrive here early in the week to confer with and address stockholders and civic organizations. He is expected to make important announcements concerning the extent of the headquarters, office personnel and executive forces to be alotted to Youngstown should the merger go through.

HEAT MAY END GANDHI'S TREK

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Bombay to the Daily Mail say that Mahatma Gandhi, as well as some of his volunteers on the civil disobedience march to the Gulf of Cambay, is suffering physically from his pilgrimage under the fierce Indian sun.

On arriving at the village of Nadiad, Gandhi had to be revived by cold compresses.

Bombay dispatches to the Daily Express report rumors that he may soon be obliged to abandon his march because of indisposition. The Mahatma is 61 years old.

Bachelor's Haven Ends; Sing Sing Gets Woman

OSSINING, N. Y., March 17.—(AP.)—To Sing Sing Prison's population of 2,300, hitherto exclusively male, a lone woman will be added July 1.

But she will not wear a number, for she will be an employe, not a prisoner. Her job will be to see that women visitors smuggle in no weapons and break no other rules. Warden Lewis E. Lawes has not yet selected a woman for the job.

3 Held in Attacks On Auto Parties

Two Negroes and a white man, accused of interfering with persons in parked automobiles in the Glassport-Elizabeth road, were being held for questioning at the Glassport police station today. The men were arrested by Motorcycle Officer Fred Quinn, the smallest member of the Glassport police department. The suspects refused to divulge their identity.

OFFICER SHOT IN ACCIDENT

Edward Sweeney, 33, of 409 McKee place, a precinct detective at East End Police Station, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a bullet wound in his right thigh as a result of an accidental shooting in the Army and Navy Store, 6926 Frankstown avenue, last night. Sweeney with several policemen went to the store, closed following a fire Friday night, to investigate reports that the place had been entered.

They saw a revolver lying on the floor. Patrolman Fred Kleeber picked up the weapon, accidently discharged it and the bullet grazed the detective's thigh.

CHAPTER VI.

"HONEY, I'm going to get those cars, if I have to use a gun."

Glenn said that to me in the room we had in Toledo. He was just fired from his second job, with an insurance company. He gave them Wheeling references and the papers came back marked: "Deserted a wife and two children." So they fired him, and we were starving.

I told him: "Anything you do, I do too."

If he was going to do a crime, I wanted to be there. I was afraid he would get hurt. I made him swear that it would always be 50-50. If he caried a gun I'd carry one, too.

But we didn't get guns. We didn't have the price. But we got the cars. They were the two Chrystlers Glenn felt he had a right to take because the company wouldn't pay him what they owed. But we weren't kidding ourselves. It would be called stealing.

We left one of them in the hiding place in Wheeling and went in the other to Buffalo. Donnie was along. We wouldn't ever let Donnie get away from us, we decided. We got a room in Buffalo and figured what we'd do to get money. Somebody before us had left an old magazine in that room and we saw the ads for agents to sell washing-machines and tooth paste and waffle irons and ladies' underwear and be millionaires. So we tried those things.

Couldn't Pay Rent

GLENN tried washing machines and I tried silk stockings, but we didn't sell a single thing. We would do anything to stick together and be honest.

I got a job in a laundry and also did washing for the people in the rooming-house nights, but we couldn't pay the rent and got put out.

We had the Chrysler. Glenn was afraid to sell it on account of not having bills of sale.

It was funny being broke and bums and having a Chrysler. We went to Pittsburgh in it.

Glenn got a job as ditch-digger there and I took in washing. I'd look at his poor hands nights and say: "You used to have manicures when you were a high-class insurance man and now look at you. Don't you want to give me up and go back?"

He always said no. He'd rather starve with me than eat turkey with those people, he said.

But I want to leave it to Glenn to express how he feels about the folks he left for me, and he has done it in letters, here in jail, to me. He has his wife, Lucille, and the children, and his father and his brother, Curtis Dague.

He wrote me:

"My darling: Two packages of clothes have come, I suppose from Lucille. I am going to keep one but told them to send the other back to her or give it away. I am sending Lucille a letter asking her to send me nothing more and to tell her our stand in our troubles, that we were fighting it out together and would never be separated. Honey, I'm sending you the letter to O. K.—also the one to Curtis about the report they're going to help me.

He Is Suspicious

"CURTIS has already said they could do nothing for me and I told him I didn't want his help and that anything done for me would have to include us both. I am suspicious, though, they are secretly planning for us to be tried separate. They were sore when I left the family and their purpose is to force us apart in spite of our wishes. We stick together no matter what happens."

Glenn's dad was kinder, he wrote me:

"Darling: Dad was just here. He is so old and weak. I told him we loved each other and were sticking to the last, and he said he had no word of criticism for either of us, only to stand by each other and put our trust in God. He was so different from Curtis and the rest. I told him to tell Lucille and her people not to bother me any more and he said he would."

Then he gave me sad news about old Mr. Dague. It seems our only friend is going to be taken away from us. Glenn wrote:

"If dad is down in bed, as they say, then I think likely he'll never get up again. You remember the trouble he had when I was 15 years old? The doctor then said the cancer would get bigger and bigger and if it ever came on him sudden and put him to bed, that would be the end. I would like to see him once more."

No Mention of Dad

Glenn's wife brought the news about Mr. Dague, and that was the only time she has seen Glenn in jail. If I was Lucille, I would be lying in the street outside the jail, to see him every day. Glenn wrote about that visit:

Lucille did not mention dad, but I asked. I hardly spoke to her. I didn't want to see her. Her party was at my cell door before I knew who was coming. I thought it was some more of those people to identify us. She went away and nothing was said."

Glenn even got fired from the ditch-digging job in Pittsburgh, he was so little the type. Then he got a job with a landscape gardening firm as assistant to a tree surgeon. And he went to the top of a 40-foot tree and lost his grip and fell and almost killed himself.

I nursed him, saying to myself all the time: "This is the end. We're cursed. We're under God's wrath."

Donnie cried, he was so hungry, and knew how deep our trouble was.

And then Glenn got up, sick as he was, and hit the table so hard it cracked and said the world owed him a living and if he couldn't get it honest he'd take it with a gun. So it was Glenn and me together for a crime—a real one this time.

We had enough money for one good gun or two bad ones. The understanding being what it was, we bought the two bad ones and hunted until we found the gas station near Pittsburgh we wanted.

HONOR GERMAN WAR DEAD

BERLIN, March 17.—(AP.)—The German memorial day mourning services in the Reichstag for the war dead were attended yesterday by President Von Hindenburg, members of the Mueller cabinet, Reichstag deputies, Army and Navy officers and many other prominent people.

The great hall of the Reichstag was draped entirely in black. Two enormous laurel wreaths, entwined with the Republican colors, adorned the speaker's desk, behind which the color bearers of the Reichswehr were drawn up. To left and to right, completely encircling the hall, stood the deputations from the students' fraternities in historical costumes.

Dr. Wilhelm Kahl, Populist member of the Reichstag, read the memorial address. He pointed out that of 2,000,000 German war dead, the bodies of only 200,000 rested in German soil. The others were in 38 different countries and at the bottom of the sea.

The services were concluded with a roll of drums and the dipping of flags, after which the entire assembly sang "Deutschland Lied." President Von Hindenburg then reviewed a company of the Reichswehr in the square in front of the hall.

JOB CRISIS END SEEN IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(INS.)—The peak of unemployment was passed in February and since that time conditions have shown a decided improvement, a report transmitted today to Gov. Roosevelt by the New York Board of Trade, said. Increased business this spring in many industries was predicted.

The report, signed by W. J. L. Banham, president of the board, was made up from a series of reports "on the theory that they furnish indices of existing conditions."

A high official of a railroad, convinced that "the bottom has been reached," said, "We expect to return to more than normal traffic in a very few months."

An executive of another railroad pointed out that "there has been a decrease in traffic of between 7 and 8 per cent, while the decrease in unemployment has only been 2 per cent.

Two of the largest employment agencies of Greater New York announced a steady gain in the ratio of positions obtained to applications made.

14-Year Sentence For Broker Upheld

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—Clarence Hatry, stock promoter, has been denied leave to appeal from a sentence of 14 years' imprisonment arising from his recent conviction for irregular financial operations.

Hatry, in his petition, contended that the sentence was too severe. Lord Chief Justice Hewart, dismissing the appeal, said: "The true conclusion is that this sentence is not a day too long."

Envoy Hails Music Universal Tongue

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Music was hailed by Ambassador Padilla, of Spain, as "the great universal language" in a radio address in which he expressed the wish for an international written language such as music. "Seven little notes," the Ambassador said, "combined in different ways, are understood and interpreted in the same way by the most distant and different countries."

WILKINS PARTY NEARING N. Y.

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Hearst-Wilkins Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1930, by the New York American and Universal Service)
Universal Service Sunrise Radio.

S. S. EASTERN PRINCE March 17.—We are now rapidly approaching New York which we expect to reach some time Wednesday morning.

With us we are bringing our scientific records, the films and photographs we took while in the Antarctic and such equipment as we might be able to use in any submarine trip in that region. The white wave crests studding the ocean through which we are now passing remind us of the ice packs among which we spent so many weeks in Antarctica.

Porter, Cramer and Cheesman, my aides, who lost so much weight due to the constant tossing of the William Scoresby, the boat in which we made our dash to the Polar regions, are regaining their normal weight amidst our present luxurious surroundings. We are all tremendously happy at the prospect of soon setting foot upon American soil.

155 Writers Join Anti-Dry League

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced yesterday that 155 writers, editors, cartoonists, playwrights and architects from 26 states had joined their authors and artists committee within the past two months.

The announcement, by Irvin S. Cobb, chairman, and Eric Schuler, executive secretary, pointed out that 543 members had joined from 31 states during the first year of the committee's existence. Eighty of these are women.

STEEL VETERAN RETIRES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 17.—Harry L. Rownd, vice president and director of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, has retired after 30 years continuous service with the company. After a trip to the Pacific coast, he will return to Youngstown to live.

He started with the Republic company at the time it was formed and has served as assistant treasurer, secretary and auditor. Since 1908 he has been a director and a vice president since 1911.

MATE OF DEAD WOMAN HELD

CHESTER, W. Va., March 17.—David K. Pugh, of Gas Valley, whose wife, Bessie, 45, was found dead in Tomlinson Run, near her home, Tuesday, is a prisoner in the Hancock County jail at New Cumberland, but Sheriff J. S. D. Mercer declined to reveal the charge on which he is held.

The warrant for Pugh's arrest is said to have been based on information filed before Justice of the Peace Ward in New Cumberland by Mrs. Pugh's father, George Marshall.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of drowning in the death of Mrs. Pugh.

Honor Fire Captain At Testimonial Fete

Three hundred friends and members of the police and fire departments attended a testimonial dinner in honor of Fire Capt. Benjamin Lavinthal in the Fort Pitt Hotel last night. Attorney Louis Little was toastmaster. Speakers were Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, Deputy Chief Louis J. Conley, Councilman Michael J. Muldowney, City Solicitor Benjamin L. Steinberg, Peter Glick, secretary of the State Department of Labor and Industry, and J. E. Kalson, assistant district attorney.

Factional Fight, Pinchot Threat Worries G. O. P.

delphia, as candidate for governor.

William S. Vare, who was rejected by the Senate last December, was a potential candidate until about 10 days ago, when he withdrew and asked his friends to support Davis and Brown.

Grundy's running mate is former State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, of York, on a slate backed by Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman.

In addition to the two slates of Republican organization candidates, the situation has been further complicated by former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who has entered the race as an independent Republican candidate for governor.

LEADERS WORRIED

State leaders make no attempt to conceal their anxiety at Pinchot's candidacy, particularly in view of the split in the organization's ranks.

Davis, who arrived here Saturday, left last night for Washington. He attended services yesterday at the First Baptist Church, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, and later visited the home of his brother, David J. Davis, 812 Bellaire avenue.

Saturday and yesterday Davis met leaders from Butler, Mercer, Washington, Westmoreland, Fayette and Lawrence counties.

LAUDED BY ARMSTRONG

His Allegheny County conferees included County Commissioner Joseph Armstrong, Republican county chairman; Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, former President of Council James F. Malone, Judge James B. Drew, of Common Pleas Court, and former Congressman John M. Morin.

Concerning Davis' announcement, Malone said: "He combines sincerity, ability, experience, industry and broad sympathy with constructive and humane legislation."

Mayor Charles H. Kline has given no hint of his choice of candidates in the state fight, and as near as can be learned did not meet Davis during the latter's visit.

A number of the Mayor's friends are urging him to be neutral in the fight, and point out that Mellon maintained that attitude toward Kline's last campaign. State Senator James J. Coyne, potent factor in Kline's re-election, intends to support Lewis and it is believed he will indorse the entire Grundy-Lewis ticket.

Grundy's campaign activities seem to be centered for the present in the central and eastern parts of the state, but it was believed that his supporters in Allegheny County would become more articulate after Mellon returns to Pittsburgh.

PINCHOT CAMP HERE

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who is head man in this territory for Pinchot, said Saturday that headquarters and a campaign chairman would be obtained, probably this week.

Gen. Martin, who spent the week-end at his home in Washington, Pa., was quoted as admitting that the situation in state Republican ranks was the worst he had ever known, and was worrying administration leaders.

He said there was no denying the fact that some of the most influential chiefs in the party would support Davis and Brown.

Martin reiterated his allegiance to Grundy and Lewis but declined to predict the outcome of the primary.

Nominating petitions for Max G. Leslie were put in circulation today. Opposition to the return of the veteran in the State Senate has been indicated.

Seven Republican candidates for the House of Representatives filed their nominating petitions with the state election bureau today, a dispatch from Harrisburg said. Included in the list were the petitions of Joseph C. Marcus, Pittsburgh, First District, and Fred C. Gangloff, Coraopolis, Twelfth District, Allegheny County.

CITES QUALIFICATIONS

Davis' announcement:

"I wish at this time to make a short statement announcing myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator of the United States from Pennsylvania. I feel particularly qualified to represent this great commonwealth, because of the knowledge and experience gained while serving as Secretary of Labor under the three Republican Presidents — Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

"During the nine years I have been in Washington as a cabinet officer, I have acquired an intimate knowledge of the problems of our government—state, national and foreign. As Secretary of Labor I have for years been in daily touch with all questions affecting capital and labor in the United States, and have been called upon to make hundreds of decisions of great importance to each. The success of my administration is best proved by my three successive appointments, which were indorsed and approved by both classes. Employers and workers alike know that I have always striven to balance their interests with fairness to each, and the maximum of benefits to both.

"At the age of seven, I came to Pennsylvania with my parents, and I have always been deeply interested in the affairs and the problems of this commonwealth. I have never failed to advocate those things which our people thought best for their prosperity and happiness. I have always stood for fair wages to labor, and for fair profit for business.

BACKS SAFE TARIFF

"Since the days of President McKinley, I have constantly supported the principle of a protective tariff for the American farmer and American industry, as the best way yet devised to insure the prosperity of our farmers, business men and workers. I have favored limited immigration, because it is a protection to the American workers, both native and foreign-born, against a competition which would lower the present high standard of wages and result in greatly increased unemployment. I have worked earnestly for welfare legislation for the benefit of man, woman and child.

"There are many other vital issues now before the people. They are so numerous and complex that I could not hope to discuss them in my opening statement. I will do so before the primary election on May 20."

Reservoirs Planned In Fire Prevention

VANDERBILT, Pa., March 17.—As a safeguard against fire, members of the Dickerson Run, Liberty and Vanderbilt Volunteer Fire Department plan construction of five dams in the creek which flows through Vanderbilt. Recently, when the business section was threatened, high water in the creek made it possible to successfully use pumpers and control the flames.

The slack-water program will be carried out immediately to guard against water shortage.

Hoover Sees Business Boom Near

gering of jobs through part-time employment.

Urges Jobs Now

As a result of such prompt co-operative action and of the general improvement in statistical knowledge about business, the President thinks that the process of recovery has been speeded up.

During the next 60 days after which the President expects unemployment to be relieved, he is anxious for consumers and business men consciously to do now necessary improvements which in the normal course would be performed some time during the next 18 months. In this category are included the painting and clean-up of homes and alterations in industry, including the removal of obsolete machinery. Moreover, the President would like to see prospective home builders take advantage of the increased efficiency of labor incidental to the existing unemployment to proceed now to build individual homes.

In fixing the period 60 days hence as the end of serious unemployment the President has in mind the gaining in momentum of forces of recovery which have been under way since the first of the year. Moreover, he counts upon seasonal factors to heighten the demand for human services. Furthermore he recognizes that the placing of orders has been checked in some directions by a disposition to hold off until tariff schedules are settled. It is hoped that the tariff bill will be out of the way in a month.

Wants Senate Aid

The executive feels that the Senate could facilitate the return of prosperity by passing quickly on the public buildings and public roads appropriation bills, which already have been approved by the House. The White House would like to have such funds quickly available when employment is needed, and would be reluctant to see action delayed until later in the year when ordinary business is likely to offer fuller employment for labor.

As for unemployment, the President feels that cyclical unemployment will be corrected in 60 days by economic factors already in sight. The more persistant problem of technological unemployment, the turning of men out of work by machines which replace them, deserves acute attention, the executive believes, and, in accordance with his custom, he is in favor of fact-finding surveys. He thinks proposals for shorter work weeks deserve careful study. In the long run, he believes, the country must choose between more leisure or more goods.

The President, an individualist, sponsors no plans for unemployment insurance, or doles, but would not be adverse to legislation providing for better co-operation between State and Federal employment agencies and machinery for gathering better data frequently concerning employment conditions. Incidentally, the bills, introduced by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, appear to give the basis for improved machinery for handling employment problems.

At the outset of the White House conferences in November, Mr. Hoover indicated that the objective was to improve employment, and that the administration had no interest in trying to bolster the stock market. Since that time, more improvement has been registered in the stock market, than in employment, but the explanation may lie in the fact that the market operators have been discounting future improvement, in which unemployed labor will share.

Stresses Building

Construction activities are the keynote to President Hoover's program for smoothing out the business cycle. Mr. Hoover made it clear at the outset of the recession that he could properly stimulate permanent construction, whereas it would be a mistake to induce makers of consumable goods, for which the demand had flattened out, to heighten their production and pile up unsaleable inventories on their shelves. That is why in the President's intervention into the activities of private business—a new experiment in giving social purpose to profit-seeking business—the President has persistently stressed the building trades.

In recent months, residential building has been the hardest hit, having fallen to one-third of the normal of recent years, and industrial building has been somewhat disappointing. Recent reports to the administration, however, indicate further important gains are ahead for the construction industry, which is regarded as the balance wheel of prosperity.

Reports to the administration indicate a spurt in industrial building, and the White House sees a turn ahead in residential building. A conference was held in Washington a fortnight ago to find out what had been holding up this activity, and as a result the Federal Reserve System proceeded further to augment the supply of cheap money through extensive open market operations in the nature of the purchase of government securities. This move has been reflected in a rise in bond prices and in an increased availability of mortgage funds. The great lending institutions found their lendable funds reduced by forced renewals of farm mortgages and by abnormal demands for loans by policyholders of life insurance companies. Present indications are that the demand from policyholders has subsided.

With a turn in sight, the President, it is known, is extremely eager to encourage individual home building throughout the country at this time. Though there may be a surplus of apartment houses and other speculative buildings the chief executive has told visitors that he does not believe that the country has overbuilt individual homes. He favors the removal of families from congested urban centers into suburbs, which have been made accessible by the increased use of the automobile, and regards better homes as a basic step in raising the standard of living. From a selfish standpoint, the potential home owner is urged to proceed now to take advantage of the increased efficiency of labor which has accompanied the present period of unemployment. An impetus to the building of homes will not only stimulate the construction industry, but it will impart purchasing power to laborers, now unemployed, and thus indirectly enormously building up the demand for consumable goods.

The President would like to see financial institutions make a special point at this time of economic transition of taking care of the capital needs of their own communities for new housing—and would like to see this regarded as a first call on the financial resources of local communities.

The President believes that the enlightened consumer can contribute to general economic well-being by living normally up to his standards without hesitation and fears. Moreover, it has been suggested that the demand for consumable goods would be heightened and the general situation improved if American tourists, instead of going abroad this year travel at home. The spending of $800,000,000 or more abroad helps foreign purchasing power, but only a slice of this is expended for American exports.

Upturn Held Near

One of the planks in the President's prosperity-restoring program, announced last November, was the stimulating of exports. Little has been accomplished in that direction, as it has become increasingly evident that the recession went far beyond Wall street to foreign countries. Recent reports to the government indicate some improvement abroad, especially in England. The world-wide decline in raw material prices, of course, has a dampening effect on foreign purchasing power, but some of the leading economic thinkers in the government employ believe that the turn is near.

It has been pointed out to the President that wheat is below the cost of production in all states except Kansas and Nebraska, and it is felt that essential products cannot for long periods sell below the cost of production.

The expected stimulus from the activities of the Federal Farm Board has hardly come, although the activities in lending to farmers through co-operatives temporarily tended to peg grain prices for 60 days, but since the middle of January pandemonium has reigned. The President looks upon the activities of the Farm Board in fostering co-operatives as an economic experiment, and recognizes that the board has been under the handicap of trying its experiment during a period of economic recession. The recent collapse in wheat prices has been described as panicky, and is an aftermath of what took place in stocks in October and November. It was aggravated in the last month by the fight between English wheat buyers and the Canadian wheat pool.

Believing that the recession in business was temporary and that much progress has been made toward restoring an economic balance, the President has been pondering over the longer-term economic outlook for the United States, about which he has full confidence. It is recognized that the great prosperity of the last decade was stimulated by the vast development of the automobile industry, by the rebuilding of the country's homes, by installment selling, and by the new concept of disposing of obsolete things before they have been worn out.

Eager for Wage Boosts

Puffing a cigar, the powerfully-built Chief Executive, with his penetrating blue eyes, undertakes, in moments of leisure, to look into the future and wonder what new stimuli trade will have in the years to come. The big stimulants of the longer-term future, he feels, will come from two directions: first, from new discoveries and inventions. Mr. Hoover thinks that American industrial society should enshrine the men who create new products and new wants and raise the standard of living. What these new activities will be, he is naturally reluctant to predict. As an engineer, he thinks that the development of gas will be an important new factor.

The second stimulant will come from the campaign to abolish poverty in the United States, which in business terms means the making available to larger numbers of the new standards of living which the affluent already enjoy. The President recognizes that this is tied up with the subject of wages—real wages, or purchasing power, which he is eager to see heightened. He believes that real wages will be increased through the silent advances steadily being made in 1,000 industrial laboratories throughout the nation, where applied scientists are perpetually shaking new secrets from the bushes of hidden knowledge. The President recognizes that an enormous impetus would be given to world trade if European peoples would adopt present average American standards of living.

The President is not unaware of the somewhat conflicting aims of business in the international field. America wants to be a financial creditor nation, and at the same time to continue to have a favorable balance of trade. To do both it must do considerable dexterous juggling, and it is somewhat surprising to the experts that thus far it has been able to accomplish both.

Sees Bank Changes

When the President initiated his business conference at the White House in November, the view got around that the machinery for business coordination might be rendered permanent. Of late the executive has not supported that hope, although he thinks fact-finding machinery should be continued.

The failure of the Federal Reserve System last year to control the money market before the panic has evidently stirred doubts in the executive's mind as to the practicality of controlling the business cycle through an administrative body. The failure of the Federal Reserve to dominate resulted from the increased supply of funds outside its jurisdiction—bootleg loans and foreign funds. The President recognizes that the character of banking in the United States has radically changed since the Federal Reserve act was passed in 1913. At that time, 70 per cent of the banking business was in commercial bills, which recently have dropped to less than 20 per cent of the total.

The Federal Reserve System has been based on a money market dominated by bills—an unreality in the United States, where more than half of the resources of banks has been tied up in security purchases and security loans. The President has heard the proposal that collateral loans—other than loans secured by government securities—be added to the list eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve banks, after the manner of Lombard loans (security loans) in London. The administration fear, however, is that this proposed change might unduly stimulate speculation. Furthermore, it is thought that the list of such eligible collateral would have to be carefully restricted, in any circumstance.

The President feels that the banking system of the United States, under the Federal Reserve has been more resilient than the Canadian banking system. Canada has been harder hit by the recession.

2 MORE CAUGHT IN SWINDLE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 17.—(AP.)—Two men believed by police to have obtained between $25,000 and $50,000 on stolen money orders in New York, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Cleveland and Erie in the last few weeks were arrested in hotels here yesterday. They had in their possession, police said, 17 money orders for $100 each, stolen from a Detroit drug store two weeks ago.

The men, who gave their names as Jack Lane, Kansas City, and Claude Sweetland, Chicago, also are suspected of being associates of Thomas Harrison, who shot and critically wounded a man and woman while shooting at a policeman in Cleveland last Friday night before he was arrested.

The capture of the three men was made through descriptions sent out by postoffice inspectors in Pittsburgh, after a brief visit of swindlers here last week. Nine spurious $100 postal money orders were passed on Pittsburgh merchants.

Edgewood Girl Gets Perfect Bridge Hand

There was no more playing after Miss Ruth McKee, of 255 Maple avenue, Edgewood, scored a perfect hand in a bridge game. An evening of uneventful playing had preceded the record with Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stocking, of the Pennsylvania Apartments, and R. W. Gardner, of the Frontenac Apartments, Saturday. The gathering was in the Gardner apartment, and with the perfect hand the players ceased trying.

U. S. Airline in Pact With Rival Firms

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP.)—The New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Line, Inc., operating mail and passenger service by airplane from Miami down the East Coast of South America and across the Andes, announced the signing of an operating agreement with two South American air companies.

The two companies are the Chilean National Air Line, of Chile, operating 1,700 miles of airlines on the West Coast, and the Aero Lloyd Boliviana, which has a monopoly on airlines in the Republic of Bolivia, and operates a system of 2,000 miles.

Who Gets the Car This Morning?

Breakfast chats these days usually develop into heated arguments as to who is going to get the car for the day. Many families, however, are solving the problem of keeping everybody happy and satisfied by the purchase of a second car. The practical thing to do is to buy a good used car. Your investment is small and you will be amply repaid by the added convenience.

If you have considered buying a second car for your family, now is the time to do it. Surplus used car stocks, which must be reduced before spring, have forced prices down to a new low level.

At the same time selections are unlimited—nearly every make and every model being available. Choose the Used Car that suits your needs from today's

WOMAN'S PARTY DISRUPTED

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(INS.)—All is not well in the National Woman's Party. Dissension over appointment of a delegate to the international law codification conference at The Hague has split the organization into two factions.

Dr. Emma Wold, noted feminist, was selected by the State Department and now is at The Hague. Doris Stevens, former wife of Dudley Field Malone, noted Paris divorce lawyer, wanted to go, and the rupture occurred when Dr. Wold's supporters, who are in control of the organization, resented activities of the "outs."

As a result, there promises to be a long list of resignations in effect May 1.

Miss Mabel Vernon, national executive secretary, who succeeded Alice Paul in that capacity a few years ago, was the first to resign. She was followed by Mrs. Florence Boeckel, member of the national council of the Woman's Party; Miss Mary Moss Wellborn, national publicity chairman, and Louise Weir, headquarters secretary. Other resignations are expected to follow.

Those on the sidelines today were predicting that as a result of the rumpus Alice Paul May "come back" as national executive secretary in Miss Vernon's place.

WORK ON SHIPS DELAYS BYRD

DUNEDIN, N. Z., March 17.—(AP.)—Although work of refitting his vessels, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, was being hurried, it became apparent today that Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his Antarctic expedition would be delayed further before starting home.

The bark City of New York has yet to undergo overhauls on the deck and engine room and though Admiral Byrd could not announce a definite date of departure, it seemed unlikely the party could leave before next Sunday. He had hoped to leave by Friday at the latest.

The explorer has arranged that the bark will sail from Dunedin several days before the steamer Eleanor Bolling leaves these waters.

Pastor 34 Years, Church Gives Purse

Upon his thirty-fourth anniversary as pastor of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. Adelbert Kazincy has been presented a purse by members of the congregation. The presentation was made last night in the school auditorium. Rita Loring, aged 6, on behalf of the congregation, presented the pastor with a bouquet of 34 roses, one for each of his years as pastor.

EIELSON'S SHIP SAILS FOR U. S.

SEWARD, Alaska, March 17.—(AP.)—Bearing the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland to their final resting places in the United States, the steamship Alaska left here yesterday for Seattle.

Accompanying the bodies of the American fliers were Ole Eielson, father of the pilot, who will take his son to Hatton, N. D., for burial, and Mrs. Earl Borland and her two sons. Borland will be interred in Seattle, the home of his parents.

Two Russian and three Canadian aviators also accompanied the bodies, all having participated in the search for Eielson and Borland, who were lost November 9 while attempting a flight from Teller, Alaska, to the ice-bound fur-trading ship Nanuk at North Cape, Siberia. The plane crashed in a fog near North Cape.

Survives Bullets, Dies of Meningitis

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—(INS.)—Despite three bullet wounds in his brain, Alex Hiller, 20, lived 19 days, finally succumbing to an attack of meningitis.

Hiller was shot by a policeman during an attempted robbery of a grocery store. One of the buckshots had entered the side of his head, gone through the brain and emerged at his forehead. Two other shots were imbedded in the brain. He apparently was recovering from the wounds when he died of meningitis.

HERBERT SERENADES RADIO FEATURE TONIGHT

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

TWO serenades from Victor Herbert's last composition, "Suite of Serenades," which he dedicated to Paul Whiteman, will be presented by Don Voorhees' Orchestra on the General Motors Family Party, WCAE at 9:30. These serenades represent Herbert's only attempt at writing music for an orchestra specializing in popular dance music.

Franz von Suppe's popular overture, "The Beautiful Galathea," will open the concert. It is a humorous version of the legend of the sculptor Pygmalion who fell in love with his statue Galathea and prayed that she be given life.

Three famous movie stars will sing incognito on the Voices from Filmland program, WJAS at 7:30. Listeners will be asked to guess their names.

St. Patrick's Day will be observed in several programs.

ANITA PAGE, the young Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star whose beauty has won millions of hearts, says: "I always use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin so wonderfully smooth."

Anita Page

"FOR the girl who wants to be charming, one thing is essential," says Anita Page, the girl whose blonde loveliness has won her universal devotion on the screen. "It's smooth skin!

"No matter how lovely your figure—your eyes—your hair—you can't have that compelling something unless your skin is softly clear and glowing. And if it is, you're sure to be attractive!

"Screen stars, you know, have to keep their skin silky smooth and fine-textured every minute. Motion picture directors found out long ago that without lovely skin no girl can hope to win and hold the hearts of millions. The glaring close-up lights reveal even the tiniest flaws!

"Several years ago, some of us discovered just the care our skin needs to keep it always at its best—Lux Toilet Soap! Then more and more of the stars began to use it, until now almost every girl I know is devoted to this delightful soap.

CATHERINE DALE OWEN
M.G.M. uses Lux Toilet Soap

"Catherine Dale Owen, for instance. Did you ever see smoother, lovelier skin? And Kay Johnson, too. They both use Lux Toilet Soap regularly.

"Regular care with Lux Toilet Soap—that's my prescription for lovely skin—and any girl can follow it!"

KAY JOHNSON, M. G. M.
"Leaves my skin so smooth!"

9 out of 10 Lovely Stars use it—in Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

Of the 521 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap.

The Broadway stage stars are devoted to it, too. And now even the European stars have enthusiastically adopted it!

If you aren't caring for your skin with this fragrant white soap, do try it—today.

LUX Toilet Soap Luxury such as you have found only in fine French soaps at 50¢ and $1.00 the cake . . . NOW 10¢

8 BOYS GIVEN JAIL TERMS

Sentences of from three to 10 years were given to six youths, while two others were sent to a reformatory, in Criminal Court today, on 56 charges growing out of 14 robberies and holdups.

Judge Ambrose B. Reid, in sentencing the youths, who were aged 17 to 21 years, cited it was possible to issue prison terms of 45 to 90 years in some of the cases. Three youths, found guilty Saturday, were sentenced as follows:

Allen Grove, of 6911 Hamilton avenue, four to eight years in Western Penitentiary; a brother, Earl, three to six years, and Joseph Walker, 7617 Mulford street, Huntingdon Reformatory.

Five youths who pleaded guilty were Hugh Berger, 1413 Coal street, Wilkinsburg, five to 10 years; Thomas Harding, 7309 Tioga street, four to eight years; Kenneth Curnow, 419 Rosedale street, three to six years; James Ross, 96 Ammon way, three to six years, and Russell Bond, Penn avenue, East End, Huntingdon Reformatory. Paul Bonarriago, 40 Wheeler street, was acquitted.

The robberies occurred in January and February in East End and Wilkinsburg.

TEST AWAITING MACDONALD

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—The MacDonald government is faced with another test Thursday, when the committee stage of the coal mines bill will be completed, but whatever happens to the measure the general expectation is that the government will be found still in office.

An amendment on this bill, which is expected to create a touchy situation, stands in the names of two Conservatives and three Liberals and proposes to strike out a provision giving district committees statutory power to fix minimum price for coal in a given district with penalties for those owners who sell coal cheaper.

If the Liberals vote solidly for this amendment there is a possibility of the government being defeated. The Liberals' attitude, however, is described as somewhat uncertain and if a similar number vote with the government or abstain from voting as they did on the quota division, there will be a loophole for the government. The matter will be decided at a party meeting called for tomorrow.

STATE HONORS BRUMBAUGH

HARRISBURG, March 17.—(AP.)—Out of respect to the memory of former Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh, the state capitol will be closed all day tomorrow. Gov. Fisher will attend the funeral as an honorary pallbearer.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., March 17. (AP.)—The body of Martin G. Brumbaugh, president of Juniata College, and a former governor of Pennsylvania, will lie in state tomorrow morning in the Church of the Brethren here. The former governor was stricken with a heart attack while playing golf Friday at Pinehurst, N. C.

Funeral services will be held at the church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The body then will be taken to Marklesburg, Huntingdon County, for burial beside the parents of Brumbaugh.

Stores and business places of Huntingdon will close for the funeral, the merchants decided. Students of Juniata College will attend in a body.

Man Goes on Trial In Slaying of Girl

Michael Kowal, 30, of Baltimore, accused of shooting a girl when she refused to marry him, was placed on trial in Criminal Court today on a charge of murder.

The girl, Catherine Bosh, 17, of No. 6 Library road, Castle Shannon, died last December 23, after being shot in her home.

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt said he would ask for a verdict of first degree.

Pershing on Air, To Talk of Flag

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Gen. John J. Pershing will tell a radio audience next Tuesday evening the story of how Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star Spangled Banner."

Gen. Pershing will speak at 5:15 p. m., over the National Broadcasting Company network in concluding a series of educational talks sponsored by the United States Flag Association.

Placed on Trial for Election Day Killing

Vester Reid, 24, Negro, of Elm street, was placed on trial in Criminal Court today, charged with the murder of Henry M. Singletary, Negro, of Tustin street. The prosecution charges that Reid went to Singletary's home last September 14—primary election day—and shot Singletary following an argument over Reid's refusal to give him a drink of liquor.

Motorist Robbed, Sleuths Seek Thief

County detectives today were searching for a man who held up and robbed Walter Egerman, of 811 Beck avenue, Wilkinsburg, of $20 late last night. The man robbed Egerman while the latter was sitting in a parked car in Churchill road, Wilkins Township, detectives were told.

Tramping all over town in search of an apartment is no simple matter. Finding one through the convenience of Classified Ads is. Turn to the Classified Section now.

Says Thousands In South Never Saw Negro

There are thousands of southerners in the mountains of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee who have never seen a Negro and do not know what one looks like, the Rev. Paul Durant, of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, told Presbyterian ministers of Pittsburgh Presbytery at its weekly meeting in First Presbyterian Church today.

"When a Negro comes to live in the mountains," Dr. Durant said, "if he is of good character, he is treated just like a white man and called 'mister.'"

FRENCH RE-TAX U. S. BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(INS.)—Invoking a long unused law, the French government is preparing to lay an additional tax of 18 per cent on American business arising in that country, in what might be interpreted as a move to let the United States pay the French war debt.

State and Treasury Department officials probably will send a representative to Paris to talk the situation over, looking eventually to a reciprocal treaty, it was learned today.

France now levies a 15 per cent tax on the profits of subsidiaries of American corporations in that country, and an 18 per cent tax on dividends declared to the parent company.

It is now proposed to apply a so-called extraterritorial tax which would levy an 18 per cent assessment against that part of the profits of American parent corporations which accrue from the French subsidiary.

While the legality of such a move might be questioned, officials here pointed out that the American corporations are entirely at the mercy of the French government, which simply would levy on the profits and property of the subsidiary to collect the new tax.

Two Killed, 8 Hurt As Autos Collide

SHARON, Pa., March 17.—Two persons were killed and eight injured in a head on automobile collision on the Sharon-Mercer road late yesterday. Thomas Wells, 21, and George Axtell, 4, of near Greenville, were those fatally hurt. Wells' machine and a car operated by Paul Axtel, of Greenville, collided head on. The injured are in Sharon and Mercer hospitals.

TOWNS IN RACE FOR PRISON

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—The campaign to "sell" Pensylvania's availability for the location of a proposed new federal penitentiay continues with unabated enthusiasm, it was learned today at the office of the superintendent of prisons. Boroughs recently advancing claims for recognition are Muncy, Verwick, Orangeville, Watsonville and Wyalusing.

Within the month, Southwestern Pennsylvania towns, principally Connellsville, Uniontown and Brownsville, speaking through the chambers of commerce, have bid for inspection by the authorities to pass on the merits of some locality east of the Mississippi River, north of the Mason and Dixon Line, and south of the Canadian border, if and when Congress enacts the Snell Bill providing for the construction of the prison. The House has acted favorably on the measure and it is now before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, has informed Pennsylvania Congressman that business methods will govern selection. Real estate improved with buildings, he says, is of less value to the government than property well located from the standpoint of altitude, water supply and transportation.

Few, if any, of the Pennsylvania representatives are personally enthusiastic over the prospect of having a penitentiary in their districts.

Bribery, Extortion Suspect Arrested

MOSCOW, Idaho, March 17.—(AP.)—Willard Detrick was being held here today for Stroudsburg (Pa.) authorities who charged him with conspiracy, bribery, extortion and jumping bond. He was arrested at Viola, Idaho, on Saturday. Pennsylvania officers will come for him Thursday.

Issue $500,000 In Philippine Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Sale of $500,000 of Philippine government bonds for improvements in the port at Iloilo, will be held by the War Department here on April 2.

WOMAN SHERIFF HOLDS KILLERS

JOHNSON, Kan., March 17.—(AP.)—Three bank robbers, who led hundreds of possemen along a trail marked by the killing of a Colorado officer and the wounding of three others in one of the Arrova country's greatest manhunts, today were in the custody of a woman sheriff, facing trial on charges of bank robbery in Kansas or murder in Colorado.

Mrs. W. D. Rorick, sheriff of Stanton County, said the trio undoubtedly would be taken to Eads, Col., to face murder charges for the slaying Friday of Deputy Sheriff Charles Hickman.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Rorick, who weighs 105 pounds, scoffed at rumors of possible mob violence from the other side of the nearby Kansas-Colorado border, where the three robbers are alleged to have fled, killing the Eads deputy sheriff and wounding his companion, W. H. Mosher, and on their return to Kansas engaging in a second gun fight in which two other Colorado officers, Sheriff W. D. Coe and George Hollingshead, were wounded at Cheyenne Wells.

The trio, John Walker, 41, of Joplin, Mo.; Andrew J. Halliday, 22, and Clyde Rhea, 24, both of Webb City, Mo., were apprehended late Saturday in a shack near Jetmore, Kan., by a posse after a 26-hour manhunt in two states. Each of the three admitted having served prison sentences.

The chase attracted virtually the entire countryside. Throughout Friday night and Saturday, a great army—on foot, in airplanes, on horseback and in motor cars—was on the robbers' trail.

HOOVER BOARD LEAVES HAITI

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, March 17.—(AP.)—The Hoover investigating commission sailed for home aboard the U. S. S. Rochester yesterday, leaving behind them an outlined plan for solving Haiti's political difficulties and for ultimately ending American occupation of the republic.

The capital was quiet as they departed, and there were no demonstrations of any kind. The hour of their departure was not generally known and there was not even a crowd at the waterfront when the Rochester steamed away.

As a sequel to their statement announcing an agreement on a temporary president by all sides, President Louis Borno issued a brief communique saying:

"It was a great day for Haiti when the commission announced that the choice of a temporary president and popular elections, had been approved by all sides."

He praised the United States, saying it always had done great things for Haiti.

The commissioners left behind them an apparent political peace, with no sign anywhere of threatening attempts to void their plan. On board the Rochester, returning to Miami, they will complete their report to President Hoover and make their recommendations.

Stomach Trouble? "Not Now" Says This Happy Lady

"I had indigestion from too much acid so bad that everytime I ate I had such pains in my stomach that they were almost unbearable," says Mrs. Nellie Crouse, 1803 Quincy St., Kansas City, Mo. "But now, it is another story, thanks to Acidine. I take it after every meal and I can eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

Like 5 million other people, Mrs. Crouse has learned to depend on Acidine to keep her stomach sweet and fit. Sour stomach, gassy belching, foul breath and indigestion usually come from too much acid, which is caused by sour and fermenting foods. Acidine liquifies this sour mass and sweetens the stomach. You can get Acidine at any drug store or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa. Advt.

OLD MAN KILLS BLACKMAILER

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP.)—In Little Sicily, adjacent to the West Side, the Black Hand mob preyed on Daniel Fidenzi for 10 years. They bombed his home and from his fear gleaned their tributes—$10 many times, $500 once.

Daniel didn't have much money; he was 61 years old and had five children; oftimes, all of the money he could raise went to the Black Hand.

Then the extortionists' greed grew; they demanded $2,000 or another bomb. Saturday night, Dominick Melfi, one of the alleged Black Handers, was found slain.

"My father did it," John Fidenzi, Daniel's son, told the police. "For 10 years, our family has been paying money to the Black Hand. Melfi made an appointment to meet my father Saturday night. Father was to pay over $500. Instead, he fired three bullets into Melfi's head."

A charge of murder awaited Fidenzi the elder at Melfi's inquest today. But first, there was praise—police praise from Lieut. John Norton.

"These extortionists are all rats," Norton said. "It's too bad more of the people they prey upon haven't got the backbone to do what this old man did."

YANKS BATTLE FILIPINOS

MANILA, March 17.—(AP.)—Five American sailors were nursing injuries today, the result of a riot with a crowd of Filipino civilians at Kittelle Field here following a baseball game yesterday.

Timely intervention of B. K. West, an American police captain, who ran armed from his home, subduing the rioters until police and the naval shore patrol arrived, was generally credited with saving the five from being beaten to death.

E. O. Mecklinburg, chief machinist mate of the U. S. S. Parrott, who received four fractured ribs and bruises on the face and body, was the most severely hurt. Three Filipinos were arrested.

Two other American sailors, G. Cunningham and P. C. Battese from the oiler U. S. S. Pecos, were beaten by police who charged them with attacking two native candy sellers and with resisting arrest.

American naval authorities have warned all sailors to avoid trouble and gatherings that might lead to race riots.

WOMAN SLAIN WITH HAMMER

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 17.—(AP.)—Marks of what was believed to be a claw hammer in the skull of Mrs. Pearl Voss, 30, today formed the only clue found by officers investigating the slaying of the woman, whose body was found yesterday in a pasture.

The victim was identified several hours later, but not until hundreds of persons had passed through the morgue. Identification was made by Monroe Malone and John Douglas, whose mother operates a rooming house where Mrs. Voss lived.

The body was discovered 200 yards from a road by two men who had gone to the spot to look at junked automobiles. Robbery theories were discounted as two diamond rings and a wrist watch, worn by the woman, had not been disturbed.

Banquet speakers will include John F. Ford, of Philadelphia; A. B. Millar, Harrisburg; W. R. Emerson and Fred W. Herbert, New York City. Accounting discussions occupied the business sessions.

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. NEW FILMS PASS IN REVIEW WITH GOSSIP FROM HOLLYWOOD AND THEATERS

Buchanan, English Star, Will Sing Role in Film Operetta

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.

YE SCRIBESTER receives a hot wire for lil' ole New York that makes the day a honey.

Remember a week or so ago a yarn inked into the publik prints announcing Jeanette MacDonald would soprano in Ernst Lubitsch's next operetta for Famous?

From an alert pal in Manhattan speeds the following wire:

"You may be interested to know that Jack Buchanan, English star in musical hit, 'Wake Up and Dream,' has signed fat contract with Paramount to sing leading role in Lubitsch's operetta. Buchanan will leave for Hollywood in two weeks."

Miss MacDonald

SCREENED AS "SHORT"

WHICH is news for my money, and I do hope your eyes have brightened. Buchanan appeared opposite Irene Bordoni in her initial out-loud, "Paris." He was also in the "Show of Shows," but, like several acts in that medley of celluloid, his was lifted out bodily and screened as a short subject.

Jeanette MacDonald, at this paragraphing, is singing "Bride 66" for United Artists. She takes her make-up box and spray back to the Famous lot immediately after.

HE "SPEAKS" CHINESE

WILLIAM AUSTIN, after winding up his student's apprenticeship at an English college, traipsed to Shanghai, where he became affiliated with an export concern. I presume that's good histrionic training as training goes.

Austin is now playing in "The Return of Fu Man Chu." He has reminded Director Roland Lee right along that he speaks Chinese and to avail himself of his services as technical advisor if he (Lee) chooses.

There is a Japanese in the picture, Tetsu Komai, who also speaks Chinese or, like Austin says so. Mr. Lee introduced the two, rather casually, t'other day, and encouraged Austin to talk Chinese to Komai. Austin promply rattled off a few words. Komai responded.

"What did he say?" Lee asked inquisitive. Too much so.

"I'm sure I don't know," Austin shrugged. "I said I spoke Chinese. I made no claim to understanding it."

For which reason we have the Sullivan Act. . .

FULL FLEDGED STAR

MARIAN NIXON has a dangerous memory. Marian recalls that three years ago — three, mind you — I cracked out with: "You'll never be a full fledged movie star until you have a town car, a house, and an ermine wrap." Well sir, she has 'em all, now. And a husband, for generous measure. Reckon to this colyum the gal is a full fledged movie star. . .

TAKES THE FLOWERS

ONE of this department's prime favorites in Hollywood is Mrs. Alexander Blanche Sweet's grandmother. Mrs. Alexander, is seventy something, but she flits most outlandishly about her age and, to be sure, it is her business and no snooping individual's. She is a notorious vamp but it remained for Blanche to reveal her in the light of an unscrupulous gold digger.

Mrs. Alexander visited friends with Blanche. The friends presented her with a bouquet of flowers. A large bouquet. One of the boys brushed the flowers off, so the water wouldn't drop on her coat.

"You're going out of town, tomorrow," Mrs. Alexander said.

"I should take all these flowers home."

She did!

"Don't you think?" she was asked, kiddingly. "You should have a towel wrapped around the stems?"

"I think so," serenely.

And out of this particular apartment-hotel tripped Mrs. Alexander with one of their initialed face towels!

Dramamount Group In Concert Tuesday

The Dramamount Singers, a local group, will give a benefit concert at Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow night, presenting a program of very old and very new music. The artists include Isabel Hoffman Cooper, Dorothy Mussler, Ruth Seaman, Ruth Oberheim, Mary English, Loreen Purbaugh, Alta Shultz, Carrie Mina Mayer, Jean Ramsey, Gertrude Hartman, Raymond Creker, Blanchard Weister, John T. Davies, Byron Wade, Earl Allen, Chester Sterling, Chesley Otto, James Haydn, Ernest Raboch, T. Carl Whitmer, Ferdinand Fillion, and Samuel Wagner.

Local

Ralf Harolde is one of two Pittsburgh boys on the East End screen this week. Ralf, whose full name is Ralf Harolde Wigger, became an actor in the old Empire Stock Company in East Liberty. The other local boy, in a current film, is Regis Toomey. Both are in "Framed," Sheridan Square picture.

COHENS, KELLYS BACK AND GRAFF SAYS FAREWELL

By CHARLES A. EARLEY

"The Cohens and Kellys In Scotland," opened in the Harris Saturday.

Entirely without a love interest, a proposition that makes for box office appeal, the picture gets off to a slow start and remains in such a state until the final fade-out. However, the two stellar comedians, Charlie Murray and George Sidney, wage a losing battle to make the picture worth while. Supporting them are the versatile character actresses, Kate Price and Vera Gordon.

In this flicker Cohen and Kelly have broken up their long partnership and decided to go to Scotland and corner the Tartan Plaid market. They go through the ups and downs of a high pressure business deal and finally come out on top. There are some poorly faked "shots" of a horse race at Epsom Downs, England, and some movie sets of dear old Edinburgh. It seems every Scotch joke heard in recent years is incorporated into the piece.

On the stage Victor Graff, who has been master of ceremonies in the Harris for several months, accredited himself with honors in his final week's appearance in that playhouse. He leaves Friday, to be succeeded by Dick Ware, "the personality boy."

Gracie Barrie is probably the hit of the stage presentation. Other acts, all good, are Foley and Latour, in comedy; Gaites and Claire, novelty dancers, the Harris Co-Eds and the Harris Troubadours.

Johnny Mitchell's organlogue, Fox Movietone News and an Aesop fable complete the bill.

Baldwin Firemen Will Hold Dance

The Baldwin Independent Fire Company will stage a ball at G. B. U. Hall, Brownsville road, Carrick, April 12, it has been announced. The proceeds will be used to complete payments on the new fire truck.

UNDERWORLD, POLICE BATTLE AGAIN IN SHERIDAN

By MILDRED FILLMORE

A gangster's daughter blames a policeman for killing her father. So she swears revenge. She strikes back through the policeman's son. She gets the lad to "tumble" for her in that big way. But, in spite of the old saying, revenge isn't so sweet after all. She finds she loves the boy. So movie-heroine like, she arrives in the nick of time and saves him from gangster guns.

This, ladies and gentlemen, is what "Framed," the new talkie out in the Sheridan Square, presents. Which we say is another slap in the face for Old Man Originality.

However, the production does pack a melodramatic punch. The thrills are there if you like your movies in underworld and night life doses. Gangsters go gunning from speeding motor cars, police go crashing into gay cabarets and all that sort of thing.

The cast features Evelyn Brent, Regis Toomey and Ralf Harolde. We don't recall having seen Mr. Harolde before. But he is quite a captivating bad boy. He plays a young gang-leader. His voice registers well and he has mastered the art of crowding expression into the eyes. Only he blinks them too often. Like Toomey, he is a former Pittsburgher. Unlike Toomey, he has taken a new name in the movies. They used to call him Ralph Wigger over on the North Side.

MYTHICAL AVENGERS FLYING ABOUT IN WARNER

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Those three spooky playboys from Greek mythology—Megaera, the jealous; Tisiphone, the avenger, and Alecto, the unresting—have been loosed on the Warner screen. They furnish the foreboding influence that motivates the plot of a new talkie, "The Furies."

You don't see these furious furies "in person," of course. That isn't the way with spirits—in movies or elsewhere. But H. B. Warner, as the principal character, is under illusions that they are hounding him. And his is the acting ability that creates the illusion for audiences also.

Mr. Warner is seen as a noted and eccentric attorney. Loving one woman, he keeps her married to another man so that a third fellow, a ne'er-do-well, whom she believes she loves, doesn't get her. Only after her husband is murdered, does the attorney disclose his real love. Only then, too, does he disclose his real self—a half-mad sort of creature, with a terrible idea that tormenting spirits are closing in on him.

The production is strange, but well conceived drama. It is well directed; well acted. Lois Wilson plays the feminine lead.

In a word, it is the unusual in screen fare—unusual, except that it twists itself into a happy and romantic ending.

WHY COLYUMEES GRAY YOUNG

SPEAKING, as we were, about the most fascinating part of doing a column (because it isn't routine work and you never know from where your next department is coming), last sundown proved to be the most interesting in our journalistic career. A renowned actress, f'instance, telephoned that she would enjoy having a chat about matters in general—business matters, of course—and she inferred that some of the blind paragraphs that have appeared here annoyed her. As a matter of reportorial fact, whenever we had her in mind her name always accompanied the article, but she was pleasant about it all, anyway.

"THAT REMINDS ME"

THE incident reminded us of a most amusing experience. Several months ago we prepared a yarn about Fanny Brice, long before she was welded to Billy Rose, whose songs you've gone ca-razee about. The story didn't mention Fannie's name, but it dealt with her youthful blues-shooer, an effeminate lad, whom Miss Brice hired at a goodly wage just to keep her from being bored. In fact, Fannie wouldn't accept invitations to parties unless they also invited the chap, who was an extraordinary, entertainer and who could keep her merry when the party lagged. It was also asserted that Fannie preferred him as escort because he could be depended upon not to paw her in taxicabs.

Well, what happened? Miss Brice never mentioned our paragraph nor did she complain to anyone about it. We merely identified the woman in the story by calling her a former Ziegfeld feature. The result of which was that Marilyn Miller and Edna Leedom haven't been friendly to us since.

TED IS SET RIGHT

AFTER the actress called we were visited by Ted Healy and his booking agent, Mr. Healy coming to complain about a recent paragraph which was aimed at 700 vaudeville pirates. "You assume," we said to Ted, with whom we played on the same program 15 years ago, "that you were the one for whom it was intended?" Healy said that he couldn't believe we meant him, except for the fact that the paragraph stated the "material thief" got a wage of $5,500 weekly and got his material by thefting it from the other capable comedians who were beaten up if they complained. As a coincidence it appears Healy's weekly wage is $5,500. He vigorously denied, however, he was a gag gonof. And he hoped that something would be said here to that effect. Then we discussed numerous other vaudeville names who have been charged with joke-burglary, and from previous chatter with Ted about contemporaries who have stolen stuff from him and elevated themselves in vaudeville, he was convinced that the poke was not aimed at him.

But as a parting shot, Healy quipped: "Gee, I can't imagine why a guy like you should take a rap at actors for swiping. I was always under the impression that we thieves should stick together!"

RECORD GOES SMASH

AND the Healy incident recalls a similar bout. Ever so long ago we complained about some of the Broadway show exploiters who were putting over spurious stories on newspapers. We told how they were using Park Row's "most gullible reporter" for their contact and that so long as we could expose such things we could continue to do so for "the good of the craft."

That blind paragraph aroused a reporter, who immediately brought suit for slander, demanding $10,000 damages. The reporter "assumed" that he was Park Row's "most gullible reporter." Of course, the suit was dropped shortly after, but it spoiled our record for not having a libel or slander suit in our entire career, which is difficult to believe, we know, but it is so. It is safer, it appears, to publish names.

ADVERTISING IT

THEN there was the time Billy Glason, a vaudeville favorite, called everyone's attention to the fact that some obscure rival had charged him with gag-burglary. Glason paid Variety $400 for a back page advertisement in which he denied the charge. "What's this thing about you stealing stuff?" we asked Glason when we met him.

"Can you imagine a bum like that accusing me of stealing?" almost wept Glason. "Didn't you see his letter to the Variety editor last week?"

"No, I didn't know anything about it," we answered, "not until you called my attention to it with your page ad."

CHAIN OF CHAINS

AMONG other things that have us stumped is—what if you do take those chain-letters seriously, and you forward nine copies to nine different people as the chain-letter demands. If you do so the first time, will hard luck pursue you if you ignore the thousands of others that come to your desk from absolute strangers and pests? For five years they have clogged up our wastebasket, but now the fiends would have you believe that Lindbergh, Hoover, George B. Shaw and other famous people are complying with the "warning." At any rate we continue to wicker them, but we are getting apprehensive, really. Twice in the last two days we narrowly escaped injury, once when two cabs, in trying to get our fare, crowded each other onto the sidewalk, and again when we recently printed that "Most lefthanded people are a little crazy."

A dozen readers wrote to the editor saying they wouldn't read the paper any more, and several of them said they were so insulted that they would even matters in person. The line, of course, is an old myth, just as it is believed by some dopes that Chinese put mice in chop suey.

But more amusing is that we are a southpaw, and a little goofy.

Vladimir Horowitz, whose piano playing dazzled our unbelieving ears and eyes last year, returned to the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association in recital last night. His playing was an exhibition of the grand style both in manner and in material; his program was a monument to excellence and the extreme test for the player's artistry.

Fred Lissfelt

Since last year Horowitz has gained in repose, so that the most trying technical difficulties seem as mere child's play in his hands. No one can gainsay the poetry of his music, nor the lofty emotional heights to which he carries us, but after all, his playing must always make its last appeal through its fine intellectual qualities.

Every tone is considered for its individual effect, and every composition has its niche. The magnificent calm of the Bach prelude foretold the delight of the evening. The fugue shown not alone for its clarity, which must be taken for granted, but for the player's sense of its grand architecture. With the contrasting Italian Capriccio of Scarlatti there was a nice lesson in seventeenth century clavecin playing.

The transition from Scarlatti's purity of style to the romanticism of Brahms was stunningly managed, and Horowitz chose the most graceful of the latter's miniatures. The Scherzo belongs to the F Minor Sonata. The group of Chopin was not without its puzzling phrases, which every pianist will question and then end up by admiring. His daring rubato frequently tampers extremely with tempo, but there is so fine a veil of poetic feeling spread over it all that we are bound to accept his novel conceptions.

Not since Liszt has anyone written piano music in the vein of Prokofieff. The cunning gavotte has much of Prokofieff's clowning and the audience liked it more than the usual modernistic offerings, the "Suggestions" were indeed diabolical, and if one were spiritualistically inclined, it would not have been impossible to imagine vaporous forms rising from the keyboard.

The seldom heard number from Liszt's "Pelerinage en Italie" was a beautiful improvization, and the pianist's own paraphrase on the Gypsy themes from "Carmen" was so unrestrainedly brilliant, that it carried the public into wild approval. J. FRED LISSFELT.

A "Beauty Shampoo" in 10 Minutes

Quickly, Easily, at a few cents cost, you can have a Real "Beauty Shampoo" that will give Your Hair a Loveliness, quite unobtainable by Ordinary Washing.

YOU CAN SAVE TIME, expense and inconvenience, by adopting this simple method of "beauty shampooing" which gives truly professional results at home.

The beauty of your hair, its sparkle . . . its gloss and lustre . . . depends, almost entirely, upon the way you shampoo it.

A thin, oily film, or coating, is constantly forming on the hair. If allowed to remain, it catches the dust and dirt—hides the life and lustre—and the hair then becomes dull and unattractive.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a glass or pitcher with a little warm water added, makes an abundance of . . . soft, rich, creamy lather . . . which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing with it every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Only thorough shampooing will . . . remove this film . . . and let the sparkle, and rich, natural . . . color tones . . . of the hair show.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly; is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be so soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage, and how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store, or toilet goods counter, . . . anywhere in the world.

. . . on "the force" it's GALLANTRY!

. . . in a cigarette it's TASTE!

"AT YOUR SERVICE," twenty-four hours a day; whenever and wherever you light up a Chesterfield, you'll taste a certain "extra something" of refreshing difference.

No one quality too pronounced—but a smooth blend and cross-blend of everything that gives taste and sparkle, aroma and richness, to your smoke.

Not too much of anything—but a mild, well-rounded, satisfying good taste—

"TASTE above everything"

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

MISS MARGARET M'ANULTY, teacher in one of the lower grades of Prospect School, found occasion to use the word lawsuit in speaking to her class. Suspicious that the youngsters would not understand the word, she asked for definitions. One pupil after another frankly admitted ignorance until a more confident boy waved a boastful hand.

"What," asked Miss McAnulty, "does the word mean?"

"It's a cop's uniform," the child revealed.

Saul Susman, business man and sportsman, remembers the day when tickets to the great sporting events were not so difficult to obtain as they are today.

Mr. Susman tells of the first of the present-day world series in 1903. The teams were the Pirates and the Boston Red Sox. The local games were played at Exposition Park.

When things looked bad for the Pirates there was much local consternation. Two prominent Pittsburghers, Oliver S. Hershman and the late Alexander P. Moore, were disturbed. They convinced Barney Dreyfuss that something should be done.

Saul was called in. He was handed 1,000 tickets and advised to whoop things up. He did.

The next day there set forth from the Seventh Avenue Hotel the Saul Susman Rooters. Leading the caravan to Old Expo was Mr. Susman himself in a buggy drawn by two faithful mules, one of which was named Maud. At the ball game, the Susman Rooters made noise. But if their enthusiasm inspired the local boys, it was short-lived inspiration, for the Bostons won the series.

But the point of this piece is that Saul had trouble giving away the tickets.

One more line about that series: Because the Boston band continually played one tune, the battle of 1903 became known as the "Tessie" series.

MR. WILLIAM M'GHEE'S work is a pleasant one. An authority on book-bindings, Mr. McGhee goes to Europe periodically in search of fine bindings for the Pittsburgh department store which employs him. He remembers when Mrs. Pat Campbell was touring the States with great success in "Pygmalion," and feverish publishers were besieging the author, none other than Shaw, to release the play in book form. The sale, Mr. Shaw was told, would be greatly increased if the book were published at this opportune time, and more dollars would roll into the Shaw purse.

"If," Shaw settled the problem in a cablegram, "there were $50,000 on one side of Broadway and I were on the other, I wouldn't cross the street for it."

TALK about "having to see Paris" and "So This Is London" and "Must Visit Claremore," but till you have seen Agua Caliente, Mexico, you have just grown up in ignorance. A beautiful spot, and the most sober and orderly crowd. Why, you wouldn't hardly believe they were Americans. Every nation must have its legalized form of gambling. We have our Wall Street.

Mexico gives you a more even break—they have "roulette." Also a percentage of your losings go to the government. They are a primitive race. They put government above broker. Folks will take a chance. Old Noah gambled on not getting the "foot and mouth" disease in there with all those animals, and old King Solomon bet a hundred women he wouldn't pay 'em alimony and won his bet. "Viva la Mexico."

Yours,
WILL.

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Boys Use Old Keys to Get At Priceless Chinaware

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lines of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XI.

Q WAS in no way scatter-brained, although the wide range of his remarks, on any subject interesting him, often made him appear so, to people who did not really know him. This same trait was his father's possession, but with TR, the habit of compassing the particular subject was instantly appreciated.

A most important yet mythical individual, greatly cultivated by all the Roosevelt family and spoken of among them as "Gen. Information," contributed greatly to Q—although Quentin boy-fashion was often very logical and, sometimes, stubbornly so . . .

Of this characteristic, TR, writing to Kermit, said " . . . The other day we were discussing a really dreadful accident which had happened; a Georgetown young man having taken a young girl in a canoe in the river, the canoe upset and the girl was drowned; whereupon the young man, when he got home, took what seemed to us an exceedingly cold-blooded method of a special delivery letter to notify her parents. We were expressing our horror at his sending a special delivery letter, and Quentin solemnly chimed in with 'Yes, he wasted 10 cents.' There was a moment's eloquent silence, and then we strove to explain to Quentin that what we were objecting to was not in the least the young man's spendthrift attitude. . ."

Such misunderstandings, between boy and man, are hardly ever serious; for a man such as TR, and a boy such as Q, understands the cause for them and learns how to allow for them. There are, however, no such allowances between boy and boy; in that realm nothing is discounted, and degrees of difference in ideas, quite naturally, brought about many of the internal dissensions in the Gang.

Battle Trophies
Quentin's Fight Injuries Soon Forgotten

Swollen noses, split lips and black eyes were freely given and taken by Q. But these trophies of battle possessed for him enough of pride-value to compensate for merely injured sensibilities, and so grievances were not long nursed. Physical damage, mutually inflicted and received, healed naturally and disappeared quickly. The really amazing thing was, that there was comparatively little destruction of government property.

"I. C."—inspected, condemned—is the mark placed upon U. S. equipment when it has reached its absolute limit of serviceability. Some official property-man of the War Department, having the heart of a boy and a keen appreciation of junior values, had seen to present Q with an old I. C. artillery guidon.

Its moth-eaten appearance and mended staff greatly enhanced its value. The gorgeous crimson silk of the pennant was ripped for a battle-flag, and the glittering spear-tip shone with martial glory, whenever we planted it, upright and gently fluttering, in the south garden.

Fight for Flag
Strategy Used to Gain Possession of Guidon

Dividing our forces as evenly as possible, and at a signal from Q, we would battle fiercely for possession of the standard. Any, and all kinds of fighting, went—punching, kicking, hair-pulling, clothes-ripping, choking, mud-throwing, . . . The side securing the guidon and holding it for three minutes, by Q's dollar watch, also won the right to dictate what should be done for the rest of the afternoon. Quite often, the party in power would elect to fight again for the guidon—and then lose it.

Strategy, too, was permissible, to effect a capture. Statements to the effect that the roof of the State-War-Navy Building was afire; that a man was seen to be falling from the top of the Washington Monument; that TR was coming out into the garden—or any other, which served to divert the enemy long enough to permit the snatching away of the guidon, to some prepared position where it could be defended for the time-limit, was in order and general. Some signal acts of individual gallantry resulted.

Supreme strategy was achieved when Charlie Taft, with a genius partly explained, possibly, by the fact that his father was Secretary of War, placed the guidon about five feet from the suggestive nozzle of a garden-hose, and sent Slats to turn on the water, while he and one other boy defended the standard.

Q and his command, completely occupied with a direct frontal attack, were most unexpectedly washed away by Slats, in an enfilading water-action, which was both effective and humiliating.

Cuts Hose
Caught in Act by the President

Gritting his teeth, but falling back in a resilient somersault, Q shouted to his side, "Keep it up! Keep it up! I'm going to sinister this, immejitly;" He vanished out of the melee; presently, the force of the water slackened, and then the nozzle ran dry. Q had attacked the problem at the base; he had solved it by cutting the line of communication, severing the squirming hose into sections, with the vicious strokes of a fire-axe, after the manner of St. George's final attack on the Dragon.

There was a deep, bellowing shout, and a rush of feet from another quarter, and TR, his frock-coat fluttering behind him as he ran, charged down upon us.

The battle ceased abruptly, and all troops came to stiff attention except Q, who, transfixed at this sudden turn of events, remained motionless, bent over with the axe in his hands, just as he had severed a length of hose.

TR surveyed him and us. "Too late! Too late, by George!" he said, in a voice broken by his gasps for breath. "Quentin!—I mean Georgie Washington—come here with your i-n-c-r-i-m-i-n-a-t-i-n-g hatchet!"

Q came, dragging the axe behind him, but manfully making no explanation whatever. We grinned, not with especial sympathy for Q, because our part in this phase of the proceedings was, luckily, negligible. That,

'COON HUNTERS ASSURED CATCHES

Protectors Plant Animals At Strategic Locations In County and District

If the State Game Commission's plans don't go awry Allegheny County disciples of the raccoon hunting avocation will be assured of adequate catches in the future.

For the past several days, with the coming of balmy spring weather, Allegheny County Game Protector Ralph Liphart, in conjunction with the Allegheny County Sportsmen's League, has been busily engaged in "planting" raccoons at strategic points throughout the section.

MANY IN COUNTY

The sprightly pups, showing fight when handled by Liphart and his aides, were distributed in northern Allegheny County the past few days back. Received some time ago from game preserves the animals have been kept in pens and fed by protectors and members of the Sportsmen's League.

Breeding rapidly in their natural habitat, Liphart expects that the supply will be greatly increased before the next season is ushered in.

"The policy of stocking forests, woods and hollows with healthy 'coons is part of a program of efficiency being brought about by the Pennsylvania State Game Commision to work out for the interests of lovers of woodland sports," Liphart said.

STATE REPUTATION

"Pennsylvania bears the national reputation of being one of the best game states in the nation. It is because of the fact that its members and workers are always alert to opportunities in stocking the forests and streams, that this has been brought about.

"I am sure that with the cooperation of every nature lover, our state can continue to hold its distinction in this matter," he said.

Accompanying Protector Liphart on his "planting trips" have been John Mock, representing the State Fish Commission and a prominent member of the Sportsmen's League; Jesse Yumes, of Tarentum, secretary of the county league, and J. C. Marky, Tarentum.

Schmittil, police said, drove his machine into the car of Peter Antonoplos, of 329 South Dallas avenue, Pittsburgh, in Electric avenue, near Linden, and that of Clyde C. Jones, of 7911 Union street, Swissvale, in Linden avenue, near Beech, in East Pittsburgh. Later, he was said to have crashed into the Bailey Garage, Brinton avenue, North Braddock, when his automobile upset.

PUPILS BACK PENDING ACTION

Protest Meeting Called Tonight by Ministers; Merchants Back Move

Virtually all of Verona's striking high school students were reported back in classrooms today, but the protest against the firing of nine teachers and the high school principal spread to business organizations.

Headed by the Rev. D. C. Campbell and the Rev. R. N. Stumph, organizations are planning a protest meeting tonight in the high school building. Twenty or more business men already have pledged support to the protesting groups.

PRINCIPAL APPEALS

Daniel Duncan, high school principal this morning appealed to the striking students to return to their classes. His plea was made to the groups gathered on the school campus. Afterwards all the students followed him into the school rooms.

Parents of the children and citizens plan to fight to the end against the ousting of Miss Grace McGaughey, veteran teacher of 21 years' services.

Charles H. Westlake, president of the school board, still claims to stand firm on the board's action in refusing to tender contracts for next semester to the teachers slated for dismissal.

"As to the students, I hope we do not have to expel any of them," he said.

"The problem was not the firing, but the failure to rehire nine teachers of the school, including Miss McCaughey, H. A. Duncan, for nine years principal of the high school; Lloyd Peters, Edna Ling, Venue Shakerian, of the high school staff, and Elizabeth George, Erma Steinecke and Martha Konkle, of the grade school," Westlake added.

BLAME SUPERVISOR

Students have admitted that the probable reason for much of the difficulty was "we could do as we pleased." They and a number of the parents opposed to the wholesale removal blamed the upheaval on S. H. Jones, new supervisor from Fayette County.

Gun Taken to 'Protect' Officer, Man Testifies

Joseph Klaas, of R. F. D. 7, Bellevue, testified in North Side police court today that he had relieved Patrolman Joseph J. Conroy of his revolver and flashlight yesterday for "protection" of the officer, who, he said, was drunk.

According to Klaas, he was hailed by Patrolman Conroy in Spring Garden avenue and asked if he had a drink. Klaas said he gave Conroy liquor and that when the officer fell helpless to the sidewalk, he took his accoutrements.

Conroy was found later by pedestrians and removed to Allegheny General Hospital, where three stitches were taken in his scalp. He was arrested, charged with drunkenness and ordered suspended by Inspector Charles Faulkner. Klaas subsequently was picked up at Federal and North avenues.

Patrolman Conroy failed to appear at the hearing today. Klaas was fined $10 by Magistrate Ray Schneider.

A police dragnet was spread today for bandits who obtained $535 in nine holdups in Pittsburgh over the week-end.

Three thugs, using a stolen automobile, robbed a trio of pedestrians within an hour early yesterday. Their first victim, Fred Rebhum, of 1112 South Braddock avenue, was robbed of $25 at South Dallas avenue and Forbes street.

A few minutes later, B. Hinchlisse, of Wightman street, was confronted by three men at Braddock avenue and Forbes street, and robbed of $5. From the third, Howard S. Postgate, of 1417 Duffield street, they took $40 as he neared his home.

FEEDING TIME ON BALCONIES AT HIGHLAND FARM HATCHERY

CHICK HATCHING ENTAILS TOIL

"Don't count your chicks before they're hatched" is a good enough motto even for Mrs. E. B. Irwin, of the Freeport-Kittanning road, in helping her husband conduct the Highland Farm Hatchery.

With the incubator filled to its capacity of 47,000 eggs today in preparing for the Easter holiday trade, only 3,000 chicks are depended upon from each 6,000 eggs. Twice each week two batches of 6,000 eggs are put in the huge incubator in which a 99-degree heat temperature and an 85-degree moisture is kept. The average yield is 4,000 to 5,000 chicks, according to Mrs. Irwin, but not counted until they're hatched.

The Irwins average 100,000 chicks each year, all ordered in advance. In the modern hatchery there is a brooder with 6,500-capacity and this room is kept at a 90-degree temperature. In both incubator and brooder fans are used to change the air every four minutes.

Other fans sweep the warm air from ceiling to floor, maintaining an event temperature. Most chicks are sold when a day old and never reach the brooder.

"It's lots of fun handling the little soft puffs, but there is plenty of work with daily cleaning of brooder, disinfecting and all the other details," Mrs. Irwin said.

JURY SCORED AS DISGRACING EVIDENCE

Dr. W. T. Duncan Tells Tech Students Others Are Open to Criticism

The acquittal of Alfred W. Forney in Criminal Court last week was branded a disgrace and a miscarriage of justice by the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, in his sermon last night. Carnegie Institute of Technology students and the kilty band of the school attended the services, the band playing several numbers.

"The pulpit should join with the press in giving expression to the sense of outrage over the result of the Forney trial," Dr. Duncan said. "The words of Judge Patterson, as given in the newspapers, brand the jury as worthy of the most severe excoriation which decent citizens can give. When a judge tells a jury that it has utterly disgraced the law and the evidence, that its verdict is a miscarriage of justice and that it is not entitled to even the formal thanks usually accorded, it is fitting that the people of Pittsburgh who care anything about morals should make these 12 people feel the heat of their burning indignation.

"Others besides the jury may be open to criticism and all concerned in this wretched business should be made to feel the sense of outraged decency which prevails so largely in the city and which cries out against any disreputable minority which attempts control."

The car, driven by Grachius, stalled on the tracks and was struck by the train before its two occupants could alight, it was said.

Forty-four co-eds at Bucknell University were denied privileges for smoking on the university grounds. Do you believe co-eds should be prohibited at colleges from smoking on the campus or in dormitories?

MARIE GAVIGAN, Hazelwood, clerk: "No I don't believe they should be prohibited from smoking cigarets on the campus or in their dormitories. Personally I do not approve of smoking, but in a case of this kind, where women are supposed to have equal rights with men in all things in our nation, I can't see why such a procedure should be prohibited them while the male students are permitted to smoke."

Miss Gavigan

WILLIAM LEITSCH, cigar clerk, Roosevelt Hotel: "If this nation of ours is a free one, then my contention is that girls, no matter whether or not they are co-eds, should not be prohibited from smoking in public. Girls have the same rights as men, and I am sure they will fight to maintain them. They have a perfectly moral right to smoke at any time and any place they want to."

William Leitsch

ALICE SLIPPY, Carrick, clerk: "Yes, I think the co-eds should be prohibited from indulging in the so-called pleasure of puffing Lady Nicotine in public—especially on the campus and in the university buildings. I have no personal objections to any of them smoking, but I do believe that there are many more appropriate places where it can be done than on the actual university grounds."

Miss Slippy

PATRICK FLAHERTY, Mt. Washington: "If a co-ed, or any other girl, for that matter, wants to smoke in any public place, I think they have every right in the world to do so. Women are supposed to have equal rights with men in the United States. If this is true, why are these objections to their activities brought up on numerous occasions. No one objects to a man smoking. Let it work both ways."

P. Flaherty

MAMIE McAULEY, Greenfield, stenographer, Roosevelt Hotel: "I do believe that the co-eds should be restricted from smoking on the campuses and university grounds. It should be prohibited entirely. There are many more places, more private in nature than college grounds, where a girl can indulge in the tobacco weed if she wants to. Let them confine their smoking proclivities to these places, then."

Miss McAuley

G. R. SIMMEN, Downtown: "There is nothing more disgusting than to see a girl smoking a cigaret just to be 'smart.' If she gets pleasure out of a smoke, then I say it is all right. But where they just pose with a cigaret in their mouths on the campus or in a cafe, then I think it is all wrong. Nine out of ten of these girls who smoke just to be 'smart' wouldn't do it at home, before their parents."

Pioneer Days Recalled By Gown Exhibit Here

By PENELOPE REDD

All the beautiful things in art are not displayed in public museums—yet.

And not all the treasures of private homes are in paintings, bronzes, tapestries, or porcelains.

Penelope Redd

Securely stored in great chests in a Walnut street home is a collection of Parisian gowns that represent the efforts, year by year, back to 1890 of the master designers for the world of pomp and circumstance.

These gowns collected by Mrs. Louise Maguire Wilson and Miss Ella Maguire are the gowns one finds in Sargent portraits, in the books of Henry James and in the plays of Pinero, in the memoirs of those who were the "bon ton" when Edward VII animated a world grown dowdy from Victorianism, and in the Pittsburgh of the magic Carnegie steel decades.

There is an echo of "frou frou" as one lifts the voluminous skirts of delicate rustling taffeta veiled by chiffon and point d'esprit.

THE ONE OF ITS KIND

The Maguire collection is probably not duplicated elsewhere in America. Mrs. Wilson, in Pittsburgh, quickly followed the New York pioneers who originally imported French models for American gentlewomen.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Maguire have known personally every one of the great French designers of the past four decades in their profession of designing for three generations of Pittsburgh's most prominent women.

This collection depicts the history of modern dress design. Modern design as we know it, only goes back to about the time of the Empress Eugenie of France, who patronized Felix, one of the first public designers.

Prior to that time artist-designers were only available for the women attached to the king's court.

Felix, Worth and Raudnitz, while always designing for royalty, blazed the trail for the glorious period of art in women's dress which dominated the end of the nineteenth and the first decades of the twentieth centuries.

A NEW ALLURE

Madame Gerbert, the founder and presiding genius of Callot Soeurs, arrived at a moment when the modern idea of accenting personality through dress was germinating. The tremendous increase in great private fortunes derived from business and industry favored the art and also rendered it democratic.

"Callot's great contribution to modern dress design," said Mrs. Wilson, "was the conversion of the fundamental design of dress into an alluring style dependent upon simplicity of line and rare sensibility for color. Color was blended with a finesse never before imagined."

The Maguire collection, however, includes models by all of the great designers, notably those created by Worth, Beer, Drecoll, Cheruit, Doucet, Paquin, Agnes and Doeuillet.

Certain of the designers, particularly Beer, continues the Eighteenth Century mode with elaborate combinations of taffeta, lace, and ribbon embroidery that might easily disguise the wearer as a grand dame from a canvas by Boucher.

A MEDIAEVAL CRAFT

These gowns of the eighties and the nineties are embellished with shirring, chenille embroidery on Alencon lace, unimaginably precious designs in beads, borders of silken rose petals, with every minute stitch in hand work—all done with a perfection as painstaking as that of mediaeval times.

The technic of decoration and the quality of the fabrics belongs to an age that modern mass production has obliterated.

Yet in Miss Ella Maguire's collection of personal gowns is one of Egyptian derivation designed by Callot that, although 15 years old could be worn today without any sense of being outmoded.

CLASSIC GRACE

The remarkable thing was that Louise Maguire Wilson was able to dress Pittsburgh women with Parisian elegance by adapting the models for each one personally.

In the period when a classic drapery was essential to the graceful flow of line, Mrs. Wilson was pre-eminently successful because, in Pittsburgh, she was no less the genius than Mme. Gerbert of Callot, was in Paris.

PARIS PREDICTS PRINTED FABRICS TO BE POPULAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 17.—If you wish to get into print, there are ever so many ways of achieving your desire. For, this season, prints are being used in more ways than ever, and are even more delightful than before. The afternoon ensemble of printed material will take its place as quite an important member of the wardrobe, and will be found to be not only pleasing but quite practical. Despite the charm and allure of the mode of today, the practical note continues to be stressed, it is not enough for clothes to be merely pretty. The creed of usefulness extends to even the most dainty of dresses, for daytime wear at least.

CREPE DE CHINE is again in the mode. It was not very much in evidence last season, and during the winter was little used except for tennis frocks. But this season, several houses have been showing afternoon frocks in this material, though the quality is much heavier than the weaves formerly employed. And now, come afternoon ensembles of printed crepe de Chine, and so it seems that this material is firmly entrenched for the season. For suits, tweeds, homespuns and jerseys are much in demand, but later in the year linen looms as an important factor for suits and beach clothes.

WE ARE glad to be able to send you sketches of two very new models, both of which are indicative of the mode at its newest and freshest. The first is Molyneaux's version of the light-weight jersey ensemble in a colorful diagonal plaid of beige, gray and red. The frock has a bolero ending just above the belt which is brown suede and is placed somewhat higher than the hips. The short coat is unlined and very straight in line, two most important points for such coats. A pleated flounce, attached at the top in points, gives fullness to the close-fitting skirt.

THE other sketch is of an ensemble that is featured in Lelong's new collection. The material is printed crepe de Chine in gray and black on a white ground, the effect of the pattern being rather pale and delicate. The very novel coat has a divided cape attached at the front of the sleeves and bordered with black fox. The model is sketched from the back, in order that you may observe not only the cape but also the fullness to the back of the skirt.

MIDWEST BOOM FORESEEN

WASHINGTON, March 17. —(INS.)—Easy money within a comparatively short time for the Middle West, which has not yet to a material degree felt the rate-decline tendencies of New York, was predicted today by Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

Lamont declared the anticipated cheap money would be a big factor in a reawakening of business. He also declared that reports from governors of many states indicated excellent co-operation in launching construction projects.

Especially encouraging news was received from Ohio, where in December, January, February and March, road construction contracts amounting to $9,000,000 were let.

Lamont believed that the hesitancy of banks throughout the agricultural belt to make new loans would vanish with the tendency toward easier money. It was shown that in these districts there has not been the ready availability of cheaper money that has marked most sections of the East since the stock market crash.

Lamont disclosed that the government is not to be caught napping again on unemployment statistics. Next month, when the census-taking starts, there will be a careful check on unemployment both by geographical locations and industries. Throughout the remainder of the year the figures obtained in the census will be kept up to date by special surveys throughout the country.

Clothes for Poor Gathered by Trucks

Shoe Store Robbed For Second Time

A man entered the Red Man shoe store, 425 Smithfield street, today, ordered Walter Tait, a clerk, to show him shoes and when the clerk started to do so seized two bundles of hosiery and made a sudden exit.

Tait was the victim of another holdup some months ago, when the store was relieved of over $400 in cash.

3 HURT ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Mary Benhihan, 60, of 1200 Bell avenue, North Braddock, was in a serious condition in the Braddock General Hospital today, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, of Oliver avenue, Swissvale, were suffering from minor injuries as a result of a collision between a taxicab in which they were riding and a truck in Bell avenue and Verona street, North Braddock. They were en route to the hospital to visit a patient.

Andrew Dolly, of North Braddock, driver of the truck, and Eugene Daugherty, of Swissvale, the taxi driver, were uninjured, police said. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were given treatment at the hospital and sent home.

CHICKIE

Chickie Thinks Barry Does Not Want Her Love

CHAPTER XXXV.

READING Janina's note, Chickie's mood dropped a few degrees from its rapt intensity. It dropped still further when at noon Stella Wilson, with the selfish unconcern of those swathed in melancholy, insisted on accompanying her to lunch.

Stella's desperation had now mellowed into a tearful sentimentality. She was no longer furious against John Bluely, she was sorry for him. She had discovered the reason—how or where she didn't mention—for his marriage to Eva Bowman. It was a reason of course that puffed to huge dimensions Stella's pricked and suffering egotism.

John had not forsaken her. Never of his own wish would he have chosen another. His spirit still was hers. He had married Eva only because of business complications with her father. Dragged into it. This explanation offered a fine stout crutch for Stella's vanity. She was now free to follow John on the tragic road of his bitter marriage to the ultimate misery she was perfectly confident would be his.

She was also free to return to the dream of John that had warmed her hopes for seven years. She now took some faded snapshots and pushed them across the table to Chickie. There were half a dozen poses of a young man bonny and laughing; a girl vivacious with the wondrous fresh beauty of youth.

Chickie looked at them and gasped.

"Wouldn't know me, would you? Don't look much like that now, do I?"

The change from the lightsome face of the girl in the picture to the hardening features of the still handsome Stella was not the thing that shocked Chickie. It was the odd resemblance she fancied between this girlish Stella and herself.

Loved Him

She said hurriedly. "Oh, I don't see much difference. You look about the same. This is John? You loved him terribly, didn't you?"

Stella reached for the pictures. She said grimly: "He loved me just as much! Humph—fine for some people the way things turn out, isn't it? If I had it to do over again—"

"What would you do, Stella?"

"Take while the taking was good!"

In the week just passed Chickie had found Stella's face, Stella's bitter words coming into her mind relentlessly. Especially when she sat at a lunch waiting for Barry and Barry hadn't come. She heard with a faint clutch of terror in her ears, Janina's cynical: "Men are all alike! Take a leaf from Stella's book, Chickie, or the first thing you know it will be written into your own. Get yourself planted in a beautiful jardiniere while you still can grace it!"

Now—in the present highly sensitive state of her feelings she felt Stella's misery like a load of iron clamped on her neck. She was in a frenzy of anxiety to see Barry Dunne, to have her absurd fears brushed aside by the glad joy she would find in his eyes.

He was coming that night. She wore her hair high on her head because men liked it so. Jimmy used to say it was just "darn wickedness" in her to be so attractive. She put on a dress of green. That made her eyes so dark—her hair so bright.

And she rushed to the door when he rang. With an impulsive ardor that seized her like a sudden breeze she raised her face, laughing to his.

Go Driving

When he kissed her gayly, when he said with the lilt in his voice: "Ah—the fair one is glad to see me?" she felt like singing, like flinging out a mighty "Oh, hurrah!"

They rode. She slid low in the seat, glancing up at him, already tremulous with relief and pleasure. She said airily: "Twice seven days in this week. Not so!"

They stopped in a quiet lane. Her hand stole to his and she said with a rush of eager tenderness: "I missed you, Mr. Red. How about you? Do you get mad when you have to work so hard?"

"A raving maniac!" He laughed, recounting odd quirks he discovered in the old people who came to the office. He talked and talked. And she had the bleak, chilled notion that he talked to evade her—to put her at a distance from him.

His voice was low: "What did you think of Ethan Frohm?"

"The saddest thing I ever read. It was too cruel."

"But that's life, Chickie."

"It didn't seem right to me. They loved each other so—"

"It wasn't right!" His eyes then, beautiful as she wanted them to be, struck down through hers, opening the radiance in her heart. "Ah—right!" He laughed softly, his arm for one swift moment catching about her. "Love has the first right. Not so, Chickie? Don't you know that? My heaven! I know it! They were cowards—"

"What should they have done? What, Barry?" She felt her heart swelling, holding her breath mute.

"What none of us has courage enough to do—well—so it goes."

His arm dropped from her quietly. She thought with instinctive understanding: "He doesn't want to love me! He fights against it. He's afraid to love me!"

A dozen times her hand went reaching to his arm. She drew it back.

He kissed her goodnight and waited as though he wished to say something. She wouldn't help him, wouldn't look up. She was ashamed of the brimming eyes.

Doubts Barry

He could chill his feeling for her. She would crush hers! Beat it down. Indeed, she would.

She said to herself bitterly as she hung up the lovely green voile: "Well, Stella, ole thing—stretch yourself out and be walked on!"

The next morning—Saturday—she didn't phone to Jake.

As 1 o clock approached the pale nervousness that all morning held Chickie taut with excitement had just mounted to pain. She caught up the telephone, put it down again, biting her lips. No—let the date stand!

She had suffered last night—lain awake long, aching hours after Barry Dunn had gone.

Barry didn't want her love. Oh—he was making that gently clear. It would interfere with him. He had work to do—success to win. Brush away obstacles—love—her—anything.

In the dressing room she pulled the small blue hat coquettishly down to her dark, appealing eyes, letting a touch of gold hair show at her ears. She would look gay; she would laugh merrily. No one in the world should know.

But she went out of the building to the limousine where Jake waited, and at every step her trembling apprehension grew. She cast about her anxiously like one afraid of pursuit.

Accompanies Jake

As Jake, sweeping his hat low, met her she stepped breathlessly to the car. She wanted to get in—be off—escape.

She took her seat. She looked up—then down. For a moment her senses reeled. Barry was there—on the sidewalk—staring, first a shock, then a fury of accusation in his eyes. He bowed and passed. Chickie's day was ruined.

Jake appeared not to notice. He became busy with the engine. She was thankful for that.

But when he saw her idling with her fork and not eating, his shoulders stiffened, his smiling, vivid mouth, rich with much enjoyment, sobered.

"Got something to tell you, Helena Bryce. Kindly take notice of your good friend Jake sitting opposite you. See that big, loose-limbed lantern jaw yonder? Fellow with the pretty little black wench?"

She laughed.

"Well—he made me what I am. Because of Lloyd Woodman and a thing he did 10 years ago. Helena and I are able to spurn choice lobster today. Please ask me how come!"

"How come, sir?"

"Competition. I was loafing along, making a little, wasting much. Lloyd Woodman steps angrily to the scene. A hustler—a tremendous rival. In three months he had taken four of my clients; he had a machine. That got my goat—whipped me up. I threw off my coat and my gloves—I wore them in my dandy days—I went to it and won. Chances are I'd be grubbing by at $200 a month to this day if it hadn't been for Lloyd. Nothing pulls you up on the bit—business or love—like a sizable second busy on the job. You didn't know that, did you, Chickie, my dear?"

Her face, quiet and pale, stained brightly. Not venturing to raise her eyes, she smiled: "You're very clever, Jake. You know almost as much as Janina!"

His laugh rang out. "A compliment, indeed, my dear! But I'm telling you something for all that. Let a man think some one else wants his job and immediately it becomes a prize to grip like a bulldog; let a fellow see that some one else may steal his girl and if there's a heart in him he's on his feet fighting!"

So Jake had seen. He wanted her to feel tranquil now and at ease.

"Well," she said slowly, "it's a poor kind of love or ambition that must be driven by some one else's engine."

"Not driven by it, Chickie—only spurred a little. Afraid the other may reach the goal first."

"Anyway! If I should ever love—"

Jake smiled, a half-sad amusement in his eyes: "Yes, Chickie—if you should ever love, well, what about it?"

Good Husband, to Two Households, Social Enigma, Says Fay King

HE WAS MY HUSBAND!
HE WAS SO GOOD TO US!
IN MOST CASES THE "OTHER WOMAN" INSPIRES A GREAT INJUSTICE TOWARD THOSE DEPENDENT UPON THE MAN'S LOVE AND PROTECTION
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE other day a well-to-do business man in a certain city dropped dead.

To the astonishment of every one, two wives, two families appeared to claim his body.

But both declared he had always been a good husband and a kind father.

It is difficult indeed to understand such a character, but at least one thing can be said in his favor. He treated both his families with kindness.

That is more than can be said of many men who turn completely upon those whom they had loved and cherished until some new charmer infatuated them.

Many innocent wives and little children have endured abuse and neglect because a weak husband and father became the easy victim of another woman's selfish wiles.

Mary Tells of Meeting Jack Leslie

MARY'S voice died away into a whisper as she tried to tell me what Jack Leslie had said when he so surprisingly accosted her in the park off Riverside Drive. There was in her eyes the shame faced embarrassments of a sensitive young girl retailing an unpleasant incident, but there was something more poignant — the pitiful, hopeless look of a wild thing caught in a trap.

I tightened the clasp of my hand on hers.

"If it isn't important, dearest, don't tell me what he said. But surely you don't mind my hearing anything at all, do you?"

She shook her head then spoke rapidly, as if wishing to get the words out and done with.

"He said 'Ah, little Mary, I've been waiting for you at our old place. I see you remembered, too.'"

Her eyes were not meeting mine now, but were bent upon the ground and her face was crimson. A conjecture that had been mine at the time of Mary's acquaintance with Jack Leslie was now a conviction. The girl's heart never had been seriously touched by the cabaret dancer, whom Dickey had dubbed "the capering cockroach," but he had been the first man who had paid her any attention, and I was sure that her fancy had been captivated by his skillfully romatic wooing of her and that her girlish infatuation had been as much the cause of her escapade as had rebellion against the drab sternness of Philip Veritzen's regime for her.

But never had I betrayed this secret conjecture of mine to Mary. She had been so broken, so humiliated upon that night when we had rescued her from Jack Leslie's apartment where he had taken her upon the pretext of "throwing a big party" to his friends that only a person callous to suffering could have probed her soul with questions. And her serious illness immediately following had put all thoughts of questioning her definitely aside. By the time she was strong again she and Noel were upon such terms that I knew Jack Leslie was only a humiliating and unpleasant memory which it would have been cruelty to have brought back to her. But I knew that the time had come now when for Mary's own sake I must draw the veil from that old guess of mine.

"Dear child," I said tenderly, "let us settle something now and get it over with forever. Then we never need speak of it again. I never have told you this because I did not think it necessary, but I guessed long ago that before you began dancing at the cabaret you were romantically attracted to Jack Leslie and that your association there held something more tender than professional comradeship, or even than friendship. I know my girl well enough to be sure that there was nothing in that friendship which should cause you remorse other than that you naturally felt at deceiving us. So you need not be so chagrined at repeating the man's words to me. Of course, he meant to recall to you some incident of his wooing, something perhaps which he said to you while standing upon that spot. The insolent cad meant you to think that he still counted upon your old infatuation for him. I understand it all, dear, just as I realize how much older and saner you are now. So go on with your conversation, telling me, however, only what you think is necessary for me to know. There is no need of your going through any more purgatory than you have to."

She turned in her chair, twisted her hands out of my clasp and threw her arms around my neck in a convulsive embrace.

"There never was anybody like you in the world, Auntie Madge," she said extravagantly. "If ever I amount to anything more than a split penny in this world it will be because of you. It's always so easy to tell you things, and—and I always feel sort of warm inside when you get through talking to me."

"I'm very glad of that dearest," I said, holding her closely. "Now settle down in my lap and tell me the rest."

She gave a little relieved sigh and settled her head against my shoulder. I had guessed aright, I told myself. She would prefer to tell the rest of her story with her face hidden from me.

"I—I don't know whether I was more frightened or angry," she went on after a pause. "For a second I felt like running away from him and screaming at the top of my voice. But, of course, that would never do, and I fought myself until I could look him steadily in the eyes. Then I said:

"'There is no memory of you which would not be loathsome to me if I had not been able to forget all about you' and then I really was frightened. His eyes were suddenly horrible. I was afraid he meant to kill me."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Motor Party Hosts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Suppose you are invited to ride with married friends. Is it courteous for the wife to sit with her husband on the front seat, leaving you alone in the rear seat, especially if you are one of the older people? Personally, I think she should offer her guest the front seat, or else come back and sit with the guest. I have always practiced this because it seemed the nicest thing to do, but I may be wrong, and will appreciate your opinion.

2. Also will you please criticize or pass judgment on my writing and the style of my letter? PUZZLED.

INDEED, what you suggest is the most polite thing to do, the only gracious thing to do, and anything else is completely selfish. When there are three in the car, as in the circumstances that you name here, it is easiest for all, I think, if the wife sits with her guest in the rear seat.

2. Your handwriting and your letter form, dear friend, have unusual distinction. They are, most assuredly, the handwriting and the letter of a charmingly bred lady. My bow of appreciation to you, for such a letter is a "joy forever." I can find only one tiny suggestion, and this is that you do not abbreviate the name of your state. Somehow abbreviations do not seem appropriate to your leisurely and fine letter. Another suggestion is — won't you write me again, and give me again the delight of seeing and reading another letter from you?

Removing the Service Plate

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to know when and how long the service plate remains at the table? At what course should it be removed?

I have heard a difference of opinion and I would like to have it settled in my mind.

UNCERTAIN.

IT is customary to allow the service plate to remain on the table during the first courses of the dinner, and until the main course. As the waitress places the dinner plate with the plate of whatever course precedes the main course.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, March 18

THE astral inuences for this day make for a rather contradictory state of affairs. While business will be particularly lively and much substantial gain made through diligence and faithful effort, yet employment holds a menace of disagreement or loss of favor with superiors. Personal associations also have a sinister aspect.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively year with much substantial progress, but they should be most circumspect in dealing with employers or those in authority. Protect private affairs from sinister and sordid contacts.

A child born on this day should be versatile, shrewd and reliable, but nevertheless may have trouble in employment.

The Marry-Go-Round

The Girls Men Don't Forget

"WHAT kind of women do men like?" asks Claire D.

I suppose you expect me to say that men like noble, good, beautiful, refined, intelligent women. Just like that! But, the answer is not quite so simple.

Not all men like the same kind of women; which is fortunate for us brunettes. But, there are certain qualities that the average man likes in all women.

Men like placid, serene women. Women who are well poised. No man can endure being constantly deluged with a woman's emotions. Caprices and moods soon get on his nerves; and a raving beauty who enjoys staging her "raves" soon drives him to the arms of a soothing dumb-bell.

Men like soft-boiled, distinctly feminine women. I do not mean characterless women; but dainty, delicate well-bred women. "Every man loves a lady"—even though an iron will may repose beneath the velvet manner. The hard-boiled "pal-gal" may win championships, but not hearts.

Men like jolly, amusing women. A ready laugh is more seductive than a perfect 36 and a spontaneous smile more potent than gorgeous eyes. The wedding vow should read "Love, humor and amuse." A man can forgive a woman for almost anything else sooner than for being "unhappy," or glum or bored.

Men like chic, smart women. Women who know how to wear clothes. A man would rather be seen with a girl who looks "like a million dollars," than with one who has the face of a houri and the figure of a frump. Men are vain and they will always turn from a little brown wren, to follow a gorgeous peacock.

Men like tactful women. A man MAY forgive a woman for breaking all of the Ten Commandments—but never for making an embarrassing break. Or for making a faux pas or saying a tactless thing.

Men like women who are not too efficient. A man may admire a woman for her ability to do a big job and draw a big salary. He may even be dazzled by her. But, he is very apt to let her go right on doing it—while he marries some helpless, little thing, who appeals to his tenderness and makes him feel big and strong and masterful. Fame brings a woman hosts of admirers—but not half so many proposals of marriage as you'd think.

Men like popular women. Like sheep, they follow the flock. Getting your first admirer, lover or husband may be a feat—but the rest come easy. The average man would rather be last on a popular girl's telephone list, than first in a lonely girl's heart.

In short, as far as men are concerned, a woman may be selfish, lazy, greedy, spineless and even plain of face; but she MUST be sweet and good-natured, feminine, well poised, easy on the nerves, good company and well got up. All of which is very superficial—but THAT'S the kind of women that men like!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Start Baby Right

CHILDREN do not just grow up of their own accord, as every parent knows. They must be nurtured and trained to good habits. It makes a lot of difference whether your baby begins life with good or with bad habits.

DR. COPELAND

There are too many persons who think it doesn't matter what habits a baby has in its first year. They appear to believe it will be easy enough to change them later. That is a great mistake, as they will find out.

It is most important of all that a baby have the right food. Next to this come its eating habits.

The experts will tell you that of all things which an infant needs most to start him in life is mother's milk. The child's future health may depend on its having this precious life-giving food. Bottle feeding can never take just the place of breast feeding. No small or trivial excuse can be justified in taking away the natural food of a child. Of course, there are cases where it is absolutely necessary, but any child is far better off for having its own mother's milk.

When a food formula must be used it should be given under the direction of a physician for your baby's special needs. What agrees with one child may not agree with another.

Whether breast fed or bottle fed, many babies should be given when a few weeks old cod liver oil and orange juice as a preventive of rickets. Your doctor should advise you about this.

Make a habit of feeding your baby at the proper time and see that it sleeps between the feedings. Make sure that elimination is correct.

If a baby cries the first thought is to pick it up and make it comfortable. The very littlest baby knows when it is taken up it is made warm and comfortable. It is natural that the more often it is taken up the more it will cry for more of that treatment. Teach the baby the right habits in this respect. It is good and natural for a baby to cry sometimes.

Of course, when a baby cries incessantly there is probably something wrong. The cause must be found and corrected. Colic and gas on the stomach are painful things, but there may be constipation, and even more serious things, which call for a doctor's care.

It is well to have a baby examined by a doctor at least once a month to see if all is going right with it. It pays in the long run to know that its health and training are of the right sort. By doing this you are paving the way for a stronger and healthier childhood.

Household Hints

There's something important at the top of the celery stalk. Those nice, fresh green leaves that have such a pungent odor when they're cut from the crisp white pieces being prepared for the table, are delectable bits of flavoring for the soup or stew.

And when the pie was cooked, out boiled the juice! Too often that is the sad experience of the pastry maker. It would be so much pleasanter to say, "And when the pie was cut, it was succulently juicy." After scalloping the edges of the crust together, take a strip of old, clean white muslin from the kitchen drawer, dampen and press it around the ring of crust. When the pie is baked the cloth is easily pulled away and magically the juice is just where it should be.

The White House Gang

however, was because none, except Q had thought of the axe.

"In the heat of battle," TR said vigorously, yet with a judicious fairness, "many acts, which would not be c-o-u-n-t-e-n-a-n-c-e-d at other times, may be excusable—or, at least, subject to sym-pa-thet-ic inter-pre-ta-tion; of course you understand that, boys?"

"Sure," Q said, quickly brightening. "You mean that's the reason why I did it? I did it because something had to be done immejit-ly—"

"That's e-x-a-c-t-l-y it!!" TR agreed explosively. "The point is always to do something quickly, because if you don't, the other fellow will. You may be wrong—you were here—but you have, at least, i-n-i-t-i-a-t-e-d action. When the action is wrong, you must admit it, and correct it by some further action—"

Q looked at the entirely dead and well-mutilated body of the hose.

"I don't see how this can be corrected," he said thoughtfully.

"Only by an entirely new garden-hose," TR said. "It was government property, still is, but also is no longer. You cannot imagine the difficulties involved, and the things required to be done, in order to replace it. It will even cost money, part of that which I am earning—or was earning, when interrupted by a dispatch regarding the progress of this war, and left hurriedly for the field—"

President Impressive

"Well," Q said, "of course, you're right; but we've learned our lesson, you know—"

"We?" TR asked. "Don't you mean yourself? And what have you learned?"

"Not to cut up garden-hoses," Q said promptly.

"And not to use fire-axes," TR added, "on anything but a fire—"

"We're not so likely to have a fire," Q said, with a touch of wistfulness.

"Not with all this water around!" TR said. "You escape, Quentin, only because of the heat of battle——"

TR turned upon his heel and walked away from us, towards the Executive Offices, even more impressively, somehow, than he had come.

Charlie plucked the guidon out of the ground. "Here," he said to Q, "it was really my fault; take it. Gee, you deserve it. . . ."

Possession of the guidon now gave Q and his side the decision as to further immediate action. "I guess we're through with this, just now" Quentin suggested, waving the battle-flag abstractedly back and forth. We were, for we were mud dyed from hair to heel and must, we knew, make some atempt at drying and cleaning, before going home.

These needs led us through the long East Corridor, used for Presidential receptions, where the sun streamed through the broad expanse of glass at the entrance, and, finally, into the main part of the White House downstairs, serving as a formal foyer.

Open China Cabinet

Here were, and still are, a number of cabinets, containing various sets of White House china. Different Administrations affected different designs, all of them prominently displaying the crest of the United States. These objects are, of course, not only beautiful, but quite priceless, as intimate historical exhibits. But to the Gang, the fact that the cabinets were locked gave them a particular charm. This was especially true in the instance of Slats Stead, whose major passion, at that time, was collecting keys.

He had an enormous key-ring made out of a piece of telegraph wire, which he carried, secreted upon his person, always and everywhere. Give Slats a key and he would whistle for a quarter of an hour. It was a matter of no consequence that he could find no lock to fit it—at the time. For he possessed the sublime faith that, eventually, that key would be brought into contact with its own lock.

"Slats," Q said hopefully, regarding one of the cabinets, "Your keys! Maybe—"

Slats tried many keys; being very professional and careful not to try one twice . . . eventually . . . a slim little key opened two of the cabinets.

"That's perfect!" Q said, reaching in with muddy fingers and taking three cups and saucers. These he piled one on top of another and exchanged for three from the other cabinet.

Smear Mud Around

The effect amused us vastly, and we proceeded to effect further exchanges. The cabinets looked, now, as though there had not been enough pieces of a kind to make a complete exhibit, and that any old thing had been used to round it out; or, that, possibly, the cups of one administration had been set upon the saucers of another. We were very fortunate in not causing permanent mischief. Five or six small, carelessh-anded boys could scarcely have effected that removal job again, and not have broken half the fragile things they touched. Mud, too—added quite without malice aforethought—had been smeared plentifully upon the china, shelves and glass.

The startling condition of these exhibits must have been remarked by White House visitors, foreign and domestic, streaming through the corridor every day at certain hours, for some 10 days elapsed ere official rectification was made. Q knew, and instantly reported to the Gang, when the cabinets had been unlocked and their contents put to rights. He had passed nonchalantly before the cabinets every day, and noted them guardedly.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the skin is unsightly with blackheads and pimples everything possible should be done to free the pores of their deposits of grease. Hot water and soap and steaming compresses should be followed by an ice rub to stir the activities of the blood streams. Fats, sweets and starches should be deleted from the diet for the time being; they add to the accumulations of oil in the pores.

Soft corns between the toes can be very painful. Proper treatment consists in keeping the skin surface dry. Powdered prepared chalk, covered with pads of absorbent cotton, will help. A wider shoe is another factor for getting rid of these troublesome torments. Scaley spots between the toes are produced by ringworms, a condition which demands medical attention.

When the sebaceous glands are active and the pores are working properly oily and salty fluids that emerge from the skin come out in an almost invisible substance. When the functions of the skin are sluggish, oil banks up and blackheads form. Massage is helpful.

Human hair is composed of overlapping scales. When the hair is given a permanent wave the scalp absorbs moisture and tightens up, sending the hair shaft into a spiral. The more steam and hot water used, the better the wave and the longer it will endure. The hard-boiled undulation is a grand idea for an ocean voyage; fogs make it better.

Mothers cannot be too careful about keeping little daughter's hands clean. Germ life is picked up by finger tips and gather beneath the nail eaves. Children should be taught to use the orange wood stick after bathing the hands. Also to apply cold cream or healing lotions at night to make smooth and healthy the surface of the skin.

Athletics and outdoor fun are the great pickup remedies for the girl who suffers from mental lethargy or spiritual drowsiness. Homes and offices are seldom properly ventilated, even in this period of hygiene and campaigns for health. Every woman, during the winter season should take a long, brisk walk daily. She needs it to clear her complexion as well as her brains, to liven her heart and her heels.

TITLE BATTLE OF 1897 IS RECALLED

TURNING from the inferior heavyweights, feuling evils and fistic racketeering of the present to cast a glance backward to the days of real fights and real fighters, it is interesting to note that today is the thirty-third anniversary of one of the most sensational battles in ring history. On March 17, 1897, Bob Fitzsimmons wrested the heavyweight championship from Jim Corbett by knocking out the conqueror of John L. Sullivan in the fourteenth round of a thrilling fight to a finish in Carson City, Nev.

Jim Corbett

Fitzsimmons, still held by many to have been the hardest puncher and the greatest fighting machine of all time, demonstrated on that occasion what a wallop and an iron heart could accomplish against tremendous odds. He was almost 35 years old, was outweighed by 25 pounds, and during the first part of the bout was battered unmercifully by the flying fists of the fast and skillful Corbett. The latter scored first blood, a source of no little pride in the old days, and also a knockdown in the sixth round.

FROM then on, round after round, Corbett continued to pummel his lighter opponent at a rate that appeared to indicate he would eventually wear Fitz into a helpless state by his constant jabbing and stabbing. But, though covered with blood, old Bob kept fighting like a lion until finally, in the fourteenth round, he turned seeming defeat into victory with the famous shift and a terrific left-hand body punch that was so paralyzing in its force that it put Corbett down for the fateful count.

That marked the first of some noted anatomical discoveries in the fight game, the solar plexus. Ten years later Jimmy Britt contributed the ulna bone, and only recently Phil Scott further enriched science by the addition of the sciatic notch. The Fitz-Corbett mill, promoted by Dan Stuart, was the first billed as "The Battle of the Century," a line that has been copied and applied to almost every heavyweight fight of any importance in recent years. It also was the first notable instance of a woman's presence at a sport that now attracts the fair sex in large numbers. Mrs. Fitzsimmons sat near her husband's corner and coached him throughout the fight.

IN view of Fitzsimmons' achievement that day, 33 years ago, and the punching power he displayed on numerous other occasions, it isn't difficult to picture what he would do to Jack Sharkey, Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera, Victorio Campolo, Phil Scott, Tuffy Griffiths and the rest of the moderns.

Bob Fitzsimmons

Sometimes Fitz's socks were delivered at short range and traveled only a distance of inches, yet they were powerful enough to stop big Gus Ruhlin in six rounds, Jim Hall in four, Tom Sharkey, Dan Creedon and the ponderous Ed Dunkhorst in two each, and Peter Maher, Joe Godfrey, Jeff Thorne and Con Coughlin in one each. Coughlin was injured so severely that he died the following day. Lanky Bob in his heyday probably could have whipped all of the present heavyweight crop without trouble.

WHILE otherwise there may be some slight difference between the Cubs and the Red Sox and their pennant prospects for this year, there is one respect in which they are very much alike and jointly occupy a class of their own. That is, in having less left-hand hitting talent than any of the other clubs in the major baseball leagues. The Bruins have only one regular, Charley Grimm, who swings from the south side, and it looks as if the Hubiters will be in the same boat.

IN a spring squad of 40 Red Sox players there are only four left-hand hitters—Russell Scarritt, Phil Todt, John Winsett and Tom Oliver. And of these only Scarritt may be a regular, as Winsett and Oliver are merely rookies on trial and Bill Sweeney threatens to oust Todt from his first-base job.

Manager Heinie Wagner finds no joy in contemplating the fix in which he would find himself if anything should happen to Scarritt or if the latter should fall down in his second year in fast company. The club might be made up entirely of right-hand hitters. One consolation is being pointed out to Heinie, however. He wouldn't see very much of Lefty Grove.

NOT only do four spitball pitchers continue to defy time in the major leagues, but flingers of the same type persist in pestering the batters in some of the minor circuits. The Texas League, for one, will have its spitballers again this year, though it was thought until recently that the moist pitch had been eliminated from that loop.

Pinkey Whitney

When Houston dropped Paul Wachtel, the last of the Texas League spitters was believed to have passed out, but the cheers of the hitters were premature. For two other saliva artists have just come back. Shreveport has decided to let Oscar Tuero, Cuban chucker, return to its ranks, and Tom Estell, released by Beaumont, has been taken on by San Antonio.

WHEN the batting power of the Phillies happens to be the topic of any spring fanning bee, the major part of the mention invariably goes to Lefty O'Doul, Chuck Klein and Tripp Sigman. The last named, obtained from Canton, O., hit .517 in 10 games for the Phils in the fall of 1929 and Ed McLaughlin, former National League umpire, has predicted that he will make more home runs than Klein this year. But old Cy Williams, who knows a thing or two himself about batting, insists that they're all overlooking the best hitter on the Quaker payroll. He refers to the smallest man on the team, Third Baseman Pinkey Whitney.

"NOBODY on the Philadelphia club can hit as well as Whitney," Williams declares, "for the very good reason that nobody on the club can time a ball as well as he does in game after game. Pinkey never hits at a bad pitch. When he hits he has the apple timed to the fraction of a second.

"Perhaps you didn't hear so much about Whitney as a batter last season, but do you know that he made 200 hits? Well, he did. He gets his power from the fact that he knows how to time that ball to a split second and gets everything he has into his cut just when he needs it."

TWO of the big league managers who started spring training with a second-base problem on their hands have made their decisions. Donie Bush has picked Chalmers Bill Cissell as the keystone guardian

National A. A. U. Meet Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP.)—The eastern indoor track season will come to an end tomorrow night with the running of the National A. A. U. championships at Madison Square Garden, annually one of the finest meets on the program.

Track and field stars from every section of the country are entered in one or more of the 14 championships which will be up for decision. The events to be contested include the 60-yard dash, 300-yard, 600-yard, 1,000-yard and two-mile runs; one-mile walk, two-mile steeplechase, one and seven-eighths miles relay, 70-yard high hurdles, pole vault, shot put, running and standing high jump and standing broad jump.

N. KENSINGTON SET FOR TILT TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

The W. P. I. A. L.'s annual championship title elimination torment—pardon me, my goodness, tournament is the word, which has been running for several weeks in the Stadium, will be over and done with tomorrow night.

The semi-finals were shoved out of the way last week. New Castle and Duquesne finished it up with a raggedly contested game Saturday, and now, the Crimson-clad Dukes and the Red and Black of New Kensington tussle for the title tomorrow.

DUKES LOOK GOOD

Of the pair, Duquesne has looked all along like the best ball club, and, in fact, has played about as good basketball as any team in the tourney. That is not saying a whole lot, for the play this year has been under the standard of that offered in years past. It really is up to Duquesne and New Kensington to put up a real, nice ball game tomorrow.

Outstanding players have been few and far between. Unless it be Harapas, Duquesne's lanky forward, there has been no consistent player in the series. Harden, of Aliquippa, looked like he might be until the New Kensington game. Wilson, of the latter team, goes good in the late moments of play. Zerilla, of Ambridge, only got into one fracas, but played as well as any forward in any one game. Donnie Beck was nothing over which to rave Saturday, although he played good basketball in Duquesne's first two triumphs.

ALEXANDER WILTS

Alexander, New Castle center, started like a whirlwind in the first round game, but was nothing extraordinary thereafter. Malonovich, of Aliquippa, probably played as good a game at center as any pivot man, but he didn't last long enough.

Both Wilson and Harapas will have a splendid opportunity to match strides in tomorrow's finale . . . and an equally splendid opportunity to grab themselves off all-tourney forward honors.

The Tipoff

Spring grid practice will be resumed today at Pitt. The boys went at it with "vim and vigor" Saturday. Assistant Coach Andy Gustafson being forced to warn Jimmy Clark to let down a bit.

It was a treat Saturday to watch Al Bamont, the national singles handball champion, in action. Almont has a superb build, and is fast and unerring in the placing of his shots. He is one of the few handballers who plays without using gloves.

Billy (My Boy) Lewis, boxing promoter at the K. A. C., after watching Bamont in action against Al Blaine, Tippy Mann and Pete Popp, got off this crack: "I'll look kids of sing him anything for five smackers, but nuffin' doing on the handball."

Charley Bowser didn't make a bad move in securing the services of quarterback Johnny Roberts as his assistant coach on the new job at Bowdoin. Roberts was a smackin' good guard at Pitt, and knows his the play. He also has a personality which is no handicap to any football coach.

Chipeah Charley Hyatt and his barnstorming troupe begin their engagements this week. Charley is capitalizing on his fame, which, like all of its ilk, is fretting at the bent.

Speaking of fame being fleeting, how many all-American footballers of 1929 can you mention off hand? Ha, and remember those sneaky letters you write to the poor sport scribblers?

TOMORROW—THE MAN WHO WAITED 20 YEARS.

HART TO BOX RODGERS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Heine Hart, a youngster of German extraction, from Allentown, Pa., has been signed by the Motor Square Garden Club to take the place of Archie Bell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., against Jackie Rodgers, local Negro knockout sensation, in the 10-round main bout of the reopening show in the East End arena next Monday night.

Archie Bell

Hart, a comparative novice, has the stamp of approval of the boxing commission, Chairman Frank Wiener, of Philadelphia, recommending him. Heine recently fought Vidal Gregorio, the Spaniard, and holds a knockout victory over Johnny Canzoneri, who recently boxed Al Brown, the bantamweight champion. However, he does not stack up, on his record, as a tough opponent for the hard-hitting Rodgers, who figures to be a sure shot to run his string of knockout victories up to nine in this bout.

RECORDS AGAINST BILLICK

A basis of comparison between Hart and Rodgers may be drawn from their respective bouts with Dan Billick, of Duquesne. Rodgers twice has knocked out Billick in the first round, while Hart has been unable to accomplish such a result in two battles fought in Allentown. The first was declared a draw and Heine won the second, a few weeks ago, by the decision route at the end of eight rounds.

In offering Hart as a substitute for Bell, who took a runout Saturday, pleading illness, the Garden management announces it is unable to sign a boxer of reputation to box Rodgers, although the woods would appear to be full of candidates, such as Champion Al Brown, who has been angling for a match with Jackie here; John McCoy, veteran bantamweight, who has beaten Rodgers twice within the last year; Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, who holds two victories over him; Eddie Shea, Johnny Farr, Andy Martin, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Tommy Paul, Steve Smith and others.

FANS WANT REAL FOE

In his last three appearances in the Garden ring, Rodgers has knocked out Davy Adelman, Pete Zivic and Benny Schwartz, the last named in the first round. Since stopping Schwartz, he has knocked out Howard Mayberry, Donora veteran, in short order at the Moose Temple. He now is in Chicago training for next Monday night's substitute fight, which hardly will prove the drawing card that a match with Bell or some other opponent of recognized merit would be. Rodgers has been built up to the point where the fans want to see him matched against much-promised real opposition.

PETTY, MEINE TO HURL

By Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 17.—The feast of St. Patrick will be a busy day for the Pirates, but they will reach San Francisco too late to witness any of the big stuff that is always on tap in the Golden Gate city on St. Patrick's Day.

The Buccos will be up and about early tomorrow in anticipation of a long series at Recreation Park, San Francisco. Games with Wade Killefer's Missions are scheduled for tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, with the Seals to move in on the Buccos in the three succeeding days.

Jess Petty and Heinie Meine are due to work against the Killefer crew in tomorrow's game, according to Manager Ens' plans.

Jewel, by the way, was displeased over yesterday's defeat, yet he realizes that his club has had scant batting practice, while the San Francisco pitchers seem to be able to bear down with most of their best stuff.

Rodgers Balks, Ordered to Box Hart

Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle was called upon today to crack the whip to make Jackie Rodgers, training in Chicago, go through with his main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night against Heine Hart, subbing for Archie Bell, who withdrew on Saturday.

When James (Red) Mason and Johnny Deutsch, managers of Rodgers, were informed last night by long-distance telephone that Hart was being substituted for Bell, both demurred in violent terms, vowing that they would not go through with the match. The club today notified Commissioner Boyle, who wired the managers, reminding them that they had signed a contract calling for Rodgers to box the best available opponent, and adding that unless he goes through against Hart he will be placed on the suspended list for an indefinite period.

In other words, the whole mess is a fine headache.

PIRATES BEGIN EXHIBITION JAUNT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 17.—Tanned and conditioned to a satisfying point, the Pirates today were all ready to break away from their Paso Robles camp. The full squad is scheduled to leave for San Francisco shortly before 5 o'clock, it being due to reach the Golden Gate city six hours later.

Manager Ens has one long workout set for today. He will take his players to the ball park some time before noon, provided the weather is favorable. At the conclusion of the drill the athletes will dress for the big jaunt which will take them to many cities and states ere the bell rings, four weeks from tomorrow.

SEALS BEATS BUCS

The Pirates had to taste defeat yesterday in their first real test of the season. The setback was handed the big leaguers by the Classy San Francisco Seals, who came down from their Monterey camp to compete against the Buccos. The score was 4 to 1, the boys of the big show being held to four hits by two clever twirlers.

The weather broke in time to provide a nice day for the contest and it was witnessed by something like 1,500 fans. The spectators were torn between loyalty to the home state and to the adopted players, who use Paso Robles for the training site. Blood runs thicker than water and by this token, the Seals were able to count a big majority of supporters, judging by the shouting when Eddie Coleman rapped out the longest homer ever seen in the local lot.

Although the long wallop won the game, Coleman's drive was only one of a number of illuminating features that tickled the native sons and daughters. The Coast Leaguers, in particular, were loaded with banner plays.

Facts and Fancies About Our New Bucs

NO. 12—WILLIAM STUART CLARKE, INFIELDER

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 17.—Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, is the Happy Hunting Ground for kids as soon as they are able to "shag" a baseball—that is to be able to chase after the "rocket." In any of the 12 months of the year, you will find there boys of all ages learning the rudiments of the national pastime—and that is why so many lads of the Golden Gate advance to the major leagues.

Stuart Clarke

The O'Douls, the Kamms, the Pinellis, the Kellys, the Cronins, the Fonsecas—they all learned the game there, and you could keep on enumerating them until your sheet of paper would be filled.

Of particular interest in this tale is Stuart Clarke—that's the way he signs his name, but to the boys of the diamond he is Stewie, and he doesn't drink strong liquors either.

When Frank O'Doul, Willie Kamm and other stars were reaching the point where scouts are attracted, Stewie Clarke was a sturdy-legged lad in knee-breeches running down the balls that were not caught by the older boys. In that way did Clarke become soaked and permeated with baseball fever, so that it is small wonder that, at 23, we find him in the majors.

Stuart had finished high school and was attending Oakland Polytechnical College when he stepped out into professional baseball. He was starring in the wastes of the Mississippi Valley League when Sleuth Chick Fraser nailed him. More polish was needed, so Clarke went through the Columbia and Wichita preparatory schools, which route is a very safe one toward Pittsburgh, if the lads in question are blessed with ability.

Well, Stuart is here to contest with somebody. He played in quite a few games last season and made a number of friends in Pittsburgh. Manager Ens at present is grooming him as an understudy to Pie Traynor, but a role of this nature is obviously intermission when Pie is in good health, so Stewie is loath to confine himself to third. He can give a good account of himself at second and short. In any event, he stands a good chance of being retained.

"Why, Gus Suhr and I went to grammar school together," quoth Stewie as he reviewed his boyhood days. "I have a picture at home and we both are on it, but Gussie is a room ahead of me."—CHARLES J. DOYLE.

CARSON ENTERS CLUB IN CENTRAL LEAGUE

HOMEWOOD JOINS WEST PENN LOOP

By TOM BIRKS.

The sandlot bee started buzzing over Western Pennsylvania yesterday when word was passed around that the Allegheny Collegians, headed by Tom Carson had entered the Pittsburgh Central League, and that this club, city League champion in 1928 better known in those days as Hermes-Grove and then as Liberty Dairy practically be kept intact. This news, together with Homewood-Brushton's entrance into the West Penn, took the town by storm, and now the final meetings of the West Penn and Central 'oops, scheduled tomorrow evening at Homus Wagner's will be filled with interest.

CARSON SPONSORS TEAM

Tommy Carson one of the most popular managers ever to step on the sandlots, will sponsor the team that brought him fame in the City and Industrial loops. Sammy Leon and Walter Shee will head the pitching staff with Fenk and Tom Carson Jr. handling the brunt of the catching duties. Young Carson is at Bethany College at present, but will report home June 1.

The managers of the Central League are enthusiastic regarding the former City League champions coming into the midst. The competition is going to be keen. Carson did not make his final selection as to which league he would enter until late Saturday evening.

The clubs were just as keen regarding the entrance of Homewood-Brushton into the West Penn loop. Of course the managers are willing to take the word of Scott Morgan. Bill Cappe and President of Council Jack Herron together with Hank Daly, that Homewood-Brushton would have a club composed of plenty of local talent built around a few veterans. At the present time, big payrolls are practically taboo in every quarter, and officials and clubs feel it will help the game.

REORGANIZES CLUB

Daly is tearing apart the wonderful machine that walked away with the County League pennant. Quite a few well-posted sandlot men feel that much sincerity marks the statement coming from the East End to wit: "We will have a good community ball club, good enough to give all the teams in the West Penn loop a battle, but the days of the big payroll is gone." So now the West Penn shapes up with the best sandlot leagues ever organized in Allegheny County, and has great possibilities.

This evening at the Coraopolis Y. M. C. A. Honus Wagner will meet with representatives from the leading clubs of the Ohio Valley to organize what should be the best league around Sewickley and its environs. Monty Motors, Kokinos Cardinals, Maplewood, Neville Independents, P. J. Cauls, Conway, Gastners, and any other club on the other side of the river is invited to meet the great ball player and help to organize the loop. Little has been known of the doings of sandlot baseball in the Ohio Valley, and Honus Wagner is going to try to put a league there on the sandlot map.

AUSTIN TOPS BOROTRA

PARIS, March 17.—(AP.)—H. W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, sprang a sensation when he beat Jean Borotra, of France, 2-6, 6-2, 11-9, 6-2 here yesterday.

BERESFORD, Cal., March 17.—(AP.)—The Argentine polo team rode to a brilliant 10-to-4 victory over an all-star California team here yesterday.

Bergman May Accept Holy Cross Offer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 17.—(AP.)—R. (Dutch) Bergman, assistant football coach and head baseball coach at the University of Minnesota, who is being sought by Holy Cross as gridiron mentor, appeared today to be giving serious consideration to the offer.

Bergman was in Chicago Saturday discussing the offer with representatives of Holy Cross. The coach is expected to return here tomorrow.

Gallatin Cup Game May Be Postponed

It is quite possible that the scheduled Gallatin-Cleveland St. Stephens national amateur cup western soccer semi-final game scheduled for Cleveland next Sunday, will be postponed. Playing in Detroit yesterday afternoon, the Holley Carburetors and Cleveland Burel Hungarians played a tie game and the replay probably will be at Cleveland next Sunday.

Should the challenge cup committee order this game replayed on that date the local team will face a postponement, and seeing that the Gallatin officials have arranged for a special train they will get in touch with Secretary McEwan of Cleveland, without delay.

THE MARIN VICTOR

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 17.—(AP.)—The Marin, Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, New York, entry in the eight-meter boat class, won the second lap of the King of Spain trophy race here yesterday. Fred Erich Hoyt skippered the craft and barely missed out the Angelita entry of the California Yacht Club, Los Angeles.

Sport Vignettes

Boxing is in a bad way in New York State and there is considerable talk of a move to have it abolished at the next session of the Legislature . . . . A lotta guys who have made a fat living off it will have to go to work if this should come to pass . . . . So far as that goes, the sport is in the doldrums in many quarters, but it never has drawn better in Pittsburgh than right now, with three clubs flourishing . . . . The only dead spot in this section is McKeesport, where Promoter Jim McGirr, a veteran, deserves a better break . . . . That exhibition game at Rockview yesterday enabled the Pitt basketball team to conclude its season against the State Pen team instead of with Penn State, as scheduled . . . . Our Pirates break camp today convinced that the "no rain" boast of California is the old chamber of commerce bunk . . . . And when Pitt was out there on New Year's Day it was raining forward passes, if our memory does not play us false . . . . Wonder if Ripley had Paulino Uzcudun in mind when he sketched that Upside Down Man for yesterday's Sun-Telegraph? . . . . High school basketball tournaments are great things—to get out of the way . . . . Only bad feature about the end of the basketball tournament season is that the outdoor track season can't be far behind . . . . It's great to know that Everette Utterback, of Pitt, finished second in the Septathlon event of the Illinois relay carnival, even if most of us haven't any idea of what it's all about . . . . The real name of George Panka, the Homestead heavyweight boxer, is Posipanka, and, according to his manager, Bunny Buntach, Big Boy has more cousins than any other man alive . . . . They all bob up when he fights to shake hands with him, but they don't crash the gate . . . . Luke Carney says he knows a gent who has such a far-reaching mustache that everybody always is looking for the bicycle they think he must be riding as soon as they get a peek at the handle-bars . . . . Mose Butch, of Bouquet street, Oakland, aged 19, who won the national junior amateur bantamweight boxing championship at Cincinnati last Tuesday night, hopes to add the national senior title to his list of conquests at Boston next month, and, of course, plans later to turn professional . . . . He was beaten in the final round of the senior tournament in Boston last year by Albin Holden, of Providence, who since has deserted the medal ranks . . . . In the junior competition in the Chicago Stadium, last year, Mose reached the semi-finals before he was put out . . . . He is the youngest of seven children, five of whom are boys, and is a former Sun-Telegraph newsie . . . . His biggest booster is Joe Fenton, Oakland district circulation supervisor for this enterprising daily . . . . Mose thinks that Tony Marino, flyweight; Marty Gornick, lightweight, and Al Becker, welterweight, have a fine chance to cop in the senior title competition at Boston, in addition, of course, to himself and Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, who won the national junior lightweight title at Grand Rapids, Mich., a few days after Mose copped at Cincinnati.—HARRY KECK.

Duke Preps Play Thursday in Chicago

CHICAGO, March 17.—Loyola University's annual national Catholic prep basketball tournament begins here Wednesday night with the pick of the country's teams competing.

Growing in number of entries every year, the meet has attracted a total of 32 teams. Duquesne University Prep, of Pittsburgh, will play its first-round game against St. Gregory's High, of Shawnee, Okla., on Thursday.

ROSIES WIN FINAL

CLEVELAND, March 17.—Cookie Cuningham's nine points led the Cleveland Rosenblums to victory over Rochester, 28-23, here last night. It was the final game of the second half, won by Rochester.

Rodgers Works Out With Fidel LaBarba

CLUB TO OPEN

With a number of prominent speakers on hand, the Ray Riggle North Side Athletic Club, located at 908 Federal street, will be officially opened this evening. The club is going to sponsor all kinds of athletics, including a baseball team in the North Side Twilight League. The entertainment will be furnished by the North Siders own orchestra and singers, and the affair is open to all who care to attend.

GALLATIN TOPS GERMAN S. C.

In a game that was spoiled by a high wind together with two teams which would rather play the man than the ball, Gallatin defeated the German Sport Club, 3-2, in an American League game at Turner Park, West View, yesterday.

The game was not long under way before Gallatin was leading, Frank Benick converting a penalty kick to account. A little later Frank Broggio scored number two.

The Gallatin club showed poor form, and the Sport Club, taking up the running, tied up the game when Schidle scored. Then Grandy handled the ball and Helbig scored from the ensuing penalty kick. Half time arrived with the score tied. In the second half there was little to choose between the clubs, but Gallatin copped the points, and perhaps the league trophy, when Chislogni defeated Bishoff with the winning goal.

In other games, Glendale beat Heidelberg Eagles, 2-1, and Bower Hill lost to the Cuddy Eagles, 4-1. The lineups:

BOBBY JONES 28 TODAY

ATLANTA, March 17.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones' twenty-eighth birthday today finds the golfing king celebrating the realization of a boyhood ambition and laying plans for the achievement of a more important goal born of his links triumphs.

Bobby always wanted to be in baseball. He's in the national pastime now as executive vice president of the Atlanta club in the Southern Association.

His other objective is the British amateur crown—the only major golfing title he has not acquired during his amazing 14-year career on the fairways and greens.

The birthday meant only a huge pile of congratulatory messages and a short day at his law office. Bobby has kept himself in good physical condition throughout the winter, and he is engrossed in plans for his spring invasion of foreign courses.

He will lead the American team in the Walker Cup matches in England in May as his first international competition of the season. He also plans to enter the British open, the United States open and national amateur tournaments.

We Know

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

. . . the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

More than a damning social fault . . . spitting is a filthy, menacing habit . . . especially when it fouls the things you put into your mouth! Why run the risk of cigars made by dirty, yellowed fingers and tipped in spit? Remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

No. 1—Fielding for the Pitchers

By BABE RUTH.

Young Mac was a pretty fair kid pitcher, but Eddie and I had a lot of fun with him about his fielding. Like a lot of kid pitchers, he couldn't field a slow ground ball to save his life. His feet always were the way and he'd stumble and fall all over trying to pick up the ball.

"Gee, Mac," Eddie would say. "You're all feet. Some day you'll fall over your own dogs and break your neck."

"What am I doing wrong, Babe?" Mac asked me.

"Well," I said, "you're completely off balance at the end of your throw. You don't distribute your weight, and you take too long a stride. Maybe we can straighten you out."

First of all, I had Mac go through his pitching motion. He didn't use a ball at all, just wound up and pretended to throw. Then we marked his stride on the ground. I had him shorten it once, and then again.

Natural Stride Essential

"The idea," I told him, "is to take a stride that's natural. One that doesn't make you feel as if you were stretching, but one that is not so short that you feel off balance." After awhile we got the right distance.

"Now," I told him, "take the ball and throw it, but make sure each time that in stepping forward your left foot is directly in line with the batter. As you go forward with the pitch your weight goes onto your left foot at the time the ball is delivered. All there is to it then is to follow through with your weight. That naturally pulls your right foot up even and at the finish of your delivery your feet are parallel to each other, far enough apart to distribute your weight, and you're facing squarely toward the hitter, ready to go after any ball that's hit."

"But that makes me feel awkward," Mac protested.

"Sure it does," I told him, "because you're not used to it. It takes practice, the same as anything else."

The picture shows better what I mean.

In the picture, Mac has just let go of the ball. Notice that his left foot is firmly set so it can't slip. The swing of his body is just bringing the right foot around. At the end of the delivery he'll be in much the same position that I am, feet even and wide apart, with weight evenly divided and facing the hitter.

Practice Makes Perfect

Those who get to see big league games can learn the proper balance best by watching pitchers like Herbie Pennock and Eddie Rommel and Ted Lyons, who have the thing down to perfection. All of these three are great fielders. Art Nehf, of the Cubs, is another pitcher who never is off balance and can go either to right or left for a slow hit ball equally well.

Young fellows who don't get to see league games will have to work the thing out for themselves. All it takes is practice. Just be sure that your pitching stride is comfortable and natural and then watch out that your weight at the end of your pitch is evenly distributed on both feet, leaving you facing the batter and more or less on your toes. Once you can do that you won't have to be worried any more by those slow-hit grounders. You'll be ready for them.

DISTRICT LINKSMEN LOOK TO BIG SEASON

WARM WEATHER BRINGS OUT GOLFERS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Hundreds of district golfers yesterday took their first lick of the season, balmy spring, almost summer-like and surely ideal golf weather awakening the bug that has lain more or less dormant throughout the chill winter season. Temporary greens, well-thawed, somewhat soggy fairways, a deficiency of caddies and winter clubhouse staffs failed to dim their enthusiasm as they meandered from one hole to another, running up countless strokes that were well alibied—for who would question a man's score on his first trip out?

Other early spring seasons have painted the same picture, only to be marred by late March and early April winter scenes. Yet there is a chance local golfers will get the break of an early spring this year and get away on the right foot to what is anticipated as one of the brightest local golf seasons in recent years.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Oakmont has been honored with the National intercollegiate championship, which will give a splendid touch to a local season that promises to surpass the best we've had. Interclub team matches for both men and women, the West Penn championships, open, amateur and junior; women's weekly one-day tourneys, club invitation affairs, boys and caddie events, club championships—they all promise to be bigger and better than ever. Even Carl Kauffmann, Schenley's National public links champion for two years in a row, hopes to cop his third crown when the event is played this summer at Jacksonville, Fla.

Such is the optimism of early spring golfing days.

Tee to Green

With Schenley Park's public links slated to open "as soon after April 1 as possible," a number of golfers will resume their play there, although Schenley is not expected to be as congested as of years gone by in the event Director Paul H. Ellis lives up to his promise and g ves Allghenv County folks a chance to play the new South Park layout. Al McBride will be back on the job at Schenley; it is reported he received a substantial increase in salary this year, and no one deserves it more than Al.

A new course, owned and operated by the Summit Hotel, will be opened May 1 at Mt. Summit, near Uniontown, Pa. Jimmy Lavelle, Nemacolin's entertaining pro, tells us Leo L. Heyn has signed Lou Groff well-known Philadelphia instructor, for the job. Groff has been assistant to Charley Hoffner at Philmont for two years; was with Emmet French for a year at Southern Pines, and spent another with Dan Boardman in Atlantic City. He's a good guy, if you'll believe Jim.

Sam Faria, Jr., Highland's champion, wants to know why a golf team isn't in vogue at Pitt, where he is a student, and also why a collegiate golf league isn't organized? Don Saunders, take the tip.

G. E. McK. Nyrom, Wilkinsburg golfer, has gone to Miami, Fla., to practice for his annual matches with Frank Cronkhite, Aurora's favorite.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association will hold its annual dinner dance tonight at the Charlotte Country Club. Walter H. Metzgar, president of the association, will be in complete charge.

PIRATES BAFFLED

The two Italian boys who guard the left side of Nick Williams' infield were star fielders throughout the contest, and Pinelli caused many uproars by his consistent batting. Babe flailed the Pirate pitchers for two doubles and a single.

Curtis Davis and Lefty McDougal, a pair of clever pitchers, had so much stuff on the ball that Pirate batters were plainly baffled. The Buccos, however, went into action in a rusty conditions as the result of the long layoffs. They were able to make only three hits while Davis worked, and Southpaw McDougal held the enemy to one blow while he hurled the sphere.

Remy Kremer pitched the first three rounds for the Pirates and was found for only one run. Ervin Brame then did a three-inning stretch, but the Seals plastered the Kentuckian considerably. Coleman connected for his long homer in the fifth and Gaston's first triple sent over two more tallies in the fifth. Lil Stoner blanked the visitors in the remaining three frames.

Capt. Pie Traynor was out of the battle with an infected eye, Stuart Clarke taking his place at third base.

BUC SECONDS BEATEN

MONTEREY, Cal., March 17.—The Pittsburgh Pirates' second team went down before the San Francisco Seals' seconds, 9 to 7, in their exhibition battle here yesterday. Earl Sheely's homer with two on the bags in the seventh put the game on ice. Flagstead and Mosolf hit homers for the Corsairs, while Martin and Penebsky duplicated for the Seals.

Swetonic, Chagnon and Erickson worked for the Pittsburghers, Chagnon getting the worst of the going-over. The score: for the White Sox and Eddie Marshall seems certain to be John McGraw's choice for the Giants.

Long's Sport Comment

Bush thinks Cissell will develop into as good a second sacker as the American League boasts, not excepting Charley Gehringer, of the Tigers. McGraw is satisfied with Marshall's fielding, and though there still is some doubt about the youngster's hiting, it's a case of either taking a chance with him as a regular or putting Andy Reese back on second. The latter move would mean no improvement in the Giant infield over that of last year, and results proved that that wasn't good enough.

Chuck Wiggins

PRIMO CARNERA has been scattering his work, having staged his nine American bouts to date in nine cities and in as many different states, but tonight for the first time he will make a return appearance. He is to meet Chuck Wiggins for 10 rounds in St. Louis, the same city in which Buster Martin was fed to him in his fourth engagement in this country. Wiggins, 32 years old and in the ring since 1919, has won five bouts since he returned to action, defeating Jim Barry, Pedro Lopez, Frankie Wine, George Cook and Al Friedman, but it will not be surprising if he goes the way of the rest of Carnera's opponents and loses to the Italian giant in some manner or other tonight. Primo's handlers probably know what they are doing. They are unlikely to let the big fellow, headed for a fortune, run into a defeat at this stage of the profitable build-up. It means a mint to bring him up to a fight with Jack Dempsey or a match for the heavyweight title, and don't be surprised if they get away with it, with perhaps a little more than the moral support of some others who also stand to profit by the final big killing.

YANKEES NAME LINEUP

ST. PETERSBURG, March 17.—(AP.)—Manager Bob Shawkey, of the New York Yankees, announces that the Yankee lineup for the opening games of the season against the Athletics at Philadelphia, April 15, will be: Combs, Ruth and Cooke in the out field; Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Chapman in the infield; Dicky catching and either Hoyt or Pipgras pitching.

This lineup departs from last year's in only two instances, Cooke and Chapman being minor league stars who seem to have made the big league grade.

CUBS BACK IN CAMP

AVALON, CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., March 17.—(AP.)—All even with the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League, at two victories each, the National League Champion Chicago Cubs today were back at their island training station for routine drill.

Manager Joe McCarthy was pleased with the work of his team yesterday when the Angels were defeated, 10 to 5, and held to eight hits by Moss, Malone and Bush. The Cubs pounded out 18 hits.

Mary Browne Plans Comeback in Golf

CLEVELAND, March 17.—(AP.)—Mary K. Browne, nationally prominent golf and tennis star, planned here today to resume the former game, in which she once was runner-up in the national championship.

Returning here from a foreign trip and restored recently to amateur standing in the United States Golf Association, Miss Browne said "I'm surely glad to be back and again eligible. I'm going to play just as much as I possibly can. I haven't any idea how well I can play now, having been away from the competitive field for over three years, but I'm going to try anyway."

Anyone who has been feeling sorry for John Harvard athletically has another guess coming. Under the able guidance of Billy Bingham, things at Harvard have been coming along by leaps and bounds. No other than Biff Jones, coach of the Army, told me that Harvard was the toughest team he met last fall. Harvard had a whale of a sophomore backfield, including Wood, quarterback. This backfield gives every indication of putting Harvard back on the pinnacle she occupied during the Haughton regime.

Knute Rockne

The Harvard track team this winter was sensational. While the best it could do was third place in the Eastern Collegiates, yet its one-mile relay team hung up a new world indoor record of 3 minutes, 20 3-5 seconds.

Harvard probably will continue to meet her natural rivals in all forms of sport and it would not be surprising to see a Mid-Western game, and even a Pacific Coast game, added as an annual feature on the Crimson football schedule.

PAIR OF SWIM MARKS FALL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 17.—(AP.)—Helene Madison, of Seattle, hung up her third world record in as many days when she cut 15 3-5 seconds from the former mark for the 500-yard free style swim here yesterday in the National A. A. U. women's indoor championships. Her time was six minutes, 16 2-5 seconds.

Josephine McKim, of the Los Angeles A. C., former Homestead, Pa., star, placed second and Lisa Lindstrom, of New York, third. Miss McKim's time of six minutes, 29 seconds was three seconds better than the former world record.

Miss Holm nosed out the field in the 100-yard back stroke to clip three-fifths of a second from the former record. Her time was one minute, 12 seconds.

Nick Altrock Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 17.—Well, the ball season is sure well under way when the magnates start kicking about the weather.

You see, it rained Saturday from Florida to California and if there is one class of people that's in favor of a perpetual draught, it is a club-owner. Even if he got saved on Noah's Ark, 40 days of rain would kill a baseball magnate of melancholy.

Nick Altrock

Say I saw a wonderful sight yesterday. One of those baseball experts that has already doped out how the clubs will finish next October was making out his income tax and couldn't figure the exemption for his two dependent children right.

TILDEN WINS THREE TITLES

NICE, France, March 17.—(AP.)—Three championships in the Southern France tennis tournament fell into the hands of Big Bill Tilden, veteran Philadelphia player, yesterday.

Tilden won the singles title by defeating Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis Cup player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. He then paired with Wilbur F. Coen, of Kansas City, to capture the doubles championship, beating the Japanese Satos and Takeichi Harada, in a hard-fought five-set match, 2-6, 3-6, 6-3, 7-9, 6-1.

The mixed doubles title went to Tilden and his German partner Cecile Aussem, through a 6-4, 6-0 victory over Elizabeth Ryan, former American, now living in England, and Charles Kingsley, of England.

The women's title went to Mme. Simone Mathieu, of France, who defeated Miss Ryan, 6-4, 7-5.

PASADENA, Cal., March 17.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody took a straight set, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, in the women's singles final of the Huntington Hotel invitation tennis tournament yesterday.

FOR WILD PITCHERS

ROBBIE'S NEW DEVICE

Here is a new contraption being tried by Manager Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn Robins, to tame down his wild pitchers. It consists of two football tackling dummies suspended over home plate to provide a restricted zone for the woozy "throwers" to practice against. In other words, it's the straight and narrow path for them. Al Lopez is the catcher in the picture.

GOLD SUPPLIES AMPLE, SAYS BANKER

Chase National Official Suggests More Liquidity To Ease Credit Problem

INDIANAPOLIS, March 17.—"There is enough gold in the central banks of the world to make it easy to supply all the bank credit that is needed for legitimate business purposes, and annual production of gold is ample to meet the legitimate needs of business expansion." Benjamin M. Anderson, economist of Chase National Bank, said in a speech before Indianapolis Bondmen's Club. He said he did not fear a "good panic" nor does he feel the high Federal Reserve ratio indicates an abundance of gold. He believes that easy money depends not so much on gold as on the character of bank credit.

Dr. Anderson maintained, however, that there is not enough gold to enable continued rapid expansion of credit at the rate of the past few years.

NEED FOR LIQUIDITY

"Bank credit has been used as a substitute for investors' savings in financing the mortgage market, financing the building trade, financing the one-sided flow of goods in the export trade, and, above all, financing an unprecedented stock market speculation.

Pointing out that a country such as England before the war can get along with very little gold when its bank credits are in liquid form, he said:

"Easy money depends not only on the cash reserve position of banks, or on the gold position of central banks and Federal Reserve banks; it depend also upon the general liquidity of bank assets. At the present time, the money markets of the world show a very wide disparity between the rates on highly liquid credits and rates on those which are slower or which have been overdue.

SHORT TERM RATES LOW

"In the United States, mortgage money is difficult to obtain, and rates are high. Yields on foreign bonds are very high and rates on customers' loans against securities are high. On the other hand, acceptance rates are low, and the three-month paper of the United States government goes at around 3 per cent.

"If it should develop that the existing volume of bank credit is too great to be comfortably maintained with the existing volume of gold commerce, industry and agriculture need not, on that account, fear that credit available for their purposes will be inadequate. Commerce, industry and agriculture are first claimants upon the bank credit of the country. The securities market must content itself with what is left.

MOBILITY OF GOODS

"The fundamental solution of the problem of a comparative shortage of gold is to be found in increasing the mobility and the liquidity of goods, through less restricted international trade. When nations interpose serious obstacles to the receipt of goods from one another, a great deal of the export trade is handled on the basis of long credits, which either make slow loans in banks or else require the exporting country to take foreign bonds. These credits must grow from year to year to provide for new exports, and to provide for interest on previous credits.

"When, however, goods can move with adequate freedom from country to country, and when exports can be paid for with imports, a very different situation is presented. Short-time, self-liquidating credits, largely on an acceptance basis, can then take care of a great volume of export and import business, and the world's supply of gold is abundantly adequate for that. We can economize gold by increasing the mobility and liquidity of goods."

Bethlehem Shows Gain In Earnings

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ENORMOUS expenditures for modernization of plants has made it possible for the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to show spectacular gains in earnings. With its position in the Eastern territory well secured, the proposed merger with Youngstown Sheet and Tube is the next logical step in the organization's development. It will give Bethlehem production at both Youngstown and Chicago and it will round out the organization's capacity in the pipe field.

With both sides making claims of success in the battle for control of Youngstown Sheet and Tube it is impossible to make any prediction as to the outcome of the proposed merger. It seems likely that Sheet and Tube will prosper equally well whether it eventually becomes part of Bethlehem or part of the Republic group.

The opposition on the part of Cyrus S. Eaton is natural since for years he has had his own plans for the disposition of Sheet and Tube. Many of the individuals in Youngstown who are siding with Eaton are acting under the fear that the executive organization of Sheet and Tube may be taken from the city. Several weeks ago Eaton gave assurances that the Republic management would be kept at Youngstown.

Profits Gain 127 Per Cent

THE annual report of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation made public today showed a gain in earnings of 127 per cent over 1928. Net profit after all charges of $42,242,980, compared with $18,585,922 in the preceding year and with $15,826,142 in 1927. This was identical with the profit shown in the preliminary earnings statement.

Profit for 1929 was equivalent, after deducting preferred dividends, to $15.50 a share on the average number of 2,272,333 common shares outstanding during the year. It was equivalent to $11.01 a share on 3,200,000 shares outstanding at the close of the year. Profit in 1928 was equivalent to $6.52 a share on 1,800,000 shares outstanding in 1928.

Spent $157,000,000

THE gain in profits reflected the high rate of steel mill activity last year and the lower production costs secured as a result of the expenditure of $157,000,000 on plant modernization since 1923.

While Bethlehem will feel the general business depression it is generally expected that a more satisfactory comparative statement will be shown in the first and second quarters of this year than the average for the industry. This will be due to the increased plant efficiency.

Many steel companies showed declines in their statements for the last three months of 1929 but Bethlehem's net profit, while smaller than in the second and third quarters, was greater than in the first quarter of 1929 and greater than in any single quarter of 1928.

Funded Debt Reduced

THE report points out that during the year approximately $136,000,000 was raised by issues of common stock to be applied in reduction of funded debt and in financing new capital outlays. The corporation's common stock was changed into shares without par value and the authorized common stock increased to 5,000,000 shares without par value. On June 18, 1929, 600,000 shares of new common stock were offered for subscription by the stockholders and an additional 800,000 shares were offered on October 21, 1929. The proceeds of these two offerings, being received late in the year, contributed very little to the year's earnings. Between December 31, 1928, and February 1, 1930, Bethlehem paid or retired by purchase or redemption $83,869,977 of its funded debt out of $199,421,172 outstanding at the end of 1928. The report states that the funded debt will be further reduced during the current year through the application of the remainder of the money provided for that purpose by the sale of common stock last October.

Phila. Area Wage Disbursements Increasing

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported that factory employment and wage payments in Pennsylvania showed some gain between January and February, following a steady decline from the peak reached in the fall of last year.

"The number of wage earners increased about two-tenths of 1 per cent from January to February and was 1.7 per cent larger than in February, 1929," the report states. "Groups comprising industries manufacturing textile, food, tobacco, stone, clay and glass and chemical products, and transportation equipment, had more workers in February than they had in January, reflecting seasonal improvement.

"Metal, lumber and leather products on the other hand, reported a drop in employment. The paper and printing industry also had fewer workers than in January. In comparison with a year ago, building materials generally and some of the metal products had fewer men on their payrolls. Other groups, however, maintain a favorable comparison.

ponents, and their wishes in the matter should be respected.

Between Rounds

Boxing shows are scheduled for tonight at Washington, Pa., and the Jolly Bowl in New Castle as well as at Wheeling, W. Va. Big Boy Peterson, Pittsburgh colored, meets Ed (Pal) Creighbaum, Washington heavy, who is making a comeback after an absence of five years from the ring, in the windup event in the Chanceth at Little Washington, while Emmett Rose, of Elwood City, and Al Friedman, of Boston, fresh from a hard and close fight with Tuffy Griffiths, Boston, do the honors at New Castle. Babe Ruff, of Louisville, and Sidney Williams, Wheeling featherweight, are the topliners at Wheeling. Tommy Crawley, local light-weight, boxes Joey Costa, of New York, at Jersey City, N. J.

Two amateur shows also are on the cards tonight. One is an inter-city show between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati at the Keystone A. C., and the other a benefit affair under the auspices of the Pantheon A. C. for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post No. 418, in Lithuanian Hall, Mckees Rocks.

The program for the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati show with the Pittsburgh boxers named first follows: 112 pounds, Buster Lyons vs. Bobby Keim; 118 pounds, Rose Butch, National Junior Bantamweight champion, vs. Earl Stevens; 126 pounds, Edward Brown vs. Lefty Gallagher; 135 pounds, George Zaffos vs. Lee Sandhouse and Bob McCormack vs. Al Schwartz; 147 pounds, Dick Graham vs. Jimmy Lafrate, and 160 pounds, Al Decker vs. Irwin Brucker.

Frank Novak, of the North Side former A. M. A. heavyweight champion, who ran into a surprise knockout at the hits of Chuck Taggart, of Butler, at McKeesport, last Thursday night, will put up for a couple of weeks and then make a comeback, according to his manager, Cy Burnett, who plans to rematch him with Taggart at an early date.

Bernard Kelly, Jr., of McKeesport, now is representing Elmer Brozonak, welterweight, and Rod Brozonak, lightweight, of Cincinnati, nephews of the onetime famous Andy Brozonak, and is open for engagements for them in this section.

Mickey Davis, of Johnstown, did his training in New York for his bout with his hometown rival, Johnny Chiodo, which will draw a packed house at Johnstown tomorrow night with the city lightweight title at stake. His manager, Eddie McCluskey, of Johnstown, has divided his interest in Mickey with Leo P. Flynn, veteran New York pilot, who will look after the boxer's affairs in the East. Mickey recently made a hit in Gotham with Johnny Shackley and Ut. S. Carpenter here.

Tommy O'Connell, of Canton, O., manager of Young Corbett, takes exception to the recently published statement that Corbett Lee lost three times to Pattling Gray, saying they have fought only once, at Washington, Pa., when Gray ruffled off the decision. A second bout at New Brighton, recently was called off when Gray came up with a bad hand and an infected jaw. Corbett broke Bobby Young in the semi-final at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Harry Williams, lost Negro heavyweight, beaten last week by George Parks, will be out to fight his way back toward the top when he meets Chuck Burns, of Akron, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport Thursday night.

Interest is keen in the return to the ring of Buck McTiernan, Keiserite star who has been taking the rest cure since his knockout by Mickey Sommers at the Moose Temple in December. He faces Johnny Flat, of Greenville, Pa., in the windup in the same ring Friday night. Incidentally, according to Buck, Buddy Hanlon, manager of Buck, hasn't been able to get Mc-Tiernan in a return bout at the latter's new weight, 160 pounds. Mickey wants Buck to peel down to 147.

Vincent Hambright, of Cincinnati, and Joe Grippo, of Rochester, N. Y., have been matched to box the main bout at Motor Square Garden one week from next Monday night.

Georgie Nichols, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, middleweights, will box the main bout at Oil City next Monday night. Johnny Mandell, of Cleveland, and Mickey Paul, of Buffalo, will appear in the semi-final.

Freddie Edwards, of Chester W. Va., and Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, will meet in the semi-final at McKeesport Thursday night.

The Fidel LaBarba-Fort Martin bout planned for Chicago next Friday night and postponed because of the death last week of Martin's mother, has been rescheduled for April 21. Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Jimmy Maloney, of Chicago, clash in the Windy City tonight.

Tommy Loughran, reigned light-heavyweight champion, takes on Jack Renault at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight for his first bout in his home town in 17 months.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Jesse Duke, of Clearfield, Pa., will meet in the second bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Young Nanni, of Rotterdale, and Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, who always put up a great fight against each other, have been signed for the second bout at Duquesne Garden, Wednesday night.

Stocks Turn Up — Local Stocks Narrow

BUYING IN OILS TURNS STOCK UPWARD

Score Petroleum Shares Move Into Fresh Highs; Some Advance 5 Points

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP.)—Heavy buying of the oil shares, a score of which moved into new high ground on gains ranging from fractions to 5 points, turned the feneral course of stock prices upward today after an early period of irregularity. The demand for the oils was influenced by recent favorable developments in the trade situation, and rumors that the United States Senate was likely to adopt a duty on oil.

Bearish professionals tried to unsettle the market in the early raiding, but failed to force much liquidation of long stock. American Locomotive, Gillette Safety Razor, International Silver and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were hammered to new low levels for the year, and probably a dozen other issues sold down 1 to 3 points.

ENCOURAGING NEWS

Despite reports of a slackening in some of the major industries last week, Wall Street found considerable encouragement in preliminary reports that federal income tax collections were exceeding earlier estimates and from Secretary Lamont's statement that officials of various states were showing remarkable co-operation in responding to the federal government's plea that building work be speeded up.

Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent, but dropped to 3 in fourth hour. Outside money was available as low as 2½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper markets also displayed an easier undertone.

New 1930 highs in the oil groups were registered by Atlantic Refinining, Indian Refining common and the certificates, Midcontinent, Pierce Oil issues, Pierce Petroleum, Simms Petroleum, Skelly, Standard Oils of California and New York, Transcontinental (new) and Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil. In addition, Houston was marked up nearly 5 points and Standard Oil of New Jersey and Texas Corporation sold at least 2 points above last week's final quotations.

ADVANCES WIDE

Worthington Pump le dthe specialty list with an early gain of nearly 9 points, setting a new peak for the year at 120. Auburn Auto and J. I. Case sold at least 7 points higher, and Hershey Chocolate, International Business Machines, May Department Stores and Sears, Roebuck advanced 2 to nearly 4 points.

Best & Co., A. M. Byers, Collins & Aikman, Interborough Rapid Transit, H. K. Mallinson and United Carbon attained new 1930 peaks.

GULF FAVORS OIL PLAN

W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Corporation of Pennsylvania, stated today that his company favors the recommendation of the federal oil conservation board and has materially reduced the quantity of crude oil it is running in its refineries. Its policy now is to operate its refineries to meet current orders only, without adding to stock. Its stocks, in fact, are substantially below normal for this time of the year. Furthermore, the Gulf producing companies have been and are co-operating fully in carrying out proration plans in fields in which they operate, where such plans have the sanction of the state conservation commissions.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(INS.)—Mickey Meyers, Gus Meyers, Sam Meyers and James Swift, all convicted in the Western Pennsylvania Federal court of violating the prohibition law, today lost their appeals to the supreme court for review. The Meyers brothers and Swift were convicted as members of a South Side liquor ring. Others, notable police and politicians, were acquitted.

FINE IMPOSED ON BANK

RIO JANEIRO, March 17.—The equivalent in Brazilian currency of $3,000,000 was deposited in the Banco Do Brasil by the National City Bank of New York as a guarantee for a fine of a like amount recently laid on the bank's San Paulo branch by the inspector general of banks. The inspector general alleged that the National City Bank branch there had carried on exchange transactions contrary to the banking laws of Brazil. At the same time the bank filed an appeal from the decision.

Senor Ramalho Ortegao, Brazilian inspector general of banks, announced on February 5 that he had ordered a fine of nearly $3,000,000 imposed upon the National City Bank for alleged fraudulent exchange transactions in its Sao Paulo branch during recent months.

When informed of his action, National City Bank officials in New York said officials of the bank here stated that the charges had been made and fully denied some time ago. The charges had also been the subject of some excited comments in the Brazilian press during the political campaign now in progress.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 17.—Despite rain in Kansas, wheat prices here advanced early today, owing to sharp upturns in Liverpool quotations. Liverpool reported British stocks of wheat decreasing and said Argentine sellers had withdrawn from the market. Opening ⅝c to 1⅜c up, Chicago wheat futures scored additional gains later. Corn, oats and provisions showed strength also, with corn starting ¼c to 2c higher, and afterward keeping near the opening range.

Giving special point to a rise of 3¼ pence per bushel in wheat values at Liverpool today were advices that Liverpool stocks of wheat had been curtailed 370,000 bushels, and that arrivals of wheat at British ports showed 800,000 bushels falling off. Under such circumstances, word of showers over a good part of Kansas failed to act as a market couterbalance here, and commission house buying was decidedly more in evidance than of late has been the rule.

Further impetus to upward swings of wheat values came about through complaints of damage to wheat in Southern Illinois and Southern Indiana. Many fields were said to show extensive injury as a result of soil heaving and because of Hession fly ravages. On the other hand, overnight demand from Europe for wheat from North America gave but little sign of any pronounced enlargement.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP.)—Trading on the curb market today reflected speculative uncertainty. Unusually cheap credit failed to dispel the obscurity overhanging the general business outlook and traders for the most part pursued highly cautious lines of activity and price movements were largely narrow and irregular.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Enterprise to Benefit From Cheap Money

—By B. C. FORBES—

MARCH continues to mark time business wise.

Employment reports are slightly more encouraging, bank clearings are not running quite so far behind a year ago, retail activity has increased at certain points, the oil industry is cheered by an advance in western prices, the approach of warmer weather stimulates interest in automobiles, construction is confidently expected to broaden from now on, stimulated by distinctly easier money.

OFFSETTING developments, however, have not been absent.

March wheat dipped ominously near the $1 mark at Chicago, contrasted with $1.25 a year ago. March corn went below 75 cents, against close to $1 twelve months ago. Oats sank below 40 cents and rye under 60 cents, in contrast with $1.10 for rye at this time last year. Cotton dipped to a new low price early in the week, but later recovered mildly.

The general commodity price level again declined. February exports, at $351,000,000, were $90,000,000 below a year ago and the lowest since 1923. Both wheat and cotton shipments, despite the low prices, are unusually light, while home-mill buying of cotton last month was the poorest in eight years.

Railway car loadings are fully 8 per cent under a year ago and the smallest at this season since 1922.

The latest steel statistics reveal a drop in ingot output from 78 to 75 per cent. Both railway and automobile ordering is very cautious.

THE reduction in the New York re-discount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent, important in itself, emphasizes Washington's anxiety to bring about cheap money throughout the country.

Wall Street call loans ended the week at 3 per cent, time money at 4 to 4¼, commercial paper at 4¼ to 4½c, and bankers' acceptances at 3⅛ bid up to 4 months.

The Department of Commerce revealed that imports swelled this country's stock of gold by $60,000,000 last month—an unexpectedly high figure. Federal Reserve Bank report a reserve ratio of 80.8 per cent, against 70.7 per cent a year ago, an extraordinary margin over legal requirements.

Already the reserve banks of other centers have started to lower their rates. That still cheaper money will become freely available throughout the country is certain. Nor can it be doubted that this will encourage business enterprise. The bond market has responded by a brisk advance, suggesting that new offerings will find a ready absorption.

THE stock market turned quite weak on Wednesday, rallied feebly the following, relapsed on Friday and did not recover on Saturday. Quotations ended several points under the previous week's close. Obviously, the lowering of the discount rate had been widely anticipated by stock operators, otherwise the fresh drop in money would have been reflected by more buoyant speculation. A rise of $137,000,000 in brokers' loans was interpreted as indicating modest expansion in public buying of stocks.

Unusually extensive bear accounts exist, brokers declare, in quite a number of stocks. Most professional speculators are bearish. Leading bankers, on the other hand, look for nothing worse than moderate setbacks and for higher prices as business develops more activity.

THE farm board's actions are criticized in financial and business circles.

"The board is flopping and floundering, first doing one thing and then hastily trying something else, apparently without rhyme or reason," commented one critic.

Although Congress unhesitatingly extended another $100,000,000 to the board, this is not expected to last long unless different tactics are adopted.

That wheat is piling up alarmingly at terminal points cannot be gainsaid. That other countries are selling their crops in foreign markets while the United States government holds the umbrella is also all too obvious.

What will be the condition when the new crop begins to come on the market? That question is causing grave concern. Paying artificially high prices—with taxpayers' money—is dubious "cure" for overproduction. Other nations that have attempted to peg prices of basic commodities have usually had to pay dear finally.

IT will be interesting to watch how cheap money influences sentiment and enterprise. It is not a cure-all, but experience has shown that it can be very potent.

ROAD TO SPEND 5 MILLION

ROCHESTER, Pa., March 17.—Plans of the Pennsylvania Railroad for extensions and improvements in and about Rochester contemplate the expenditure of between five and six million dollars.

These figures were announced by C. I. Leoper, general manager of the Pennsylvania, in a conference here with citizens of Rochester and vicinity relative to elimination of several grade crossings and other improvements.

VALLEY STEEL AT LOW EBB

YOUNGSTOWN, March 17.—Midwest steel makers believe that the bottom in the current downward trend of the steel industry will be reached this week, when schedules will average 65 per cent. This compares with an average production rate of 75 per cent in February. Improved business and schedulings are expected thereafter.

Of 51 independent open hearth furnaces, 28 melt next week, which compares with a high of 41, active last month. Of 120 valley sheet mills, 71 will be under power, against 69 the week before.

Strip mills will average 65 per cent, pipe capacity 50 per cent, and tin mills 60 to 65 per cent. Independent steel bar mills will average 60 per cent.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic Iron and Steel and Carnegie Steel will operate their properties at an average rate of 65 per cent.

Newton Steel reports schedules at 75 per cent, a moderate gain over the preceding week.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Caught

EVERYTHING looked rosy to Bradley Nelson. He had been made president of the Silver Cove Country Club.

A kind-hearted aunt had left him sufficient funds to manage without work, and to dress well and put up an appearance of greater affluence than he really possessed.

Also, Ruth Gaffeney had come to the Cove for the summer months!

Ruth was the rosiest outlook of all for Brad Nelson.

Ruth was a rosy outlook for anyone, for that matter. She was vivacious, she was petite and beautiful and she was the daughter of J. G. Gaffeney.

J. G. controlled more oil wells than he had bothered to count in recent years. Ruth was the only child.

Brad Nelson was as fond of Ruth as it was possible for him to be fond of anyone—except Brad Nelson. More than that, Ruth had always liked him. This season, Nelson assured himself, he would be in a position to win Ruth!

It certainly looked that way to everyone at the exclusive Silver Cove colony.

Ruth and Brad were together much of the time. Brad's prestige as president of the very swank country club was a big help. Even J. G. Gaffeney took an interest in Nelson this year. And Nelson was not so very much of a fool. He let old J. G. trim him about four times out of five at golf.

On the hill just back of the sacred milhonaire colony was the old Chester place.

People noticed, in the first weeks of July, that there were lights in it. The place hadn't been occupied for years, or since old Mrs. Chester died and Gaffeney and others were able to buy her rolling fields for their links and club grounds.

Mrs. Appleby, whose curiosity was considerably above normal, learned that a young man named Hartwell had leased the old Chester place.

"They say he is a college professor," she explained.

"All the college professors I ever knew," said Mr. Gaffeney, "were not able to lease expensive places like that."

However, the newcomer made no attempt to get in with the Cove crowd.

Reproached

One morning Smith, one of the salaried keepers in the colony, found Hartwell enjoying an early morning swim.

"Sorry, sir," said Smith, "but this is a select swimming beach."

"Who selected it?" asked Hartwell.

There was a giggle. He looked around and saw Ruth Gaffeney on the little landing.

"I mean," said Smith, "that it is private."

"The beach, my good man," said Hartwell, "is not private. It belongs to a state park system that in time will be developed."

"All I know is that unless you belong to the colony here you can't swim," snapped Smith.

"But I can swim."

Smith got angry and red because Miss Gaffeney giggled again.

"Don't try to be funny. What I mean is that I won't let you swim. I'll put you off."

"If you can," Hartwell answered, quietly.

Ruth couldn't see just what the tall and thin young man did to Special Officer Smith, but Smith was suddenly on his back. Then he was lifted and run forcibly down the landing and kicked off into 20 feet of water.

Mr. Hartwell took out a card and left it under a rock on the landing.

Smith was wading ashore by this time.

"There's my card—sorry I had to cool you off—you may do whatever you think best," Hartwell said to him, then he went back to finish his swim.

Ruth, interested, went out to the float. Hartwell took it for granted that, being out so early, she was one of the maids at some of the big places there.

"Do you work here at the Cove, Miss?" he asked.

"Why, yes," said Ruth. "I work over at the Gaffeney place."

"Gaffeney? J. G., the Big Noise in oils?"

"Yes, sir," Ruth said, meekly.

"Tell me, is he snooty?"

"He—he treats me very nicely," answered Ruth.

"Anyone should treat you nicely," Hartwell said, quite seriously.

Coy Glance

"Why?" Ruth gave him a rather coy glance.

"Because you strike me as being the prettiest and most ladylike girl I've seen around here. I suppose you are a maid?"

"Sort of. Don't you ask a lot of questions, though!"

"Oh, I always ask questions—it's a good way to learn. My business is learning."

"Detective or reporter?" Ruth eyed him suspiciously.

"Neither. I just putter around. I wouldn't have known that I had a right to swim on this beach if I hadn't asked questions. From what I've seen of the people here I imagine that the maids are the real ladies—if they are like you. My name is Hartwell. I'm staying in that old house up there for the summer."

"Someone said that you are a college professor, Mr. Hartwell."

"I was for a while. I may be for some time or I may not be. It depends on my success in other lines. Miss——er——?"

"Dutton," said Ruth, giving him her middle name, which was her mother's maiden name.

"I hope to see you again, Miss Dutton," said Hartwell.

"Perhaps," was all Ruth could think of to say. She thought it was quite a joke.

Special Officer Smith had long before gone home for dry clothes, and then to report to the club president, Bradley Nelson.

Ruth and her father met out on the terrace about an hour later for breakfast.

Brad approached them.

"I'm on my way to teach a smart-Aleck a good lesson," Nelson said, and started to explain. "I'm going up and talk to him. He may be a college professor or he may be a crook, but I can make him see that it is silly of him to try and get into our exclusive crowd."

"Um-m-m," murmured J. G. Gaffeney, thinking of the time when he was twenty-five and earning twelve a week carrying the chain for a surveying outfit.

That afternoon on the links Nelson was explaining to Ruth and her father that this Hartwell chap would bear watching.

Nelson Explains

"There's something suspicious going on in the old Chester place he leased," Nelson declared.

"Did you—er—tell him not to presume to mingle with your crowd?" J. G. asked.

Bradley Nelson reddened.

"What did he say?" Ruth demanded.

"Well, he strikes me as being a sort of radical, a Socialist or Bolshevik. He said he had no ambitions to mingle with the self-styled elite of the colony here, but that he proposed to take his swim every morning."

Ruth and her father grinned.

The weeks went on and almost every morning Professor Hartwell and "Miss Dutton" enjoyed a sunrise swim.

And then, one morning, as Hartwell sat out on the float and watched Ruth swim out to him, his face was rather grave.

"Good morning, Professor!" cried Ruth.

"Good morning, Miss Ruth Dutton Gaffeney," Hartwell answered, gravely.

Ruth turned red and choked a little, then she laughed.

"You strike me as a sensible man, Mr. Hartwell," she said.

"Too sensible to be sore because of my harmless little deception. If you were in my place would you proclaim to any strange man that you were J. G. Gaffeney's daughter?"

"Why not? Gaffeney may be a big trust-maker, but he's a great man, hard worker, keen at business, came up from a poor boy and never mixed in scandals. He's not a father to be ashamed of."

"You ought to be smarter—a college professor and everything. Didn't it occur to you that most young men pretend to admire me when in reality they are thinking of Dad's money?"

"Yes—no, it didn't occur to me. You are doubtless right about it. All right, Ruth, we'll continue being friends and I shall continue to admire you and not think of your father's money in connection with you."

Nelson's Flop

Of course Bradley Nelson learned that Ruth and this mysterious Prof. Hartwell were having sunrise swims. He didn't like it. All his attempts to rush Ruth into matrimony had failed. He was rather desperate. So he went up to see Hartwell at the old Chester place.

If he had known that Ruth, in her little yellow car, was out on the back driveway under an early apple tree he would have been more furious. A young chap came and gave Hartwell a card. Ruth got a glance at the card and said nothing. Ben Hartwell excused himself and went around front. Ruth leaped out of the car and peeped.

Nelson, with all the dignity of a great potentate, started to tell Hartwell that he ought to have more sense than to force his company on Miss Gaffeney.

He only got as far as Ruth's name when Hartwell socked Mr. Bradley Nelson so suddenly and so neatly that Nelson did a flop on the lawn, scrambled up and beat it to his car. Ruth rushed back to her own car and sat very still when Hartwell returned.

"It was nothing important," he said.

"Am I important?"

You saw?"

Ruth nodded.

"You are more important than I dare admit, even to myself, Ruth, right now. A little later——"

He kissed her.

But he didn't propose.

It was a week later that Bradley Nelson was telling J. G. Gaffeney that he had the low-down on Hartwell.

"He's a bootlegger—makes it right in the old Chester place. I've had detectives at work, and they have seen the big stills. We're going to raid him tonight and drive him out," Nelson said.

"Good," agreed Gaffeney.

Ruth rushed up to warn Hartwell, but had a breakdown and had to walk part of the way. The raiders passed her. When she got there she saw her father and Hartwell having a great laugh.

Nelson and his raiding agents looked mighty cheap.

Ben Hartwell did have, it is true, four big stills in operation, but he wasn't making booze—he was working out a new oil refining process!

When his experiments worked out and Gaffeney took him into his company, Hartwell went to Ruth.

"I worked differently, dear," he said. "I went after your father's money first—I got plenty of that—now I want you."

Sewickley Valley Unites In Honoring Priest

An exemplary community spirit most edifying to behold is that which is reflected in the arrangements for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. William P. Curtin, pastor of St. James' Roman Catholic Church of Sewickley. It is not unusual for such events in the life of a priest to be celebrated, but generally the festivities are confined to the congregation of which he is the pastor.

In this case, however, the Sewickley valley unites in honoring its parish priest, and his jubilee is to be publicly celebrated tomorrow, with the burgesses of Sewickley and Edgeworth and ministers and lay representatives of leading Protestant denominations taking part.

This, we believe, indicates even more than a community spirit. To many it will seem a real Christian manifestation of friendliness, neighborliness and brotherly love.

Bar to Voice Choice On Martin Successor

In its editorial comment on the death of the late Judge Richard W. Martin, the Sun-Telegraph suggested the hope that the appointment of his successor "will fall to a man of high character—such a man, for instance, as might be selected by a vote of the Bar Association."

It develops that Gov. Fisher will be given opportunity of making such a selection. The Bar Association has made arrangements for a referendum through which three candidates will be selected for submission to the governor.

There is no assurance, of course, that Gov. Fisher will appoint any of the three, but members of the bar, at least, will have earned commendation for attempting to get onto the bench men they feel will be especially fitted for the position.

Death of M. G. Brumbaugh Takes Educator-Governor

The number of living ex-governors of Pennsylvania is reduced in the death of Martin Grove Brumbaugh, who served as chief executive of the commonwealth 1915-1919. Mr. Brumbaugh's position in state history will reflect a situation by which men sometimes come into office through "accident."

He was one of the three governors of the last quarter century who was prominent because of scholarly attainments rather than as a result of political affiliation, the others having been the late Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker and Edwin S. Stuart, who succeeded him. They became choice of the Republican party because in those years there were strong undercurrents of protest against the state machine, which responded by presenting men of high type, above suspicion of political intrigue, as candidates.

It was under similar circumstances that Mr. Brumbaugh became the head of his party ticket, the result being an educator mounting to the seat of governor. There he showed some independence and consequently was not entirely in favor with the powers that be at the time of his retirement. His administration was marked by gains in welfare legislation.

Costly Crime

Six Billions a Year.

Crime takes six and one-half cents out of every dollar earned in the United States, says Vincent Cullen, vice president of the National Surety Company.

The total annual income of the American people is ninety billion dollars. The total crime bill, conservatively estimated, is six billions.

Half of this is money lost directly through crime itself, by theft, burglary, larceny, embezzlement or swindling.

The other half is paid in taxes for the prevention, prosecution and punishment of crime.

Six billions a year is MONEY, even in America.

Much could be done with that sum, were it not earmarked for crime, but available for schools.

It would mean an education for every boy and girl in the land, and the end of that illiteracy among adults which disgraces us as a nation.

And so spent, it might do as much to check crime as it does now. Certainly it could not do much less.

Open Season for Culture

Husbands Will Be Interested.

A new horror in home life is advocated by Dr. Bruno Roselli, of the Vassar faculty. Speaking to 2,000 clubwomen recently, he urged them to think less about the welfare of the world in general, and to spend more time uplifting their husbands.

Dr. Roselli, oddly enough, is a bachelor.

Men are too busy to acquire learning, he says, and it is up to their wives to educate them. The fireside is to be converted into a night school. The sports page of the evening paper is OUT. Talks by the missus on Greek architecture, Renaissance painting and Russian novels must take its place.

The season is open for culture, it appears. And unless we mistake the views of the average husband, it is also open for Dr. Roselli.

Don't Let Them Frame You! -:- Drawn by Nelson Harding

Beware the frame up that may lurk
In parley and in bargaining.
Your portrait in that frame will prove
To be a very foolish thing.

Be wide awake and watchful or
A member of the League you'll be
And tangled in the feuds and fears
Of interests across the sea.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Break-Away Street Cars

CITY service in New York reached a new low level when a street car fell apart.

The last time we saw this act was 30 years ago in "Eight Bells." The brothers Byrnes drove on the stage in a break-away cab which was kicked apart by the break-away hoss which then proceeded to fall apart itself.

"Bugs" Baer

The brothers Byrnes tumbled to the floor in championship style favored at Miami fights. The hind legs of the hoss galloped off the stage while the front legs remained to sing top tenor in the chorus.

There were four brothers Byrnes. Two in the cab. Two in the hoss.

There were 20 passengers in the New York break-away street car. Everything was as happy as alimony bells when the conductor yanked the bell rope and the floor fell out of the car.

The front platform continued about its business up the avenue with the motorman skipping his usual stops. The sides of the car separated like the petals of a rose on a June morning.

Twenty passengers tumbled out of the apple-cart while the conductor chinned himself on the bell rope.

A venerable old gentleman rolled into the gutter with a valuable transfer in his hand. The transfer was pink in color. But the old citizen has disembarked at the wrong junction.

Nobody knew exactly what to do. If that had happened in the Army a surgeon would have painted the car with iodine and marked it "light duty."

If it had happened in the Navy they would have taken the guns out of the turrets and put in more typewriters.

A mechanical autopsy indicated that the break-away car had been built in the dark ages and couldn't stand the bright sunshine.

None of the passengers were equipped with parachutes and all of them got bad tumbles. An inspector reprimanded the conductor for yanking the bell rope too hard.

An hour later the motorman returned with the executive end of the car. He had traveled three miles before police stopped him because he didn't have a permit to parade.

This little incident shows the opportunities in America for a young man. Now if we can only get break-away telephone booths, taxicabs and swivel chairs we could have some fun with our work.

We suggest that every big city purchase a fleet of these street cars to relieve the monotony of prosperity and health.

DRAGONS IN CLOVER

By Herbert Kaufman

THE great auk long ago retired from business into legend; the last mammoth was trapped in a Siberian glacier; the dodo has gone "where the woodbine twineth;" no two authorities ENTIRELY agree upon the identities of Apocrypha's sea serpents, unicorns or the purple-tailed wampus; but dragons have been multiplying instead of vanishing.

Despite the premature boasts of early sages, they were NOT rubbed out of fashion by the intrepid lance of St. George. It's t'other way 'round—dragon-killing simply went out of style, along with the tradition that men should acquire merit by serving common rights before self-interest, and by relinquishing unfair profit and indecent advantage for patriotism, chivalry and glory.

In yonder age, valor, not campaign contributions and party fealty, conferred the spurs of knighthood. Titles were won in chain mail, not with CHAIN STORES.

Yesterday DIDN'T weigh its leaders on bank balances, and golden jimmies couldn't burglarize public office or the SOCIAL REGISTER.

THERE was but ONE route to esteem and admiration—the path of honor, discovery and integrity.

Then, annals were written in the red blood of courage. Celebrity waited until OUR era to consult Dun and Bradstreet, and issue CHECKBOOK peerages.

The twentieth century, become merchant and financier, ranks the numismatist above the statesman, fawns to the go-getter, and postles the wrong-eraser.

Money is king, and adventure and science are lackeys in its household.

Youth no longer parades the highways to foray against the brigand and the economic cut-throat.

WE'VE delegated THAT job to the Sherman Act, FEDERAL COMMISSIONS and the uniformed police.

Romance is making its last stand in the monthly magazine and the theater, but clean purpose and clean nostrils have as many opportunities to rid the earth of outlaws and skunks in 1930, as ever challenged Sir Launcelot or Sir Nige.

Robber barons have changed their technique and weapons, but not their INSTINCTS. They've deserted the den in the fen, and the castle on the crag for HANDIER quarters in the SKYSCRAPER district.

Nowadays, they hide behind special privilege, dummy directors, congressional lobbyists and closed doors, instead of closed visors.

Dragons in the course of evolution, have dropped their scales and tails, but retain their aboriginal STEALTH and rapacity.

Graft and dishonor still pollute politics; rigged markets and usury continue to loot credulous inexperience; unchecked drug traffic slithers its dread toils through the land; corruption and intolerance whisper behind the arras and the bench.

PREDATORY capital plunders the national reserve; public service corporations dictate, through party bosses, the personnel of their own supervisors, and bribery distributes slush funds in legislature, court room and the buyer's office.

St. George never had a whack at such good hunting. But his descendents prefer to stalk deer and shoot quail and whip the streams for trout. His favorite sport lacks appeal for contemporary don't-give-a-whoopness.

We've transferred community conscience to demogogy and legal advice.

"The St. George Club" is empty—but the "Let George Do It" Society adds a fresh member with every clock tick. And that's why the dragons are living IN CLOVER.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

BAD BOYS—

Filthy little creatures, scurrying like rats through city gutters—vicious, furtive rowdies, loafing at street corners, breaking suddenly into dreadful activity with stubby automatics.

Bad boys—what makes them? Why will sallow, beady-eyed little Jimmy Nolan, on the East Side, end in the chair and your chubby, rosy-cheeked little scallywag wind up as head of the Rotary Club? Is there some taint in the blood? Some cruel decree of God?

"No," says County Judge George W. Martin, "nothing but lack of play."

And Judge Martin isn't sentimentalizing. He handles boys by the thousand. Boys who come up from the dark, narrow runways under the bridge, boys who sneak out of reeking little alleys or are spewed out of crumbling tenements.

And he sees other boys, too—husky, glowing youngsters from the clean little homes of Hackensack, Elizabeth, Rockaway, Flushing. Towns where they have vacant lots and mud puddles 'n' dogs 'n' a fellow can dig. The kids from under the bridge come up to Judge Martin for stealing automobiles, carrying guns, sticking up service stations. But the other kids, they pass Judge Martin by and go laughing on their healthy, upward way.

What's the answer? Easy enough.

"If you don't give a boy an opportunity to live and play in wholesome conditions," says Judge Martin, "his energies will run to crime, regardless of the number and severity of the laws to curb crime."

Think it over. Remember when you were 14 and you 'n' the gang dug that cave in the vacant lot? And how you all swiped potatoes and doughnuts and bacon from your mothers and had pirate feeds? Worked off a lot of kid cussedness digging that cave and swiping that grub, didn't you? Ever stop to think what might have happened if you couldn't have worked it off in that perfectly natural way?

Look at Jimmy Nolan. He's what happens when kids can't work off normal cussedness and curiosity in natural ways. Jimmy's only 7. Already he's swiping from street stands, brawling in gutters. How long before he's swiping from pockets, brawling with guns?

You think you'd have been different . . . or that your boy would be different . . . from Jimmy if given Jimmy's breaks!

Don't kid yourself. We are what we're made. Raise a kid in sunshine and the chances are nine to one that he'll be a man. Raise a kid in jungle darkness and filth and he'll be a beast.

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw mud, either.

Just because a man doesn't get to the front doesn't necessarily prove that he is a back number.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE task has been accomplished for the great majority of layers. As a result, we can say that one kind of fossil belonged to an animal which lived and died before another kind of animal found fossilized in another layer; and the bewildering variety of life becomes more orderly through receiving an arrangement in time.

To take merely the same examples we first mentioned, ammonites are found to be absent from all layers below the coal measures and from all above the chalk, but present in all congenial layers between these limits, while ichthyasaurs, though they have the chalk as their upper limit, only extend downwards through about two-thirds of the layers in which ammonites are found.

H. G. Wells

This fundamental principle, that the different layers of the earth's crust can be arranged in a time-sequence is the basis of that department of science palaeontology.

The principle is both fundamental and simple; but there are sometimes difficulties in applying it. Part of the record may have been destroyed or defaced till the life-story it contains becomes illegible; or a whole set of pages may have been crumpled or turned upside down into reverse order (as in the upthrust of some mountain ranges). So that their proper arrangement is a matter of the greatest difficulty; or an isolated page or chapter from some out-of-the-way corner of the globe may be hard to place.

Happily such difficulties only concern parts of the record; whole chapters of it have the pages all tidily in order, the fossil-writing abundant and easy to interpret.

In most cases these confusions have been analyzed and overcome, and the result is that, with rare exceptions, the fossil-bearing rocks of the world can now be assigned to their proper position in the time-scale — their right place among the pages of the Book of Earth.

As a result, the earth's history has been divided up, as this book is divided into books, chapters, sections, and so forth, into subdivisions of various grades.

Two sets of terms are used according as we are thinking in terms of geological time, or in terms of layers of rock.

The main divisions of geological time are usually called Eras; within each Era a number of Periods (or Epochs) are distinguished, and they are further divided into sub-periods.

When, on the other hand, we are speaking of rock-layers, we refer to a system as our main unit, roughly corresponding to the rocks laid down during one Period of time.

The Systems are divided into Formations, and so on down to the narrow zones, which may be likened to the paragraphs of a book.

The Cretaceous System is thus an actual set of rock layers laid down during the time of the Cretaceous Period.

For our purpose, the Eras and Periods are all we need trouble about; when we need to go into further detail, we can specify sub-periods by simply using the words "upper," "middle" or "lower."

For instance, the Carboniferous period during which the world's coal was deposited, is the fifth of the six Periods of the third main Era. The Upper Carboniferous, then, is its latest sub-period, for obviously the uppermost layer must have been the last deposited.

The names of the Periods are at present, unfortunately, unfamiliar to the majority of people. They should be as well known as the names of the continents and main countries of the world, or as the great dates of human history.

Now the fact of primary importance in the history of life, displayed by these geological Periods is the orderly succession of living forms. They progress. The progress from simple beginnings to more complex and versatile types.

At the bottom (earliest) of our rock series come rocks with barely a trace of life and then in succession life unfolds.

Comes first the Archeozoic Era with the dawn of life. Then the Proterozoic Era, with creatures as highly organized as worms. Then the vast Palaeozoic Era. There are no vertebrata at all and no evidence of land life in its opening period, the Cambrian. Then in a second period, the Ordovician, is the dawn of vertebrate life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 17.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and with my wife to old Trinity and heard a brave sermon on a text from the Philippians: "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Jesus Christ." Then wandering about the chipped and scarred grave stones in the churchyard.

Nor have I ever found a more melancholy spot than Battery Park on a wintry Sunday, what with the icy winds from the harbor, the sad swish of waves and dolorous boom of bellbuoys. So strolling along South street and through Coenties Slip and the deserted fish market.

Home and discussed the bad estate of radio offerings these days. And to the Keats Speeds for the best dinner I ever ate and Aubry and Peggy Hoyt Eads there and we sat around a great open fire watching the flames and in contentful talk until long after midnight.

Sutton Place, a community lily blooming in a bog of slum squalor, grows in opulence. On its dark cowering canvas, splotched with outlines of sullen tenements, are traced glittering lights of modern mansions and apartment houses. In the background are the lazy river and fretted hulk of Blackwell's prison.

In one block shawled women are chopping kindling and in the next gold-braided doormen are opening limousine doors at canopied entrances, a pattern of poverty and splendor. Something in the dream-like imponderable atmosphere has attracted etchers from all over.

At one end two abandoned breweries stand sulking in the gloom—the owners hoping for a change that will restore the old order. The Charles Lindberghs occupy an apartment in the 300 block. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt lives on a prominent corner and Miss Anne Morgan nearby.

Too, the passionate minstrel, Irving Berlin, is domiciled there, his credo hanging in the hall and reading:

Let me be a troubador
And I will ask for nothing more
Than one short hour or so
To sing my song and go.

Prowling through Sutton Place was not spoiled for me, despite the fact that when asking my companion, Lisle Bell, if he would not enjoy living there, he replied: "I sutton-ly would."

Louis H. Chalif, who once danced for the Czar and presided over the Russian Imperial ballet, is celebrating his 25th year as a teacher of the dance in New York. Among his pupils was Gloria Gould along with others from the Social Register. He has endured through all the dancing nonsense—the turkey trot, bunny hug, shimmy, Charleston, Black Bottom and other hip shakings—teaching only simple and graceful steps. Other instructors have come and gone but Chalif's monument is a million dollar seven-story marble dance studio on West 57th street.

An antiquarian discovers that a man was arrested on Oct. 31, 1889, for driving an automobile in Central Park. It was—hold 'er Newt!—against the law because it frightened teams of horses.

One of New York's most successful department stores attributes its enormous and increasing patronage to training its sales force never to misrepresent. In pay envelopes each week is a red printed slip reading: "We would rather never make a sale in this store than to have a single purchase misrepresented."

A letter from a cabaret chorus girl announces her real name is "Joy Happee." And she further avers her dressing room mate is "Ima Gloome." And being a bit clairvoyant, we see a press agent looking over her shoulder as she writes.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU think too much about the past?

Bitter regrets over what might have been, what you might have done and too little thought for the future?

You feel that you have had the best opportunities than can come to you.

There is little ahead to encourage and inspire you to greater effort.

But how do you know what lies just around the corner for someone in your line who is working to get ahead of the average man or woman?

Don't be satisfied with what you are doing or pessimistic about having a chance to advance if you are prepared to go farther up the scale.

Forget those gloomy forebodings and past failures except to make them serve as experience or warning against their repetition.

If your mind dwells on your mistakes in the past you can't think about ways to make a success when your mind is full of hindrance thoughts.

You can't make a bottle hold water and milk at the same time without one or the other being diluted.

You are wasting valuable time thinking about your failures.

Again, forget the past and press on to greater things.
